GRANGE CALLS FOR END TO NEW CANADIAN PACT

Blast of Criticism Is Aimed at Capital.

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The National Grange, by a unanimous vote of delegates, called upon the administration tonight to rescind its new reciprocal trade treaty with Canada.

The report predicted that the treaty will "prove injurious rather than beneficial."

"We already have a domestic surplus of practically every agricultural commodity on which tarif concessions have been made to Canada," it continued. "Foreign imports cannot fail to add to these surpluses and depress the domestic price level on farm commodities."

Will Depress Price Level.

Quota limitations, said the Grange, cannot prevent the creation of a small surplus sufficient to "depress the price level of an entire crop or commodity."

It declared there was "no justification for slashing the tarif on seed potatoes," and that prices paid for maple sugar have been so low "that only a fraction of our trees have been tapped, yet the tarif on this product has been reduced." Injury of dairy, live stock, and hay interests also was predicted.

"One of the worst features of the whole situation," said the report, "is that while we receive some concessions from one country, Canada, under the most favored nation clause which has been written into trade treaties in which we have entered with all the leading nations of the world, we must give these nations the same concessions that we give Canada, although they make no concession to us."

BLAST OF CRITICISMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—A blast of protest against the Canadian reciprocal trade treaty was loosed on the White House today. From political leaders, lumbermen, manufacturers and farmers came a flood of dissent which indicated that the treaty may be a major issue in the 1936 presidential campaign.

The White House maintained a strict silence as the trend of unfavorable reaction increased. Attachés reported that President Roosevelt will seek support for his treaty on his prediction that it will double trade.

While a few administration leaders in congress rallied to the support of the New Deal with assertions that the treaty was a step in the right direction, other political leaders opened fire on the pact's provisions. Particularly outspoken were Senator Thomas D. Schall [Rep., Minn.], Representative Ralph E. Church [Rep., Ill.], and Ralph O. Brewster [Rep., Maine].

Officials of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association here asserted that the provisions for a 50 per cent reduction in lumber duties would "paralyze the general economy of important parts of this country." Dairymen, farmers and packing representatives said the treaty would injure their industries, while many manufacturers held the treaty would be of little benefit to them.

Power of the President.

The President's power to make tarif treaties arises from a bill passed by both houses and which he signed June 12, 1934. This act specifically gave him power to reduce or raise tarifs as much as 50 per cent and to promote reciprocal trade agreements, all by executive act.

The new act was an amendment to the tarif act of 1930. Such changes or agreements as he may make, either by his own authority or upon the advice of the tarif commission, are subject to automatic termination upon due notice to the foreign governments involved at the end of not more than three years after the agreement comes into force. If not terminated then they are subject to termination thereafter upon not more than six months' notice. The President also is given power to terminate at any time any such proclamation changing tarif rates, but the new Canadian treaty carries a three year clause.

The rates of the treaty go into effect Jan. 1, although the pact, to be permanent, must be ratified by the Canadian parliament. In the negotia-

JAPAN POISES ARMY TO FREE NORTH CHINA

Guns, Planes Massed at Great Wall.

BULLETIN.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

TOKIO, Nov. 19 (Tuesday).—The central Chinese government has decided not to attempt to interfere with the north China independence movement and to give tacit recognition to the new regime, the Rengo (Japanese) correspondent reported today from Nanking.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 18.—Twelve thousand picked troops from the Kwantung branch of the Japanese army were poised at Shanhaikwan today ready to advance through the great wall. They are equipped with vast war stores, including armed cars, tanks, artillery, and air bombers. Thus imperial Japan stands ready to welcome and assist a new, autonomous north China government.

The Rengo [Japanese] News agency and the Tokio paper Asahi predicted independence would be declared at Peiping Nov. 20. The newspaper Nichi Nichi said it would come Nov. 23. Tokio dispatches said the new state would be named "Huapeh Liensheng Tzuchih Chengchuan," or "the north China united provinces autonomous régime."

A declaration of independence, the dispatches continued, will outline these four principles and aims:

1. The complete autonomy of north China.

2. The severance of all financial and economic ties with the Nanking government.

3. The coöperation of the Japanese army in the prevention of the spread of communism.

4. The promotion of cordial relations among north China, Japan, and Manchukuo.

Wait for War Lord.

Developments in the north hinge on the attitude of Gen. Han Fu-chu, war lord of Shantung province, who is scheduled to reach Peiping Nov. 20. He will confer with Sung Cheh-yuan, defense commissioner of Peiping and Tientsin, who is said to be coöperating with the Japanese army.

The two will meet with Gen. Kenji Doihara, director of the "special service department" of the Japanese Kwantung army in Manchuria, who is at Peiping. Doihara staged the "Mukden incident" in 1931 and is popularly known as the "Lawrence of Manchukuo" and as Japan's "empire builder."

The northern autonomy declaration will embrace the territories north of the Yellow river including the provinces of Shantung, Hopei, Shansi, Chahar and Suiyuan.

The population of these five provinces totals approximately 95,000,000 persons. If and when this population becomes a Japanese protected community like Manchukuo's 32,000,000 inhabitants, it will mean that Japan has been instrumental in wresting from Chinese sovereignty an aggregation of humanity approximately equal to the population of the United States.

Manchukuo's "Life Line."

Japanese military authorities have now declared:

"North China constitutes the life line of Manchukuo and similarly Manchukuo constitutes the life line of Japan."

The separatist movement is the initial phase of Japan's new policy with regard to China declared in August.

The spokesman of the Kwantung army declared that any attempt of the central Chinese authorities to interfere in the north China autonomy movement "will be countered with the military strength of the Japanese army."

The spokesman further declared Japan's intention to prevent the entry of the national government troops into the northern area since such would violate the terms of the Boxer protocol, signed in 1900; the Tangku truce, signed in May, 1933, and the further agreement signed last summer by Gen. Ho Ying-chin, Nanking war minister, and Gen. Yoshijiro Umezu of the Japanese garrison.

WHEN MUSSOLINI LEARNED TO DEFY THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Tune In This New Mystery; It's a Guppy!

For the last three weeks residents of a North Worth avenue neighborhood in Elgin have had trouble with their radio sets. At 12 second intervals, day and night, a click, a buzz, interrupted the reception of broadcasts.

Radio mechanics did a thriving business on the 50 or 60 sets affected in the neighborhood. New tubes were inserted, aerials were torn down and rebuilt. But the clicking and the buzzing continued.

Air Beacon Investigated.

The neighbors compared notes and one man noted that an airline beacon two miles west of Worth avenue revolves six times a minute and sweeps the air above the residential district with its beam. He figured that the beam was interrupting radio reception.

Postmaster Joseph Kreeger was consulted and he conferred with the air navigation division of the department of commerce in Chicago. R. J. Thompson, chief airways beacon mechanic, was sent to Elgin to investigate.

He stayed in Elgin two days and decided the airline beam was too powerful. The beacon transformer was changed, reducing the intensity of the beam.

But Click-Buzz Lingers On.

But the clicking and the buzzing in the radios of North Worth avenue did not stop.

The gas and electric company in Elgin, in order to protect its electricity customers, decided to make a thorough investigation. "Trouble shooters" went to work.

Yesterday they reached the home of James W. Starrett at 245 North Worth avenue, almost the last one on the list.

Short Circuits? No, None.

"Any short circuits in the house?" they asked Mr. Starrett, who is the head of a machinist company at 2657 Diversey avenue, Chicago. He said he knew of none.

The trouble shooters started at the top of the house. When they came to the living room there was Caroline Starrett, 14 years old, playing with her collection of goldfish and guppies. They stopped a moment to watch.

"You know," confided Caroline, "I've another guppy in the basement. It got sick three weeks ago. Some one told me it ought to have heat treatments, so we put it in a bowl in the basement and daddy fixed up an awfully clever thing."

"It's an electric heating element with a thermostat that keeps a constant temperature in the bowl," put in Mr. Starrett.

"Let's see it," suggested the trouble shooters. They were led to the basement.

In the heater they found a short circuit. Mr. Starrett looker startled.

"Think of that!" he exclaimed. "Our radio had the click and buzz, too, but I'd completely forgotten until now that my thermostatic guppy heater went on and off every 12 seconds."

Last night the North Worth avenue radios performed without interruption.

LONELINESS DRIVES SOLITARY PRISONER TO DIG OUT OF JAIL

Butler, Mo., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Life as the only prisoner in the Bates county jail irked Charles Beeman.

"Why, it's so lonely in this place I can hear myself think," he told Sherif Bert Bradley. "Won't you please go out and bring in some company for me?"

But things were quiet in the county. Several days passed and still there was no cellmate for Beeman.

Yesterday he escaped by digging through the brick wall of his cell. A note addressed to the sherif explained:

"I just couldn't stand it. You have no one to blame but yourself. I warned you."

Widow Tells How Plotters Took Savings

In a halting, timorous voice, at times almost inaudible, Mrs. Lydia Welker, 78 years old, of Wyaconda, Mo., a toilworn widow, told Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday the story of how she was frightened and swindled out of her life savings of $7,000.

She was testifying in the trial of six persons, indicted for violating the new national stolen property act, passed in 1934, which makes interstate transfer of stolen securities a federal offense.

Immediately after her testimony, three of the defendants, George M. Lindsay Jr., Andrew Ritter, alias Kassmir, and Curtis W. Coats, entered pleas of guilty. Coats testified later in the day as a government witness. Two of the defendants, Edward B. Gable and Sam Caplow, made no change in their plea of not guilty. The sixth defendant, Mrs. Helen G. Stroh, who was Coats' stenographer, has been granted a severance and is expected to testify for the government.

Face Ten Years in Cell.

Judge Woodward is hearing the case without a jury. If found guilty the defendants face a maximum penalty under the stolen securities act of 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine, and under a conspiracy bill 2 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Shocked by the recent death of her husband, H. C. Welker, 85 years old, and enfeebled by years of work, Mrs. Welker scarcely was able to walk to the witness stand. Once seated, she smoothed out her old-fashioned black dress, twisted the broad gold wedding band on her left hand, pushed back her spectacles on her forehead, and recounted her story, prompted by Assistant District Attorney Martin Ward.

In the week before Oct. 30, 1934, Ritter came to the Welkers seeking the bonds they held on the Lake Shore Drive building, then under reorganization. Mrs. Welker had sent the bonds to a Chicago bank, she said, but while she had her "old black box" open Ritter noticed seven $1,000 Liberty bonds.

High Pressure Salesmanship.

The next night he returned with Coats. Assured that Mrs. Welker and her invalid husband were alone in the house, the aged woman related, Ritter pounded the table, shook his fist and in a loud voice demanded that she turn over the bonds in exchange for deeds to ten parcels of Chicago real estate. Coats testified later he bought the deeds for $50.

"I looked into my husband's eyes and they were fearful," continued Mrs. Welker. "He said to me, 'Lydia, you had better give him the bonds.' So I did. But I didn't want that land; I wanted our bonds."

On the next day, her birthday, Mrs. Welker, fearing that she and her husband had lost all they possessed, wrote a letter to Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, asking for his help. Federal agents found the bonds in a loop bank.

State's Witness Bares Scheme.

Coats testified they had been placed there by Gable, who was to receive 2½ per cent for handling them. By the terms of the deal, Coats said, he was to receive $750 for letting Ritter use his valueless real estate, while Ritter and Lindsay would split the balance. Coats' cross-examination by Gable's attorney will continue today, and Ritter and Lindsay will testify.

Another government witness yesterday was Justice of the Peace J. R. Fee of Wyaconda, an old friend of Mrs. Welker. A tall, partly bald man with long white whiskers, wearing stained overalls, Fee said he directed Ritter to the Welkers when Ritter came to him seeking persons who held any of the Lake Shore Drive building bonds.

ARMY ON GUARD AS MOBS MENACE ENVOYS IN ROME

Mussolini Plans to Hit Sanctionists.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

ROME, Nov. 19 (Tuesday).—Fascism's highest authority, the grand council, approved Premier Mussolini's program of Ethiopian conquest and resistance to league of nations sanctions today, taking a new, relentless stand against compromise. Absence of comment in a terse communique permitted Italians to conclude that their dictator would face the world firmly in his determination to conquer Ethiopia. Authoritative foreign sources later said Mussolini's review of the situation included an important resume of the Mediterranean status and told the Associated Press there would be no more troop withdrawals from Libya for the present.

[Special to the London Daily Telegraph and the Chicago Tribune.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 19 [Tuesday].—Italy met the first day of the economic boycott put in force by fifty-two nations of the world with a great display of beflagged buildings and with hostile demonstrations against "sanctionist countries."

Great Britain once again was selected as the villain of the league of nations, which is directing the economic warfare in an effort to throttle Italy's trade, bring Benito Mussolini to his knees and compel him to stop his war against Ethiopia.

A great patriotic demonstration was organized to mark a meeting of Mussolini's powerful Fascist grand council, which deliberated until after midnight behind closed doors in the Palazzo Venezia. Outside Italians stood in the rain shouting: "Viva Il Duce!"

Speaks of War and Sanctions.

Members of the grand council heard Mussolini speak of war and sanctions for several hours. What he said was a secret. Shortly after 1 a. m. a terse communique was issued. It said the council had listened to Il Duce's "report of a military and political character," and that another meeting will take place Dec. 18.

The hostile demonstrations, particularly against Britain, began shortly after 9 a. m. yesterday. Rome university students gathered outside the main buildings and marched toward the British embassy. Their numbers was estimated at between 200 and 300, but the official figure was "no more than 50."

The procession was turned away from the embassy by detachments of regular troops commanded by mounted officers. Two small caliber guns were prominently placed near the iron gates of the embassy and the troops were so placed they could, on a moment's notice, block every approach within 200 yards of the building. Military and plain clothes police guarded the embassy garden both inside and out.

Cry "Down with Britain."

Realizing they had been frustrated, the students marched toward the Piazza di Spagna, which is the center of the English quarter. The throng shouted: "Down with Britain! Down with sanctions!"

Their aim was to organize demonstrations outside the British consulate, a British bank, British shops and clubs. They found the ten approaches to the square barred by double lines of regular troops, grenadiers and military police.

No students were allowed to pass and the piazza was as barren as a desert all day long.

Shops in this quarter, too, were empty. The owners lounged in doorways watching the unusual sight on the blockaded square. . . .

Troops Push Back Students.

The students then tried to rush the cordons which guarded the historic Corso where several British shops are located. They met reverses there, however, and before long were driven across the Tiber onto the right bank.

There they could find no excuse for a demonstration and by midday dispersed. Several, in the meantime, had been arrested for trying to push past the soldiers.

In the small street between the Piazza di Spagna and the Corso, a group forced a restaurant to cover its English name with the Italian flag.

Later several of those who took part in this incident were arrested.

The troops of Italy were ordered to guard well the embassies and legations of all "sanctionist nations" as well as consulates throughout the land. Officers instructed their men to prevent overzealous patriots from storming the buildings and further aggravate an already delicate situation.

The British shops in Rome remained open all day. On the advice of the police other shopkeepers removed all "sanctionist goods" from their windows. All the shops prominently displayed Italian goods. Posters in national colors asserted that only Italian products were sold. These notices were plastered all over the city.

Another placard, picturing Mussolini in a steel helmet, called on Italians to buy Italian and be proud of it. Other shops displayed notices that they will carry no more foreign goods.

Several signs cautioned Italians in this manner: "Do not buy British!"

Britain holds first place in the fierce, burning resentment Italians feel against sanctionist countries, with Belgium and France competing for second place. Everything British has become hateful to the Italians.

Italy Digs In for Siege.

Meanwhile, Italy is digging in for the economic siege.

Restaurants in Rome are doing very little business at luncheon time. To save fuel offices are working continuously from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. with a half hour for lunch. Many business men are taking their midday meals with them and eat in their offices.

Starting Wednesday, banks will be opened from 8 a. m. until 1 p. m. when they will close for the day.

In the schools children are being told that sanctions are imposed because Italy is striving to win a strip of land in the sun. Then they give their teachers scraps of iron and silver and the other metals they are able to collect.

They are being told these will be melted down to help the soldiers fight Ethiopia.

ITALY STRIKES BACK

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 18. — Thousands of everyday folk in this country were scratching their heads today over the brand new development in the relations between peoples. This development is called "sanctions." It is not a war and it is not quite peace, but it threatens to affect individuals daily as profoundly as either.

In theory the boycott on Italian products and a partial embargo on exports to Italy went into effect at 12:01 o'clock this morning. Legally, however, sanctions cannot be enforced until tomorrow, when the decree putting sanctions into effect becomes effective.

This made little actual difference, however, because the Italian countersanctions went into effect this morning. The inhabitants of the little towns on the French side of the Italian border, notably Modane and Mentor, awoke to find no French goods could pass the frontier.

At Modane, the sanctions experiment has a tragic meaning for the local population which depends for a living on commerce with Italy. Fifteen transfer agents in that town do a flourishing business handling freight. Each employs ten or more persons. Counting their women and children, some 600 inhabitants at Modane are dependent on this business. These workmen will have to be dismissed by their employers.

According to the latest estimates, at least 50,000 Frenchmen will be thrown out of work as a result of France's economic war with Italy.

May Add Embargo on Oil.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Great Britain tonight prepared to bear down on Italy still harder if sanctions against the Fascist nation fail.

An embargo on oil has been suggested with the idea of rendering Italy's highly mechanized army of tanks, airplanes and trucks ineffective in Ethiopia.

The quickness and extent to which the resort to an embargo on oil is taken by Britain and other members of the league of nations will depend on the negotiations now going on with Washington to bring the United States suppliers of oil into the embargo. Tonight there was an intimation that success has already crowned the efforts to drag the United States into this embargo.

Why U. S. Aid is Wanted.

The London Daily Telegraph's diplomatic correspondent said:

"The clear hint from Washington that steps might be taken to insure that American oil companies did not break the ring may have been the deciding factor."

Apparently he meant that if Washington can be won to back up Britain on the oil embargo it will be applied swiftly if Mussolini continues to resist. The correspondent further explained why Washington's cooperation is wanted before Britain and her seconding states in the league take this step against Italy.

"The sanctionist states, if they decide to employ this weapon of the oil embargo, must recognize, however, that so drastic a measure may be regarded by Italy as a hostile act," he said.

In other words, this is the act which Mussolini in his famous speech said he would consider as war and meet with war.

ITALIANS START 'SCISSORS' MOVE ON FOE IN NORTH

Two Columns Move to Encircle Ethiopians.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

ASMARA, Eritrea, Nov. 19 [Tuesday].—About 2,000 Ethiopians were reported officially today to have been killed by 20 Italian bombing planes. The aerial squadron under Gen. Aimone fought a two hour battle with a strong Ethiopian land force, official reports said. The bombers were constantly under severe rifle and antiaircraft shell fire, it was reported. After the battle scouting planes found hundreds of Ethiopians dead in the combat valley.

(Picture on back page.)

MAKALE, Ethiopia, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Two fast moving Italian columns began an attempt today to use a "scissors" action on the wily Ras Seyoum, commander of Ethiopia's northern army, and to disperse his followers.

Ras Seyoum was reported to be beating the "chitets" or sounding mobilization drums to gather his men, estimated now at between 20,000 and 30,000.

Among those in pursuit of the former governor of Tigre province is a native Ethiopian called "Estoclu," which is the popular equivalent in this country of "tough guy." Because of his hatred of Ras Seyoum this village leader came to the Italian lines and asked only a chance to fight his foe.

Move to Catch Chieftain.

Scouts said Ras Seyoum had thrown out the blind of an alleged retreat, but in reality was still lurking in the Tembien mountains and might yet fight the Italians before they reach Amba Alaji.

Two columns with mounted artillery from Makale and Hauzien started marching into the Tembien region. Officers said they were expecting word of some contact with the elusive Ras Seyoum any moment.

It was announced a band of Gen. Pietro Maravigna's column penetrated the Dadir region while a Black Shirt squadron took up a position at Adda Tzahma. These developments were part of an encircling movement.

In addition to those troops moving west from Makale and Hauzien, the troops from the right Italian column are moving south from Adowa on Seyoum's left and have almost joined the Makale forces along the Takkaze river. Thus they apparently have forced Seyoum to a last stand in the encircled Tembien region.

Ethiopians Move North.

The air corps, meanwhile, disclosed that a strong body of Ethiopian troops was at Mai Uazu and Aderat and a long column was marching northward between Enda Micael and Duia, south of Makale Should this march continue, the Ethiopians would be bound to come into contact with the Italian troops guarding the heights of Makale.

Gen. Emilio de Bono, who at the age of 70 directed Italian forces in their campaign of conquest, surrendered his command today and left for Rome. The white bearded little general placed Gen. Melchiade Gabba, his chief of staf, in charge. De Bono, upon orders of Premier Mussolini, will be succeeded by Marshal Pietro Badoglio.

[Marshal Badoglio reached Naples last night to sail for Africa, accompanied by his two sons, Paolo and Mario, aviation and artillery officers, respectively.]

Report Bombing of Civilians.

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Ethiopian government said tonight Italian airplanes had bombed the civilian population of Enderta, near Makale, leaving a number of persons dead and wounded.

As Emperor Haile Selassie made ready to depart for the northern front, the government asserted the populace of the northern area around Enderta, which the Italians have occupied, had risen against Italian domination, because of resentment over the bombing.

An official announcement said the refusal of the natives to provide cattle and cereals to the Italians without payment brought on the bombing.

WAR COSTS ITALY $5,000,000 IN TOLLS AT SUEZ CANAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 18. — More than $5,000,000 has been added to the Suez Canal company's revenue during the past ten months by Italy's war against Ethiopia, according to figures which the Daily Telegraph published today.

The Suez Canal company is a French company, but Britain owns seven-sixteenths of the firm's shares. A total of 255,680 soldiers passed through the canal during the past ten months, according to the Telegraph, which adds that these figures present a striking picture of Italy's war. These quarter million troops comprised, together with thousands of tons and munitions and supplies, a total of 458 ship loads.

In ten months nearly 2,000,000 tons of Italian shipping passed eastward through the canal and more than 1,250,000 tons returned in ballast.

The Daily Telegraph says the canal tolls on outbound ships amounted to $3,750,000. Ships returning in ballast pass through at half rates. They paid $1,250,000. For the transport of troops another $1,000,000 was levied.

There have been reports that Italy has not paid in cash for these canal tolls but was extended credit by the French.

ITALIAN PRELATE ASSAILS BOYCOTT; PRAISES IL DUCE

BRINDISI, Italy, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Archbishop Tommaso Valeri issued a pastoral letter today attacking sanctions and urging all Italians to pray for Premier Mussolini and success.

The prelate was the second prominent churchman to take a definite stand for Il Duce and his expansion plan. The first was Cardinal Schuster of Milan.

In his letter Archbishop Valeri condemned the "action which Great Britain's cold egoism and haughtiness have organized to Italy's injury to support the semi-barbarous and slave-owning king who holds an unpopulated and miserable territory four times the size of Italy."

"Walks to Work" as Protest.

PISA, Italy, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Msgr. Gabriele Vettori, 66 years old, archbishop of the city of the leaning tower, decided today to "walk to work" as a protest against sanctions. He made his usual diocesan calls by walking. In the past he rode in an automobile.

HINT SEAMEN'S STRIKE TO HALT SHIPS FOR ITALY

A. F. L. Backs Neutrality Stand of Government.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Organized labor put itself on record tonight against the further shipment to Italy of materials which might be used for war. President William Green of the American Federation of Labor had called upon American industry to heed the warning of President Roosevelt that such shipments are opposed to the spirit of the neutrality act.

Warning industry that "the advice of the President ought to be carried out in spirit and to the letter in executing the neutrality law," Green asserted there was no guarantee of the safety of American seamen on vessels bearing materials to Italy and hinted strongly that continuance of such shipments, particularly oil, might be followed by seamen's strikes.

His remarks, made at a time when the question of American shipments to Italy was troubling fifty-two members of the league of nations who have applied sanctions against Mussolini, were taken as an indication that organized labor was prepared to take strong steps, if necessary, to carry out its stand for neutrality.

Crews Sail at Own Risk.

San Pedro, Cal., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—If the American tramp freighter Oregon, tied up here by the Maritime Federation of the Pacific since last Saturday because her cargo of aviation gasoline assertedly is consigned to Italian Somaliland, goes to sea her crew will not be accorded protection by the United States government if the vessel goes to the Ethiopian war zone.

This interpretation was placed on a message received from Secretary of State Hull in reply to a telegram asking full protection of union members in the Oregon's crew if she is permitted to sail.

Hull's dispatch to Jack Robinson, local president of the federation, said:

"If the gasoline mentioned in your telegram is in fact destined to an Italian possession, no such guarantee as you suggest can be given. Any of our people who voluntarily engage in transactions of any character with either belligerent do so at their own risk."

Watch U. S. Action on Oil.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Nov. 18.—The United States is being watched because of disquieting reports received from Washington that pressure is about to be brought to bear on all principal oil companies to get them to interrupt their exports to Italy. This would be a severe blow, for Italy's other principal sources of supply are in either British or Netherland hands. It is hoped that any such action will not be immediate so that Italy will be able to build up a reserve sufficient for her needs in the East African campaign.

PLANE OF DUCE'S SON-IN-LAW SHOT DOWN BY ENEMY

PARIS, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Havas News agency correspondent reported from Tigre province tonight that the airplane piloted by Count Galeazzo Ciano, son-in-law of Premier Mussolini and aviation leader with the Italian forces in northern Ethiopia, was brought down today by enemy bullets, but the crew escaped harm. The dispatch said the machine, struck by many bullets, was forced to land at Makale, under the protection of Italian guns.

EGYPT BANS RITE FOR SLAIN YOUTH TO QUELL RIOTING

New Outbreak Against British Thwarted.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 18.—"Pitch no tent!" This order was issued by authorities today to the family of Ali Taha Afifi, the student who died yesterday from wounds received in a battle with the police during an anti-British riot. The youth's body was hidden for hours by fellow students to prevent its falling into the hands of the British and being buried in hugger-mugger.

The "pitch no tent" order refers to the Moslem custom of erecting tents before the home of a deceased person where, during three days, visits of condolence are received and mourners recite prayers. Fear that this might lead to further rioting impelled authorities to prohibit the ceremony.

Eighth Student Dies.

Another student died in a hospital today, which brings the fatalities since the anti-British agitation began up to eight, although official sources give only half that number.

A demonstration was planned for this morning in Opera square, directly in front of the Continental hotel where it would have the maximum effect on foreigners. It did not take place because so many police filled the square no one else could enter.

Squad cars and officers with riot equipment patroled the center of Cairo all day. Despite the indignation at the British policy of burying secretly the bodies of those fatally wounded in the student rioting, attempts to hold protest demonstrations so far have been frustrated.

Halt Use of Guns by Police.

Evidence that the British are feeling more confident of their control than before was shown by the orders issued that police no longer shall use firearms except in extreme cases. Hereafter, mounted charges and fire hose will be relied on to disperse the mobs.

A certain pessimism was evident among Egyptian leaders who, despite the spontaneous character of the revolt, are discouraged because it did not become nation-wide and include all classes of the population.

In Cairo it has created dissatisfaction among a large number who rely on the winter tourist trafic for their living. Already hard hit by the tension between Great Britain and Italy, they fear that almost all the tourists, especially Americans, who are the most lavish spenders, will shun Egypt completely on account of the internal disturbances. The truth is that only students so far have become excited, and many of them treat the affair as a "student lark."

The solid citizens are not friendly with the British, but are waiting to see what happens before they start shouting.

Egyptians Ponder Sanctions.

Meanwhile, speculation was rife as to whether Egypt has joined the other nations and is actually applying sanctions against Italy. Officials of different nationalities — Egyptian, British, American, Italian, and French —confess ignorance as to their application.

Apparently Italian imports still are being unloaded at Alexandria. It seems the question of Egyptian application of the economic boycott of Italy will have to be settled at a cabinet meeting Wednesday.

Sanctions mean a real sacrifice for Egypt, which has a big Italian trade.

FRANCE'S MILITARY BUDGET FOR 1936 IS FIXED AT $462,198,000

PARIS, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Deputy Leon Archimbaud, finance committee reporter, announced France's military budget for 1936 today as 6,953,000,000 francs — about $462,198,000 — in his statement to the committee.

He said the government should demand 1,000,000,000 francs—about $66,000,000—more for national defense in view of Germany's rearmament.

Saying the billion additional expense could be carried by loans with only a 50,000,000 franc addition to the budget, Deputy Archimbaud declared: "what is fifty million francs when it is a question of national security?"

SECRET ARREST OF GERMAN SPY STIRS BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 19.—[Tuesday.]—The spy scare was revived again in England with the report of the secret arrest early this month of Dr. Hermann Gortz, a German aviator and author. Gortz, according to this morning's Daily Sketch, at present is lodged in prison on charges that he was in possession of documents contrary to the official secrets act. The news of his arrest follows the expulsion from Britain just a week ago of another German, Dr. H. W. Thost, London correspondent of the Nazi newspapers Der Angriff and Voelkischer Beobachter.

The arrest of Gortz, the Daily Sketch said, constitutes a sensational development to the reports current for some time at a number of naval ports and air stations in the south and west of England.

An investigation revealed Gortz to be the possessor of a remarkable versatility. In addition to being a doctor of medicine, he holds an equivalent degree in law. A brilliant writer, he is said to have a number of novels and other works to his credit. In the war he served in the German air force and is apparently still in Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's reserve of air force officers. Since the armistice he has paid many visits to England to study conditions here and transact business of various kinds.

DRAKE ESTATE SEEMS CULT AS WELL AS MYTH

Defendants' Fervor Told as 41 Go on Trial.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The Drake Estate association, 41 members of which went on trial yesterday before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, appears to be something of a cult as well as a financial mystery.

The 41 defendants who answered the latest roll call in swindle cases growing out of the mythical estate of Sir Francis Drake of pirate fame did not look like simpletons or crooks. With the exception of the chief defendant, Oscar M. Hartzell, who arrived from Leavenworth prison handcuffed to a bailiff, they are inhabitants of farming communities and small towns of six central and western states.

Hartzell is looked upon by the others as some sort of a martyr, the victim of the machinations of Wall street or the "international bankers" or some clique of gold and royalty in England which has so far succeeded in holding back the rain of golden manna that is the rightful share of the investors and believers in this strange legend that refuses to die.

Cultist Fervor Creeps In.

According to one of the witnesses, who is to tell his story later, the meetings of the association had a fervor almost religious and were preceded by talks about God and love and the world that this ought to be. The box office for money investments was set up as a side show. It was and is the belief of these people that, once the Drake billions are unloosed, the age of plenty will be at hand. It bears a strong resemblance to the Townsend plan philosophy.

How the money rolled in to the Drake association leaders, the arrest of whom last April gave the foundation for this prosecution, which is based upon the mail fraud statutes, was shown in the preliminary examination of Mrs. Minnie D. Hinz, 7210 North Paulina street, one of the defendants.

Gets Back Her Money.

Mrs. Hinz, through her attorney, Frank McAllister, opened the proceedings by winning a decision that the United States authorities must turn back to her between $21,000 and $24,000 which was seized from her safe deposit box at 127 North Dearborn street under a federal search warant.

Judge Sullivan agreed with her that the money was hers, not a part of the Drake collections. She testified without contradiction that it was money she had collected from insurance policies held by her late husband, Theodore L. Hinz, who was a friend and apparently an agent of Hartzell.

The government sought to prove that the money came from the ever flowing well of investors in the west, and railway express receipts were introduced to show that she had signed for much money about this time. The funds were forwarded to her in the fall of 1933, after her husband died, by Otto Yant of Madison, Ia., and J. D. Gough of Harlington, Tex., two other defendants in this case. The money came in sums ranging from $190 to $1,500 every few days. The totals were $30,167 for this period of a few months.

Can't Remember Shipments.

Although Mrs. Hinz, a nervous, gray haired woman wearing glasses with a silver chain attached, could not remember the shipments, she did recall that she had signed for various amounts of money. It was delivered to her at the vault, she said, and she turned it over at once to Hartzell or one of his associates. Yant also had a safe deposit box.

As to money found in Yant's box, decision was reserved. The government prosecutor, Austin Hall, said it would be shown in the trial that this was Drake estate money.

Hartzell, who was deported from England, where he is said to have lived in princely fashion for 13 years on the proceeds of the Drake myth, was sent to Leavenworth on a ten year sentence from Sioux City, Ia., last January.

Hartzell in the Courtroom.

His pictures show a man of handsome and impressive appearance in London. In court yesterday he appeared thinner and his clothes were a modest blue serge and dark blue shirt. He has a solid, shrewd face, that of a go-getting business man. He stood up during recess to see his followers ranged on the back seats in the courtroom. About the worst that he can expect from the trial is a few more years in prison.

The selection of the jury will begin this morning.

UNION WILL VOTE ON STRIKE OVER 1-MAN ZEPHYR

Insists Burlington Put Two in Engine.

The general grievance committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers directed yesterday that a strike vote be taken among the union's 1,500 members employed by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad to compel the road to operate the Diesel locomotive of its streamlined "Zephyrs" with two men instead of one. The meeting was held behind closed doors at the Great Northern hotel here.

"This vote is being taken on account of the unsafe conditions with only one man operating the locomotive on these trains," said J. P. Farrell of Hartford, Conn., vice president of the union, who presided at the committee meeting.

The railroad contends that the "deadman's throttle" on the new trains provides full protection in the event the operator becomes disabled while the train is in motion.

Distribute Ballots Today.

Twenty-five locals of the firemen's organization were represented at the meeting and today the delegates will start distribution of strike ballots to members. Mr. Farrell said that ballots would be tabulated next week.

A two-thirds vote is necessary to authorize a strike, he said, adding that whenever in the past the grievance committee called for a strike vote, the members backed its judgment by voting "yes."

M. Larson, chairman of the grievance committee, said union men asserted at the meeting that between 50 and 75 jobs were lost through operation of the trains with only one man in the engine cabs. However, Fred Gurley, assistant vice president of the Burlington, denied that jobs were lost through installation of the four new trains. Because of the increased mileage and improved service on the new trains, Gurley said, 25 added men have been given jobs on these trains.

Dispute of Long Standing.

The union has been protesting against one man operation of Diesel engine trains for more than a year. General Motors corporation entered the controversy last week when one of its subsidiaries, Electro-Motive corporation, which makes Diesel engines, asked for permission to intervene in a case before the Illinois Commerce commission.

The petition of the company, which operates a plant at McCook, southwest of Chicago, asserted that if the commission enters any order compelling two man operation of Diesel-electric engines, the sale of such locomotives will be seriously retarded.

TEN DAY SUNLESS SIEGE ALMOST UP TO GLOOM RECORD FOR CHICAGO

Were it not for twelve minutes of sunshine on Friday, the record of ten days without one ray of sunshine in Chicago would have been equaled yesterday, according to Forecaster C. A. Donnel. The last time there were ten consecutive days without sunshine was from Dec. 16 to 25, 1925.

If the forecast for today is borne out, the sunless days will continue. Mr. Donnell predicted cloudy and rain with colder weather and possibly rain or snow tomorrow.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said his records do not reveal any relation between cloudiness and health, although of course sunshine is vital to good health. Over a longer period, he remarked, the records might reflect some correlation.

GIRL SHOT IN ROW SEEKS $100,000 OF JACK BLACKBURN

Jack Blackburn, 4238 South Michigan avenue, colored, a trainer of Joe Louis, the boxer, and John Bowman, 365 East 57th street, colored, were sued for $100,000 damages yesterday in Circuit court by Lucy Cannon, 9 years old, 357 East 57th street, colored.

The damages are sought as the result of injuries suffered by the child when she was struck by stray bullets alleged to have been fired during a shooting affray between Blackburn and Bowman. Enoch Houser, 69 years old, 329 East 58th street, another bystander, was fatally wounded in the exchange of shots. The shooting occurred Oct. 20 in an alley near 57th street and South Park avenue.

Although Blackburn was exonerated by a coroner's jury at the inquest into the death of Houser, he is scheduled to appear this morning in the Felony court on a charge of assault to kill. Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty is investigating the manner in which the police and coroner's office handled the shooting inquiry.

DRUNK ON LOVE, SAYS COURT OF DRIVER; DAMAGES

Denver, Colo., Nov. 18.—(AP)—"Love intoxication" appeared in the lexicon of the Colorado Supreme court today.

The court upheld a $2,000 damage award to a girl who said the driver of an automobile in which she was riding was kissing another girl just before the crash occurred.

"If his mental processes were blurred due to his love-making, which was probably the fact, he must be held to the same responsibility as one who voluntarily becomes intoxicated," said Justice Haslett P. Burke.

FUGITIVE 8 YEARS FOUND IN MEXICO; TO FACE HANGING

Ask $700 Reward for Return of Slayer.

Sherif Michael Breen of Will county at Joliet was informed yesterday that Bernardo Roa, a Mexican who escaped from the Will county jail in 1927 while awaiting execution, is in Mexico City. A letter from Mexican police officials was sent to J. Edgar Hoover, head of the department of justice in Washington, D. C., and was forwarded to Breen.

Claim Reward of $700.

The letter stated that Roa was under surveillance in Mexico City and would be arrested and extradited to Illinois if the state is still willing to pay the $700 reward once offered by the Will county board of supervisors for his capture.

Roa was serving a life sentence in the Stateville penitentiary when on May 5, 1926, he and six other convicts killed Peter N. Klein, a deputy warden, and escaped. The seven were recaptured, convicted of murder and sentenced to hang.

One Hanged, One Shot.

On March 12, 1927, Roa and two other Mexicans, who participated in the murder, broke out of the county jail in Joliet where they had been taken for the execution. The two other Mexicans were recaptured. One was hanged and the second was shot to death in another attempted jail break.

If Roa is brought back to Joliet he will be the last man to be hanged in Will county and probably in the state. Since his conviction the electric chair has replaced the noose for capital punishment in Illinois. The old gallows is still kept in the county jail in Joliet, however, and would be used to send Roa to his death if he were returned.

VISITORS WORRY MOVIE ROBBERS TILL THEY DESIST

Two robbers stopped William L. Pracht, manager, in the lobby of the Arcade theater, 105 East Main street, St. Charles, yesterday afternoon and ordered him to lead them to the safe.

Paul Paschal, editor of the St. Charles Chronicle, walked up to Pracht at this moment, unaware of the robbery in progress, and was forced to join the manager. Again as Pracht started for the stairway leading to the theater office upstairs City Attorney Drew Green walked into the lobby. Pracht shouted that a stickup was afoot. Green ducked out to call police.

"There's too many people around—let's beat it," one of the robbers told the other. Both turned and fled.

SECOND SISTER DIES AS RESULT OF AUTO CRASH

Fatally Injured at 65th and Harlem Avenue.

Miss Anna Farrell, 18 years old, 916 West 53d place, died in the County hospital yesterday of injuries incurred Wednesday in a collision of two automobiles at 65th street and Harlem avenue. Her sister, Mary, 23 years old, was killed in the accident.

County Toll Reaches 869.

Two other automobile fatalities were recorded during the day. The victims:

Hyman Kallograph, 64 years old, 4023 West 13th street. Died in the County hospital of injuries incurred a week ago when he was struck by an automobile as he wheeled his pushcart across Independence boulevard at 13th street. The driver of the automobile, William H. Stokes, 39 years old, 6405 South Francisco avenue, was charged with reckless driving.

Willis Gray, 81 years old, colored, 3223 Calumet avenue. Died in the County hospital of injuries suffered Nov. 3 when he was struck by an automobile at 33d street and South Parkway.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 869 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. In that period 677 were killed and 15,539 injured in trafic crashes within the Chicago city limits.

Injured On Hunting Trip.

Percy Werthwein, 53 years old, chairman of the sherif's committee of the Kane county board of supervisors and a member of the Kane county emergency relief committee, was seriously injured yesterday when the car in which he was riding to a duck hunting preserve near Peoria overturned on route 23 near Leland.

A Lake county coroner's jury recommended yesterday that Alvin Schaefer, 16 years old, 34 South Martin avenue, Waukegan, be held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter for the death of William Kneasley, 28 years old, 442 Washington park, Waukegan, who was killed Saturday night when he was struck by Schaefer's car.

BUSINESS MEN ARE INVITED TO G. O. P. MEETING

Republican leaders and representative business and professional men affiliated with the party will be guests of the Cook county Republican central committee at luncheon in the Hotel La Salle Thursday noon.

"Only congressional problems will be discussed with a view of coördinating all forces on the type of candidates who can win," read the invitations issued by Chairman William H. Weber and Secretary Edward F. Moore.

Col. R. R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will deliver the luncheon address. Other guests of the committee will be George F. Harding, Charles S. Deneen, Frank L. Smith, Mrs. Bertha Baur, Fred Lundin and Judge John H. Lyle.

THE MASSACRE

POLICE LET CARS PARK AT ANGLE IN MADISON ST.

Dispute Reasons for General Violation.

An inspection of Madison street between Crawford and Austin avenues yesterday disclosed that police are permitting hundreds of automobiles to be parked there at an angle, contrary to a provision of the trafic code that no vehicle shall park in the streets in a position other than parallel to the curb.

In some cases it was noted that cars were parked parallel behind the angle cars, and in other spots two cars were parked side by side and parallel to the curb. In every instance lanes intended for moving trafic were obstructed by the parking violations.

Reasons for Outlawing Practice.

Angle parking was prohibited in the city code and in state highway statutes, according to Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the city council trafic committee, because it is dangerous and permits the use of a larger pavement space for parking than is waranted.

City trafic engineers say that the danger of angle parking is that the driver of an automobile parked in that manner with other cars cannot see oncoming trafic as he backs away from the curb.

Captain Explains Situation.

When asked about the parking condition, Capt. John Ryan of the Fillmore station in which that section of the street lies, said that an order had been passed by the city council several months ago permiting angle parking there temporarily.

"I think Capt. Ryan is mistaken," said Ald. Massen, "and I should be very much astonished if such an order were in the council records. If there is such an order I'll ask the alderman who introduced it to submit a repealer."

ROOSEVELT BALL HERE BEGGING A CHIEF, IT SEEMS

Politics Provokes 1935 Chairman to Say "No."

Persistent inquiry failed yesterday to disclose who is to be Chicago chairman of the balls which will be held on Jan. 30 for the third year in honor of President Roosevelt's birthday and to raise money to combat infantile paralysis, but Howard Gillette, last year's chairman, declared he would not serve again this year.

"I worked hard last year and we raised more money than any other city in the country with the Chicago ball," said Mr. Gillette, who is western representative of the Chase National bank of New York. "Nevertheless, I am opposed to having one this year. I feel that politics is too much tied up with it. I have told them I wouldn't have anything to do with it this year."

Explains 1935 Appointment.

He said that Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company and treasurer of the Democratic national committee, was responsible for his being made general chairman here last January.

Asked if Cummings had asked him to be chairman again, Gillette replied:

"He knew better than that."

Henry L. Doherty, president of the Cities Service company, is chairman again this year of the national committee which will arrange the birthday balls. President Roosevelt's announcement on Nov. 10 last that his 54th birthday parties throughout the country will be devoted to the aid of infantile paralysis victims as were the festivities of his last two birthdays, was made with the release of correspondence between Doherty and the President.

At that time the federal trade commission was looking into Doherty's activities in the natural gas pipe line industry. The Cities Service company is one of the utility concerns which has fought the administration's holding company act and power programs.

Prefers Not to Presume.

Cummings was reported out of the city yesterday by his secretary, who, when asked who the local chairman for the President's ball next January would be, replied that "Mr. Cummings has nothing to do with it." Asked if he had refused to serve on the committee for the coming birthday, the secretary replied:

"O, nothing like that. But he has not yet been commissioned to do anything. It would be presumptous for him to assume he was going to be before he has been informed."

Last January's ball in Chicago netted $30,762.57. Of this, 30 per cent, or $9,288.77, was turned over to the national committee and 70 per cent, or $21,982, plus donations from the committee which brought it to a round figure of $22,000, was allocated to local institutions to be used in work among crippled children.

Engineer Honored

John F. Stevens, the engineer and railroad builder, who at one time was chief engineer of the Panama canal project and later was in charge of Russian railroads, was honored last night at a joint meeting of the Western Society of Engineers and the American Society of Civil Engineers. At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Stevens, who is now 82 years old but still is active in business, was given an honorary membership in the Western society.

Mr. Stevens was introduced to the 500 engineers by Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy railroad, who commended the long career of the famous builder. Mr. Stevens recounted the six years he spent supervising Russian transportation during the war years. He was appointed chairman of a special commission by the President at the request of the Russian government.

Although given many honors in America and foreign countries for his engineering work, Mr. Stevens is particularly noted for his discovery of Marias pass in the Rocky mountains and other feats performed in his career as a railroad man.

Colorado Drug and Chain Stores Lose Restaurants

Warned by Chairman to Shun "Homecoming."

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 18.—(AP)—An open break over President Roosevelt developed today among members of Gov. Eugene Talmadge's state Democratic executive committee.

The first information on differences within the committee came from Chairman Hugh Howell of the Talmadge controled organization having charge of party affairs in Georgia.

Howell, in a letter to committee members, warned 100 per cent Talmadgeites against attending a meeting in Atlanta on Nov. 29—the date of the Roosevelt "homecoming" celebration—called by Judge Newt Morris, Marietta, a member of Howell's group.

Declares Invitations Withheld.

"No one possibly could object," Howell wrote, "to any member of the state Democratic committee being present at this meeting, but I desire to inform you that it is wholly an anti-Talmadge meeting, to which neither the governor nor I have been invited, nor would we go if we were invited."

Howell said it wasn't an official meeting of the committee, but he intended to call a gathering of the organization "in the near future" to take up the question of whether "we shall have a presidential preferential primary or not," if so to fix the primary date.

Informed of Chairman Howell's letter, Judge Morris said he personally sent out letters to most of the approximately 125 members of the committee asking them to meet him for breakfast and talk over the political situation in Georgia.

Seeks Support for Primary.

Morris said he wanted to band together Roosevelt supporters on the committee, get them to agree to stand solidly for a primary, and, if the majority of the committee outvoted them, to hold another meeting and call a primary "regardless."

Judge Morris, a member of the state committee, led the fight at the Macon Talmadge convention in 1934, which voted to unseat the late Maj. John S. Cohen as Democratic national committeeman.

The national committee declined to take any cognizance of the convention's action and Talmadge was unable to take over the committeeship until the death of Maj. Cohen this year.

TRAPPERS GO TO JAIL.

Shenandoah, Ia., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Norvil Atkins of Chicago, John Darick of St. Joseph, and Theodore Watts of Gallatin, Mo., started 60 day sentences in the county jail today on charges of illegal trapping. Unable to pay $600 fines the men were given jail sentences.

INSTALL 1ST UNIT OF STATE POLICE RADIO IN MONTH

Seven Cities Are to Get Transmitters.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The first unit of the state highway police radio system will be installed next month and placed in operation two weeks later, Director of Public Works Robert Kingery announced today.

The first unit will include transmitter and monitor to be located in a building now under construction on the state fair grounds here. At the same time 25 highway police cars will be equipped with receivers.

Kingery made the announcement in connection with the awards of contracts for seven transmitters, seven monitors and 200 automobile receivers. The transmitters and monitors were ordered purchased from the Graybar Electric company, Chicago, a subsidiary of the Western Electric company, for $83,979. All but $855 of this amount will go for transmitters.

The receivers, he said, will cost the state $24,000 and will be purchased from Radio Corporation of America. Kingery said that although the price for the receivers was $11,819 more than the low bid, the RCA receivers were the lowest priced of equipment which met engineers' tests.

He said the other transmitters and monitors will be delivered 45 days apart at the six cities which, with Springfield, will form the state network. Macomb will get the second set, Chicago the third and Effingham the fourth, he said. The other three sets will be installed at Pontiac, Sterling, and Duquoin.

Kingery said that as each of the transmitters in the six latter cities are installed RCA will deliver 50 receivers.

New bids were asked by the director for motorcycle receiving sets. He said the first bids were rejected.

ROGERS CLEARED IN GIRL'S DEATH BY GRAND JURY

Conduct of Coroner's Inquirers Assailed.

Westchester, Pa., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—A grand jury of eighteen men and four housewives after hearing evidence for a week declared today that Evelyn Hoey, former Broadway musical comedy actress, had committed suicide.

The December grand jury was called to investigate the shooting after the coroner's jury had decided that Miss Hoey "died at the hand of a person or persons unknown to the jury." The verdict came as a surprise and steps were immediately taken to investigate the coroner's jury and "certain newspaper men."

Miss Hoey was found dead in an upstairs room of the country home of Henry Huddleston Rogers III. near Lyndell, Pa., on Sept. 11, with a bullet through her brain.

Rogers and William J. Kelley, another guest at the time of the shooting, insisted at the coroner's inquest that they were seated in the living room on the first floor when they heard the shot that caused the actress' death. Their testimony was supported by a Japanese cook, a chauffeur, and a farmer who had called to collect wages due him.

In his charge to the grand jury, which handed down the suicide verdict Judge V. Butler Windle said that District Attorney William Parker had appealed to the court "presenting certain facts and outlining circumstances of the behavior of certain persons connected with the coroner's inquest which, he said, warranted his special inquiry."

COL. KNOX DECLARES FREE PRESS OF VITAL CONCERN TO PUBLIC

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Freedom of the press is a matter of vital concern, not so much to newspapers exclusively as it is to the whole people, Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, said in addressing a luncheon of newspaper editors here today.

Col. Knox told the editors that newspapers can and do survive under censorship and burocratic control, but public liberty languishes and dies.

"The most effective remedy for tyranny of any kind is publicity," he continued. "It is the dictator's deadliest foe."

Recent European history, he said, where dictators rule over Russia, Germany, Austria and Italy, reveals that their first objective is the destruction of a free press.

Col. Knox predicted the dairy states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan and Illinois will be "outraged" by the new trade treaty with Canada.

SALES OF LaFAYETTE CLIMB AS BUYERS COMPARE IT WITH OTHER LOW-PRICED CARS

Sales double and triple in cities and towns across America as X-Ray System lets buyers see with their own eyes that LaFayette is the ONLY car in the lowest-price field with ALL of the VITAL engineering features of the highest-priced cars!

EVEN TWO OF THESE HUMAN PILE-DRIVERS, from Chicago Bears' mammoth backfield, would fill the front seat of any other low-priced car! LaFayette is MUCH wider!

MORE HEADROOM THAN IN CARS COSTING OVER $2,000 This picture shows you how MUCH more headroom you get in LaFayette! It's safer . . . more comfortable.

OUT TO WIN AMERICA ON VALUE ALONE!

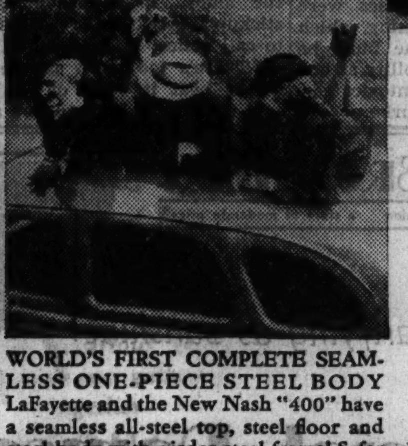
OVERSIZED HYDRAULIC BRAKES BIG ENOUGH TO STOP A TRUCK! Hydraulic brakes as large as those on one of America's fastest-selling 1½ ton trucks. Safer . . . and so big they won't need relining for years.



WORLD'S FIRST COMPLETE SEAMLESS ONE-PIECE STEEL BODY LaFayette and the New Nash "400" have a seamless all-steel top, steel floor and steel body with girder-steel frame! Safer . . . will stand up years longer.

● Announced just a few short months before this story went to press, the remarkable new 1936 LaFayette is already a sensational success! And there's just one big reason for it.

Without regard to present profits, Nash—one of the four financially-strongest manufacturers in the industry—is out to win a large share of the low-priced car business on value alone. And to do this quickly, we made LaFayette the first car . . . the ONLY car . . . in the lowest-price field with all of the vital engineering features of the highest-priced cars!

We didn't ask buyers to accept our claims that this was true. Because we know that all claims are taken with a grain of salt. Instead, we developed the X-Ray System . . . so that you could SEE with your own eyes the surprising, hidden differences INSIDE all cars. So that you could see that LaFayette has the vital, long-life engineering features that manufacturers leave out of their LOW-priced cars, but always include in their HIGH-priced cars!

Perhaps you don't expect all of these vital features in a low-priced car? Perhaps you don't expect a car as big, as roomy, as safe as this new 1936 LaFayette? But perhaps you've been expecting TOO LITTLE all along! You car buyers are the real winners in this fight Nash is waging for dominance in the lowest-price field. So see the 1936 LaFayette—and the X-Ray System—at any Nash-LaFayette showroom before you put the same amount of money into any other car! The Nash Motors Company, Kenosha, Wisconsin.

JOLIET CONVICTS GO ON AIR WITH FIRST BROADCAST

Band and a Tenor Open "Big House Revue."

A 35 piece band of Joliet and Stateville convicts made the premier radio broadcast of "The Big House Revue" last night over radio station WCLS of Joliet. The "revue" will be broadcast every Monday and Wednesday night.

Few Chicagoans heard last night's program because WCLS is only a 100 watt station which is not audible on ordinary sets except in and near Joliet.

But the convicts, who are allowed the privilege of listening to the receiving sets in the prison libraries and reading rooms, got good, clear reception from the nearby station.

Broadcast from Prison Chapel.

The chapel at the old Joliet prison was temporarily turned into a broadcasting studio. Present at the opening were: Warden Joseph Ragen, Mrs. Ragen, and their 6 year old son, Billy; Deputy Warden George F. Sehring, Mrs. Sehring, and their 4 year old daughter, Sheila; Superintendent of Pardons and Paroles George T. Scully and Mrs. Scully; Father Eligius Weir, the prison chaplain, and Medford Maxwell, manager of the radio station.

Warden Ragen explained that the purpose of the bi-weekly broadcasts is to give the prisoners diversion and fit them so "they will go into society well trained."

By vote the 5,635 inmates of the Joliet-Statesville prisons had chosen "The Prisoners' Song" as theme tune for the band. Arrangements of the score was not completed in time, however, so the band opened the broadcast with Sousa's "Triumphal March." A close second in the voting for the band's theme song was "Time on My Hands," a dance tune.

A Lifer Turns Singer.

Hale O'Reily, who was sentenced to a life term in 1919 for the murder of Sherif Jacob Wigers of Rock Island, then sang a tenor version of "10,000 Years from Now." He followed this with "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," and "My Wild Irish Rose," and then sang "Happy Birthday to You" for Billy Ragen. O'Riley was recently promoted from the honor farm to be Warden Ragen's chauffeur.

Carl Parker, pianist, offered contrast to the other members of the band, who had donned uniforms of white duck. He came direct from the honor farm in his work clothes.

The band was instructed by Dr. J. M. Thompson, superintendent of music of the Joliet public schools. Charles Dwyer of Joliet directed it. All the necessary wiring for the broadcast was done by prison inmates, and Convict Walter Brouillette of Chicago, a radio technician, was in charge of the controls.

Opposed by Schnackenberg.

State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago, Republican leader in the lower house, expressed opposition to the convict broadcasts last night.

"I intend to find out," he said, "from what appropriation funds are taken for these broadcasts. The idea of bringing murderers' voices into homes is unfitting."

Army Sergeant Alleges Gin Wedding; Sues to Annul It

George B. Stanley, a regular army sergeant stationed at Fort Sheridan, filed suit yesterday in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan to annul his marriage to Miss Martha Jane Wright, 19 years old, of the Karcher hotel, Waukegan. Stanley alleged that on the night of Sept. 9 he became intoxicated while escorting Miss Wright, and that early the next morning he and Miss Wright were married by Justice of the Peace B. S. Love of Waukegan. Stanley contended he became aware of his marriage only when told of it later.

Sings Herself In

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—An Ohio born opera star sang her way into the Daughters of Ohio today, her operatic and literary achievements winning her this year's honorary membership in the organization.

Appearing on the same dais with Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the former President, and Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, widow of the 23d President, Miss Queena Mario of the Metropolitan opera moved her audience to continued applause with arias from "Madame Butterfly" and "American Lullaby."

The opera singer is an Ohioan, born Queena Marion Tillotson, near Akron. Her father is Frank K. Tillotson, former drummer boy in the civil war. She published last year the mystery novel, "Murder in the Opera House."

Mrs. Hoover, first speaker, expressed delight at attending the "big family reunion."

"Both of my parents were born and raised in Ohio, so I feel I know Ohio well," she said. "In fact, my grandfather, in coonskin cap, was one of the founders of Wooster."

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 18.—The United States owes and will always owe a moral obligation to the Philippines to defend them from any attack from without, Senator William H. King of Utah said tonight at a dinner given for the congressional and newspaper delegations to the recent inauguration by the former Philippine resident commissioners to Washington. Great enthusiasm was aroused among the Filipino hearers when Senator King declared Americans never would be able, under any circumstances, to renounce responsibility for the nation they were establishing through more than 45 years of patient effort.

ROOMMATE SAYS GIRL THREATENED TO SLAY FATHER

Mountain Miss Goes on Trial for Murder.

Wise, Va., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The claim that "no father has a right to chastise a 21 year old girl" was entered as a defense in the murder trial today of Edith Maxwell, a school teacher.

But contrasting with the defense plea that she killed her father, Trigg Maxwell, 52 year old blacksmith, as he threatened to whip her for keeping late hours and advanced upon her, was the testimony of prosecution witnesses that they had heard her threaten to kill him.

One quoted her as saying she would laugh if she saw her father "laying out dead."

Miss Ruth Baker, her roommate at the Radford State Teachers' college, said Miss Maxwell threatened to kill her father two years ago.

Another Roommate Testifies.

Miss Alta Cantrell, another schoolmate, said she had heard Edith say she didn't like her father. Everett Holleyfield said he heard her say a year before the slaying that she would laugh if she saw her father "laying out dead."

These witnesses were brought to the stand as the prosecution sought to prove the young school teacher guilty of premeditated murder.

The killing occurred the night of last July 21 in their cabin at Pound.

Mrs. Anne Maxwell, 50 year old mother of the defendant and herself under indictment in the case, testified that her husband was "roaring drunk" the night of the alleged slaying.

Mrs. Maxwell asserted he had attempted to whip Edith. She said she saw blood running down his forehead after the scuffle, but saw no blows struck. When her husband later fell against a meat block on the back porch, she said, she assumed this fall was responsible for his death.

Defense Outlines Case.

A. A. Skeen of defense counsel told the jury the young teacher defended herself as her father, drinking and with a knife in his hand, advanced upon her after threatening a whipping for keeping late hours.

"No father has the right to chastise a 21 year old daughter," Skeen said.

The defense lawyer said he would seek to prove the knife was knocked from Maxwell's hand, that he then grasped his daughter by the hair and that she wrenched free, falling over a rocking chair. As he advanced again, Skeen said, the girl hit him several times over the head with the heel of a slipper, but at first believed his chief injury the result of striking his head against a meat block as he fell.

Conflicting with Skeen's statement and testimony which the defense was expected to offer was the testimony of Clarence Groescher and Ned Deaton, restaurant proprietors, that Trigg Maxwell was not drunk.

4 BILLION WORK RELIEF FUND NOW A FOURTH SPENT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The treasury reported tonight that virtually all of the 4 billion dollar work relief fund has been allocated, but only a quarter spent.

The department inserted a new sheet of figures in a routine financial statement which showed $3,700,874,289 allocated by the President on which treasury warrants have been approved, another $259,733,866 allocated but awaiting warant approval, and $39,391,845 unallocated.

The figures were as of Oct. 31. Payments on the basis of "checks issued" through that date were only $1,100,645,560.

The accounting did not take into consideration the $800,000,000 appropriated for emergency purposes which officials said remains unallocated in unobligated balances from other funds.

Police said Detente's picture was identified by witnesses on the day of the robbery as that of the man who drove one of the bandits' cars and he has been sought ever since.

SHOVELS HALTED BY TYPEWRITERS, SAYS LA GUARDIA

Assails 'Semicolon' Boys for PWA Delays.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Red tape in the public works administration of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes has set back the work relief program four or five months, Mayor F. H. La Guardia of New York told mayors of the United States at their annual conference today.

MAYOR LA GUARDIA. [Addressing conference.] [A. P. Wirephoto.]

"If they would only stop the typewriters, we could get the steam shovels going," La Guardia declared.

Assails "Semi-colon" Boys.

Then he launched into a stinging criticism of what he termed "the semi-colon" boys.

The "semicolon boys" were defined as "the fellows who come here to get law jobs in the departments and then sit down and look for semicolons and hold up the works."

"They have not contributed a single thing," he said, "and yet they are one of the causes of the delay in a great deal of the important work in the relief program."

"I think it is senseless to take the plans and specifications of experienced city engineers and submit them to younger, inexperienced men holding office jobs down here in Washington."

He defended delays incident to beginning works progress projects, contending that in this case the government was providing 100 per cent grants and was justified in full examination of the projects.

New Idleness Problem.

Concerning the discontinuance of relief he added:

"Granted that there is an improvement in business, even with complete recovery we will be confronted with a new normal of conditions. With technical displacement and the use of labor-saving devices both in agriculture in industry we must be prepared to meet this new normal. We still will have several million employable men and women unable to find work.

"And I tell you, gentlemen, that you can't feed people on statistics or ticker tape."

La Guardia, however, added a personal commendation of Secretary Ickes, PWA administrator, as "helpful and coöperative."

"But no one man can do it alone," he remarked.

Asks Aid Against Crime.

Attorney General Cummings was another speaker. He declared nationwide coöperation against crime was one of the most important duties facing the mayors.

"Crime has ceased to be a local problem," the attorney general said, "but has spilled completely over state lines to become a national emergency of the first consequence. The manner in which the criminal world has taken advantage of inadequate law and law enforcement soon produced a problem as well as a national disgrace.

"We haven't finished with the criminal problem, but we are going to, and it will be done by application of brains, science, and coöperation."

DUTCH SCHULTZ 'BROKE' AT DEATH, SAYS ATTORNEY

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—It was a pauperized Dutch Schultz who died by rival guns in Newark on Oct. 23, according to a picture painted for state tax authorities by the dead gangster's relatives, accountant, and attorney.

Deputy State Tax Commissioner Seth T. Cole, after questioning Schultz's accountant, Milton Bernard and J. Richard Davis, who was Schulz's lawyer, revealed today that his hunt for the dead gangster's assets "has not been very fruitful."

The state is trying to locate enough cash and property to satisfy approximately $70,000 in income tax claims, but to date, the commissioner admitted, all that has turned up is a life insurance policy for $2,500 on which Mrs. Emma New Flegenheimer, Schultz's mother, paid the premiums.

ARRESTED WHEN AGENTS DISCOVER ALCOHOL IN CAR

Joseph Geyer, 28 years old, 3100 Leland avenue, was questioned yesterday by agents of the federal alcohol tax unit after twenty gallons of alcohol had been found in his automobile. He was arrested in the Evanston hospital, where he was receiving first aid after an automobile accident in Glenview.

Police yesterday continued their investigation into the murders of three men on the northwest side last Thursday night and Friday. Gang rivalry for control of the revived illicit alcohol racket is believed to have been responsible for the killings.

A woman, said to be the leader of a gang of alcohol peddlers running illicit liquor between southern Wisconsin and Chicago, is being sought by the investigators.

SENATE TO GET OLD AGE PENSION MEASURE TODAY

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Members of the Illinois senate will receive tomorrow the bill passed by the house last week that embodies Gov. Horner's ideas for an old age pension system. The measure, as emergency legislation, needs only 34 votes, two less than the Democratic membership. It is expected to get senate approval in short order.

While the senate is on the pension bill the house will have before it a companion measure which sets up the administrative machinery for dispensing old age, blind, and dependent children's pensions. In its present form there would be a welfare commission in each county consisting of five members appointed by the state department of public welfare.

Opposition has arisen to this scheme as it would enable the state administration to build up a large politcal machine. Republicans want the commissions appointed by county judges, some 50 per cent of whom are Republicans, this being the system set up in the old age pension act passed last spring.

The house also will take up this week the driver's license law. The senate has before it the proposed new insurance code, which has been reportd out of committee, the unemployment insurance bill on which there will be a public hearing Wednesday, and bills validating city bond issues.

100 ARTISTS IDLE AS WPA REFUSES GERMAN BRUSHES

The work of 100 artists was interrupted yesterday at the Federal Works Progress administration art center at 433 East Erie street because the Chicago district WPA office refused to approve a requisition for brushes made with hair from German oxen.

Mrs. Increase Robinson, state director of PWA art and regional director for Illinois, Minnesota, and the Dakotas, thought the blockade was going a little too far even though the New Deal has been criticized for importing steel from Germany for use on government projects. "We'll just have to ask for brushes that contain hair produced in the United States," she said.

The artists waiting for their brushes will eventually create safety posters and paintings and sculpture for public institutions. The top pay for government artists is $94 a month.

CAMPS FAMILY AT WHITE HOUSE FOR STARVATION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A discharged navy sailor encamped himself with his wife and two children in front of the White House today, announcing he intended to let the President "see an average American family starve to death."

He said he was determined to stay there until he starved to death or got a job.

The man gave his name as Lewis Vincent Farrell of Philadelphia. He complained that he could not get a job until his navy record was changed and could not get a hearing on his record. He said there was a "slanderous" statement in his record.

Farrell and the family, unnoticed by many passing people, sat calmly by the fence along Pennsylvania avenue.

HELD AS CAR RAIDER.

Clifford Halverson, 22 years old, 1820 Emerson avenue, was under arrest yesterday on the complaint of Arthur Leaverton, 904 West 67th street, a street car conductor, who said Halverson boarded his car at Ashland avenue and Erie street and tried to rob him.

$4,000,000 U. S. FUNDS TO KEEP CHICAGO AMUSED

Park Recreation Program Approved by WPA.

A park recreational program for Chicago with a government outlay of $4,000,000 to cover practically every form of boondoggling has cleared the red tape hurdles of the Federal Works Progress administration, it was learned yesterday.

Although President Roosevelt and Controler General J. R. McCarl have approved this program, a more modest request—$2,000,000 for the Chicago recreational commission—is still clogged in the governmental machinery at Washington.

Makes Jobs for 4,000.

The prospectus for the parks provides 4,000 recreational jobs for supervisors, instructors and helpers. They will carry out a variety of activities such as arts, handicrafts, crafts, athletics on a competitive basis and numerous game rooms. The program will be conducted in park field houses and institutions.

Ralph H. Burke, deputy WPA administrator for Illinois, characterized the park program as "leisure time activity" to prevent crime and juvenile delinquency. Social agencies will make juvenile studies at the Seward, Sheridan, and Russell Square parks.

One thousand persons will be employed as a starter, according to Walter Roy, state director of WPA professional and service projects, and others will be added if the recreational commission proposal is finally approved.

Park Work Starts This Week.

Meanwhile, the Illinois WPA office prepared for three other park projects for the rehabilitation of grounds in 108 small parks and similar work on 204 miles of boulevard parkways. The work will start by the end of the week, officials said, and will include landscaping, grading, changes in contour and top soil turnover.

The three rehabilitation projects will require $1,275,000 in WPA funds while the park district will contribute $80,000. The United States employment office has been requisitioned for 6,055 workers.

On the north side of the city 1,747 workmen will be employed on 1,096 acres of ground in 46 parks and along 50 miles of boulevards. The south side project will provide employment for 2,270 workers on 1,905 acres in 31 parks and along 94 miles of boulevards. The west side project will require 2,038 men.

GEORGE ADE REVEALS HOW HE CONTINUES YOUNG AT 70 YEARS

Miami, Fla., Nov. 18.—(AP)—George Ade, the Hoosier humorist, today told how to be young at 70.

"Live only in the present," he said, "that's the secret."

He was "appalled" to detect a sign of age in himself.

"I caught myself reading the obituary notices yesterday before I turned to the sports page, and that's a sure sign of ossification," Ade mourned.

"But I won't let myself become a mossback and a has-been, so I keep the old bean in touch with the latest news, the latest plays, the latest movies, and the latest books."

SUPREME COURT AGREES TO RULE ON NEW DEAL

VA, AAA, and Cotton Cases Pending.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—A mighty barrage of legal oratory for and against three of the most momentous New Deal measures will be heard in the United States Supreme court next month. Decisions in the three cases probably will be handed down in January.

The nine justices today set arguments on constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley authority act for Dec. 19. They already have agreed to hear arguments on validity of the Agricultural Adjustment act on Dec. 9 and following that will consider a debate between attorneys on legality of the Bankhead cotton production control act.

Heed Demand for Speed.

By advancing the date for arguments on the TVA which normally would not have been heard until January or February, the court, without specifically saying so, took notice of the many pleas advanced for speedy rulings on the constitutionality of New Deal legislation. Congress is sure to be in session when the court's decisions are made public.

Solicitor General Stanley Reed had asked that arguments on the TVA be heard Dec. 16 and the Supreme court set a date only three days later.

Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia won a point in his battle against the New Deal when the Supreme court granted permission for him to file suit against the government contesting validity of the Bankhead act. The government was directed to file its answer to the Talmadge suit Jan. 20.

Decision Is Certain.

Thus, if the challenge brought against the Bankhead act by Lee Moor, a Texas planter, should not bring a ruling on the act, as some attorneys deem possible, the Georgia case is sure to bring such a decision, it was said. The government had opposed Talmadge's request, saying that lower courts should pass upon such questions before the Supreme court is called upon to act.

The AAA test case to be argued Dec. 9 involves the attack on processing taxes by the Hoosac Mills corporation of Massachusetts. The government lost this case in the Circuit Court of Appeals at Boston.

The court also ruled that the government might have until Thursday to file an answer to the request filed by eight southern rice millers for a temporary injunction against AAA processing taxes. Government counsel had wanted a longer delay but the millers argued that early action should be taken.

Defends Processing Tax.

The government defended the constitutionality of the AAA processing taxes in a brief filed in the Hoosac case today. The issue raised by the plaintif regarding the improper delegation of legislative power was immaterial, the brief declared, "because congress has expressly ratified the assessment and collection of these taxes."

"Thus, congress has specifically determined itself that the taxes at the rate and upon the subject here involved were proper and advisable," the brief stated.

Citing the "general welfare" clause of the constitution, the government counsel contended that the circumstances which caused announcement of the farm program "can leave no doubt that there was ample reason for the determination by congress that these taxes were levied to promote the welfare of the nation."

GRANTED DIVORCE

Mrs. Elizabeth Granger Brown, granddaughter of the late Marvin Hughitt of Lake Forest, railway executive, won a divorce in Reno, Nev., yesterday from Charles Edward Brown Jr., 40 years old, a former Chicagoan who now lives in Washington. She charged cruelty.

The Browns were married on Jan. 7, 1920, in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest. The wedding was a society event. Brown, a graduate of Princeton university, served eighteen months overseas as an aviator in the British and American air forces. Mrs. Brown, one of the three "Granger girls" popular in society, was active in war work.

Y. W. C. A. CHIEFS ASSEMBLE HERE FOR FIRST TIME

Two national Y. W. C. A. councils began a five day meeting yesterday at the Harriet Hammond McCormick Memorial residence, 1001 North Dearborn street. Tomorrow the national board of directors will meet, holding its session in Chicago for the first time.

Councils representing business and professional women and the industrial units of the organization discussed plans for the national convention at closed meetings. It was learned that resolutions would be drafted protesting the trend toward forcing women who marry or married women who have babies to quit their jobs.

Miss Helen Gifford of New York City, executive secretary of the industrial group, and Mrs. Samuel McCrea Cavert of New York, adult sponsor of the business and professional gathering, both said their groups discussed this situation. Miss Cavert said she noticed young women were increasingly alert to economic problems and were taking a greater interest in political questions.

Mrs. James Stewart Cushman, New York, vice president of the World Y. W. C. A., and Miss Charlotte Niven of New York, past world general secretary, were among those who arrived early for the board of directors' meeting.

FREED BECAUSE WRONG PERSON ARRESTED HIM

Reginald F. Franklin, 43 years old, 12 West Lake street, who served as a Democratic judge of election in the primary of April 10, 1934, was freed from the county jail yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge Ray D. Henson of Johnson City, sitting in the Superior court here. The judge upheld Franklin's contention that he was jailed illegally last Wednesday when a writ of attachment for his arrest was executed by policemen instead of by deputy sherifs as specified by statute.

The writ of attachment was issued on Aug. 2 by County Judge Jarecki. It charged Franklin with ballot frauds in the 53d precinct of the 27th ward during the primary. Two other election judges in the polling place have been giving six month sentences for fraud and are appealing their cases.

Neither Sherif Toman nor the board of election commissioners appeared in court yesterday and no effort was made to rearrest Franklin in a proper manner after he was freed. George L. Quilici, special election prosecutor, said he had not been informed of the habeas corpus proceedings.

"The sherif's office didn't seem very anxious to keep Franklin in custody," Quilici said afterward. "The whole case amounts now to releasing a man for whom the sherif will have to start looking again immediately."

Is Your Home Ready for the Holidays?

Now in November, the house comes into its own. Outdoor life changes to indoor life. There are holiday parties ahead in which the home will be the center of gay activity. Of course, you want it to look its very best. Now before Thanksgiving is an excellent time to take a complete inventory.

For the entire house there are all the big and little things that add new delight to living—the things that make Field's Headquarters for Homefurnishings.

Antique Silver is a happy choice for the holiday table. The Old Sheffield Plate Tureens holding the fruit and nuts are arranged in the smart new grouping of three. Shansi provincial administration, are in Nanking. Both deny participation in the revolt and state they are cooperating with Marshal Chiang Kai-shek.

The Japanese claim the separation of the northern territories will include a complete economic and financial divorce, the new government seizing salt taxes, customs, and other revenues yielding $48,000,000 annually.

The Japanese also declared their intention of preventing the shipment of silver dollars or bullion from north China to Nanking or Shanghai. The Japanese stated, however, that the north China government will assume its proportionate share of the interest payments on China's foreign loans.

Envoy to Question Chiang.

Local Japanese papers state that Japanese Ambassador Akira Ariyoshi is proceeding to Nanking in the next few days for the purpose of asking Marshal Chiang: "What is your position? Is it pro-Japanese or anti-Japanese?"

They added: "In the event Chiang replies he is pro-Japanese, Ariyoshi will demand a cessation of double-faced policies and the immediate extermination of all kinds of anti-Japanese activities which includes the recent monetary reforms."

Ariyoshi will be accompanied to Nanking by Maj. Gen. Rensuke Isogai, military attaché. The northern Chinese provinces are overrun with Japanese military officers and inspection parties concerned with numerous economic and mining enterprises. Among them is Gen. Matsui, leading promoter of the so-called Pan-Asian movement, the purpose of which is to expel occidentals from Asia.

Will Face 200,000 Chinese.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 18.—The Japanese war office spokesman today declared the Japanese army will see that the 200,000 troops which Gen. Chiang Kai-shek is concentrating at Lungahi will not enter the Peiping-Tientsin area. Thus the north China revolters will be given a free hand to set up an autonomous state.

The Japanese army will be fully justified in keeping out Chiang's forces, the spokesman pointed out. He disclosed that one of the stipulations of the secret agreement reached last summer by the Japanese Gen. Yoshijiro Umezu and the Nanking war minister, Gen. Ho Ying-chin, who represented Marshal Chiang, is the right of the Japanese army to keep Chinese troops hostile to either Japan or Manchukuo from the Peiping-Tientsin area.

Not a New Manchukuo.

The war office feels it is highly unlikely Chiang will attempt to use military force against the revolters inasmuch as he has everything to lose and nothing to gain. Even if he defeats the 150,000 troops which the combined leaders of north China have at their disposal, the victory will be meaningless inasmuch as he would then have to reckon with the Japanese army.

The war office declared it is not likely the autonomous government will be entirely independent and that most likely it will be somewhat in the nature of the Canton and Fukien governments and that consequently the question of Japanese recognition will not occur. It was said to be certain there will not be a new Manchukuo.

POLAND TRIES 12 UKRAINIANS FOR SLAYING OFFICIAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 18.—The Polish government's new friendly relations with its 6,000,000 Ukrainian minority faces a severe test in the trial which opened today of twelve youthful Ukrainian terrorists. They are charged with complicity in the assassination of Minister of the Interior Bronislaw Pieracki, who was shot as he entered a political club in the center of Warsaw June 15, 1934.

The police who trailed the murderers for months before making the arrests, declare that Hryc Maciejko, the alleged assassin, escaped, finding refuge in Czechoslovakia.

Lithuania also was mentioned, the prosecutor alleging that the terrorists obtained funds from the Ukrainian headquarters at Kaunas. Other sensational evidence is awaited.

Famous Stomach Treatment

DESIGNED FOR 2 THINGS

1 • Relief of Acid Indigestion

2 • To Supply Vital Calcium

WHEN you suffer from stomach acidity use the treatment that gives you quick relief and also helps supply calcium to your system. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are designed to do both.

This famous preparation aids digestion, often brings relief in two minutes to sour stomach, gas, nausea, heartburn, and other distressing effects of a hyperacid stomach. At the same time, it helps supply the system with vital calcium. Doctors say that the ordinary diet is deficient in calcium—so necessary for strong teeth and vigorous health. Our systems need from six to eight grains of calcium a day. Just one Stuart's Tablet supplies over ten grains of this precious element and, when combined with the Vitamin D present in most diets, it can be fully retained by the body.

Don't be satisfied with anything less than these two benefits. You'll be getting both if you ask for Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and refuse substitutes. 25c, 60c, $1.20 at drug stores. A regular 25c size box will be sent you if you mail 6c in stamps to cover mailing costs to F. A. Stuart Co., Dept. 617, Marshall, Mich.

DEMANDS GERMANY TRY CARDINAL BECAUSE HE PRAISED THE JEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—The government should try Cardinal Faulhaber of Munich for high treason because he dared to declare in a printed pamphlet that a number of Jews furthered the cause of culture while science asserted some "old heathen Germans sacrificed human lives." This was demanded by Prof. Arthur Dinter, chief of one of the sundry Germanic faith mavements in Germany, in his periodical, the German Revolution.

Two Priests Sent to Prison.

Father Boeschen was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary and Farther Wurth to one year.

U. S. EMBASSY IN AREA FALLING TO NEW JAP ADVANCE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—High administration officials tonight indicated the supposedly imminent creation of an autonomous north China under Japanese protection was of almost as much concern in Washington as was the Japanese action in wresting Manchuria from Chinese sovereignty four years ago.

The United States embassy is located in Peiping, which is in Hopei province, one of the five regions slated to become a part of the new autonomous régime. Also in the same province is the large city of Tientsin, second only in importance to Shanghai as a center of American business investments.

In Tientsin an infantry garrison numbering about 700 American soldiers is maintained under the Boxer protocol to help protect the railroad from Peiping to the sea. Troops of other foreign nations also are stationed there. A small detachment of marines is stationed at Peiping as an embassy guard. The United States navy keeps an Asiatic squadron in Chinese waters.

COUNTY TO SUE IN A WEEK FOR SWEITZER CASH

Assistant State's Attorneys Hayden N. Bell and William J. Tuohy said yesterday that the civil suit to recover from Robert M. Sweitzer and his bondsmen Sweitzer's alleged shortages during his 24 year term as county clerk will be filed within a week.

When filed the suit will probably be for more than $414,129, the amount of the shortage charged in the criminal trial in which a jury acquitted Sweitzer. The additional sum asked, it is said, will be for additional interest on county funds retained by Sweitzer. He admitted on the witness stand in the Criminal court that he had never paid any interest collections over to the county.

To determine the amount of interest which will be claimed, it was arranged yesterday with Clayton Smith, president of the county board, to have R. L. Pearce & Co., auditors, make a supplementary audit of the books in the county clerk's office. The original Pearce audit computed interest only partially. Since that time new bank records were uncovered in the criminal prosecution which will make it possible to trace further interest payments.

5 FREED BY JURY IN LYNCHING HELD ON COURT ORDER

Ashland City, Tenn., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Five white men accused of lynching a colored citizen were acquitted of murder today, but the court at once ordered their arrest on new charges and sent them back to jail.

Hardly had the jury of farmers finished reporting when Circuit Judge Wirt Courtney, sharply criticising the verdict, issued bench warrants alleging conspiracy to inflict corporal punishment.

Without a moment's freedom the five filed back to jail.

They are four brothers, Luther, Jesse, Jimmy, and Clyde Dotson, and a cousin, Allie Brown. The state charged they lynched Baxter Bell, 45 years old, over an insult to Mrs. Luther Dotson.

Sherif Ed Hutton said he stood ready to file charges based on the seizure of the victim from officers by "armed force" should the five again go free.

Former Wheaton Banker Freed in Federal Court

Monte B. Taylor, 52 years old, was acquitted yesterday in a bench trial before Federal Judge William H. Holly on charges of misapplying funds and making false entries in the First National Bank of Wheaton, now defunct, of which he was vice president and cashier. The alleged misapplication involved $300 and the false entries concerned accommodation notes of $13,000.

TRUCK DRIVER LOSES $4,000.

Italian Salvagers Find Wreck of Torpedoed Ship

BREST, France, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The captain of the Italian salvage ship Artiglio II. returned today from operations off the coast of Ireland and said he had located the wreck of the English freighter Lincolnshire. The Lincolnshire was torpedoed during the world war while carrying 5,000 tons of copper from the United States to France. Its wreckage lies 225 feet deep and the salvage ship will return from Italy in the spring.

BRIDGE TIE-UPS SHOULD END, SAY PORT OFFICIALS

Urge Lifting for Pleasure Craft Only at Night.

Chicago port authorities concurred in statements yesterday that land trafic should not be delayed and inconvenienced while pleasure craft cruise slowly in the river, a single spar often causing all the bridges to open and jamming trafic for blocks.

Their opinions were given before a subcommittee of the city council committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges in a public hearing on a proposed amendment to the bridge ordinance, which would require all vessels not carrying commerce to pass through the spans between midnight and 5 a. m. During those hours pile drivers, dredges, and pleasure boats would least inconvenience street trafic.

Facilities at Navy Pier.

"Though United States engineers have opposed discrimination between boats," said M. W. Oettershagen, city port engineer, "I think it is time now to distinguish between pleasure and commercial craft. There are facilities at Navy pier for recreational boats, and if the yacht owners would cooperate it would be to the advantage of commercial vessels."

"There is a discrimination now, but it is against pedestrians, passenger automobiles, and land commercial trafic," said Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] who, as chairman of the bridge committee for many years, has made an intensive study of navigation conditions. "One boat can delay 100,000 persons. We should consider the rights of all."

Declare Business Is Impeded.

Trafic engineers of the city and the park district said they would like to see the bridges closed as long as possible because of their interest in the smooth flow of trafic in and out of the central business district. They will produce trafic count figures at the next public hearing. The interference of bridge openings with business interests on the north side of the river was pointed out by W. C. Calvert of the North Central association.

In opposition to the proposed amendment were a number of owners of sand carriers who said they would be put out of business if the movements of their boats were restricted to the five hour period. Representatives of other shipping interests such as the Great Lakes Dock and Dredge company and the Fitz-Simmons & Connell Dredge and Dock company reserved their arguments for a later hearing.

DESK POLICEMEN ARE ORDERED INTO UNIFORMS

Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed force, ordered 500 policemen who have customarily performed secretarial, radio, and other special departmental tasks in ordinary street garb back into uniform yesterday.

"Other citizens, seeing policemen going to and from work, have no way of telling whether they were policemen or not," said Prendergast. "The sight of the uniforms will act largely as a deterrent to crime."

Capt. Prendergast issued the order after inspecting 644 officers and patrolmen of the First division, who assembled in Grant park. He found occasion to criticize the equipment of only 43 men.

THE 1935 CHRISTMAS SEAL

The Christmas seal which will be placed on display the day after Thanksgiving by the Chicago Tuberculosis institute in 29th annual drive for funds to combat the disease.

ILLINOIS-IOWA BRIDGE OPENED BY GOVERNORS

Bettendorf, Ia., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—With Gov. Clyde L. Herring of Iowa and Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois in attendance, the new Iowa-Illinois Memorial bridge, between Bettendorf, Ia., and Moline, Ill., was dedicated this afternoon. A large crowd attended. The bridge was erected in memory of American world war soldiers.

In addition to the two governors, the mayors of the quad-cities took part in the program.

Programs at both entrances to the bridge were started simultaneously with the governors of the respective states giving short adresses. As bombs were exploded the official delegations started toward the center of the bridge, where the governors tendered the structure to Mrs. J. L. Hecht of Davenport, wife of one of the pricipal workers in obtaining its construction.

With the two governors holding taut a ribbon stretched from one side of the bridge to the other, Mrs. Hecht severed it, symbolizing that the bridge was ready for use.

100 EXTRA POLICE TO STAY IN LOOP DURING HOLIDAYS

The 100 extra policemen thrown into the loop Sunday will remain there as the customary Christmas shopping season guard, authorities said yesterday. Police first announced that the detail was ordered to prevent violence during a window washers' strike, but later investigation disproved this point. Barney Carrol, assistant business agent of Window Washers' union, No. 34, said a contract to run for one year had been signed with store owners in September and that a strike was not even contemplated.

On Sale Nov. 29

The 29th annual sale of Christmas seals will open on Nov. 29, the day after Thanksgiving, according to the Chicago Tuberculosis institute. The revenue from the annual sales finances a year round program against tuberculosis. The funds are divided among health-education institutions, and nursing and clinical services.

HORNER CREATES GROUP TO RAISE CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Springfield dispatches yesterday disclosed that Gov. Horner has proceeded with his renomination campaign plans to the point where a fund raising organization known as the Illinois Iroquois league has been created.

The incorporators are eight state employés. The purpose of the organization was described as "to further the cause of honest and efficient government," but Daniel F. Sullivan, one of the incorporators, was quoted as saying its chief purpose is to raise money.

It also was reported during the day that employés of the Lincoln State school and colony were being assessed for political purposes.

SIMPLE STREET NAME SYSTEM TO BE DRAFTED

300 Would Be Affected; To End Doublets.

The city council's subcommittee investigating a proposal of the City club to simplify Chicago's street nemes agreed yesterday on the general principle that east and west thoroughfares be called streets and north and south thoroughfares be called avenues.

The committee then authorized Howard C. Brodman, city superintendent of maps, to draft a name system to provide the basis for public hearings on the proposal. Mr. Brodman will report to the committee tomorrow.

Terrell and Crowe Lead.

These steps represent the most definite move toward systematic street nomenclature accomplished by the aldermen in the last two decades. Leadership was taken by Ald. Thomas J. Terrell [29th], chairman of the subcommittee, and Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe [42d], who promised that the committee would return specific name recommendations affecting nearly 300 streets.

Approximately 35 per cent of Chicago's streets and avenues will be affected by the streets and avenue ruling, according to Mr. Brodman. The committee has not decided whether to recommend to the council that the new rule apply even to such well known thoroughfares as State street, Chicago avenue, and other loop thoroughfares.

Edward P. Brennan, co-chairman of the street names committee of the City club, outlined the history of Chicago's street names at the meeting yesterday, and he declared that the changes outlined in the club's program would be generally acceptable.

"Our plan," he said, "will end confusion and mean savings and greater convenience to the general public."

The only objection to the simplification program heard yesterday came from M. J. Schmidt, chairman of the street names committee of the Southport Avenue Businessmen's association. The association, Mr. Schmidt said, objects to the adoption of the name Loomis street for Southport avenue, which is a continuation of Loomis street and Glenwood avenue.

Ald. Terence F. Moran [16th], chairman of the committee on local industries, streets and alleys, appeared before the subcommittee and indorsed the simplification program.

TINKOFF LOSES APPEAL TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

The United States Supreme court at Washington yesterday denied the appeal of Paysoff Tinkoff, Chicago attorney, from his conviction on a charge of aiding William J. Newman, wealthy excavating contractor, to evade income tax payments of $220,000 in 1928. Tinkoff was found guilty by a jury before Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone is June, 1934, and is now serving an 18 months sentence in Leavenworth penitentiary.

Tinkoff, who wrote his appeal in longhand in the penitentiary, asserted that he was brought to the penitentiary heavily manacled in December, 1934, at the time he was attempting to post a new appeal bond. He also declared that the warden refused him the use of a typewriter, a notary, or law books.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which previously denied Tinkoff's petition, held that he did not perfect the appeal in the period allowed him from June to December, 1934. Newman, who testified against Tinkoff at the trial, was fined $2,000 for income tax evasion.

JOHN E. OWENS PUT ON TRIAL IN ASSAULT CASE

Prosecution to Begin Its Evidence Today.

A jury was selected and opening statements were made yesterday in Judge Eugene L. McGarry's Municipal court, where Attorney John E. Owens, who has a law office with his brother, Thomas L. Owens, at 160 North La Salle street, is on trial charged with assault and battery on Charles Purvis, a reporter for THE TRIBUNE.

Thomas Owens is charged with assaulting Charles Tyler, another TRIBUNE reporter, at the same time, but under the rules of the Municipal court the cases must be tried separately.

The prosecution will start presentation of its evidence this morning. Purvis is expected to be the first witness for the state. He will give his version of the alleged assault. He charges that last June 29 John Owens struck him in the eye, though he was wearing glasses, and cut his face.

Prosecutor Outlines Evidence.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty, who is in charge of the prosecution, outlined the state's evidence to the jury yesterday. He said that Purvis and Tylor were riding north in Sheridan road in Purvis' automobile at the time of the trouble.

The prosecutor said the state would show that an automobile driven by Thomas Owens swerved to the left twice, forcing Purvis to turn sharply each time to avoid an accident. John Owens, the state charges, shouted something at Purvis and Purvis suggested that Owens stay in the proper trafic lane. John Owens then went back to Purvis' car, the prosecutor said, and approaching Purvis said:

"I've a notion to punch you in the eye, only you are wearing glasses. I guess I will do it anyhow."

Declares No Provocation.

The prosecutor charged that John Owens then assaulted Purvis and Thomas Owens did the same to Tyler. The assaults were "without any provocation," the prosecutor told the jury.

Defense Attorney Joseph Harrington, who at the start tried to delay the trial by objecting to the jurors on technical grounds, gave the jury the defense version of the assault. He charged that Purvis "deliberately" rubbed fenders with the Owens' automobile and then failed to stop.

He said that when the Owens brothers overtook the reporters' car Tyler yelled: "I'll knock out your brains." He said that both reporters grabbed iron spikes and that Purvis told John Owens "to get the hell out of here."

"Everything John Owens did was in self-defense," Attorney Harrington told the jury.

40 UNPUBLISHED VICTOR HERBERT SONGS REVEALED

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The existence of more than two score of Victor Herbert melodies which the public has never heard was disclosed today by the late composer's daughter.

They are contained in three unproduced Herbert operettas and have been in the possession of Mrs. Ella Herbert Bartlett since the death of her father in 1924.

Only one of the unproduced operettas is complete. It is called "The Lavender Lady" and was written in 1914, shortly after "The Only Girl" was produced.

"Of course, the book is out of date now," said Mrs. Bartlett today, "but the music is still fresh and the score remains just as he wrote it."

NEW ZEALAND TO VOTE NOV. 27 AS 'NEW DEAL' FAILS

Hit Farm Dictatorship and Trade Policy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Nov. 18.—The New Zealand government today called a general election for Wednesday, Nov. 27.

The coalition government of the moderate parties, which was elected in 1931, faces defeat at the polls. Riding into power with a great majority in a campaign to keep out the Labor party, the régime has fallen into disrepute.

Its failure to defeat the depression, a self imposed dictatorship over agriculture and the threat of extending that dictatorship to business has disgusted the public.

Operated by "Brain Trust."

Most of the government's legislation was the work of a "brain trust" with Socialistic tendencies.

With the electorate's anger as an inducement, a brand new party has been formed. It is known as the Democrat party. It is freely predicted the Democrats will win the elections and turn out the coalition government.

The party has vigorously repudiated any intention of following the steps of President Roosevelt. As a matter of fact, its policy is declared to be very much like that advocated by some Republicans in the United States. Thomas C. Hislop, mayor of Wellington, is the leader of the organization.

Planks of New Party.

The policy of the Democrat party, which expects to capture parliament, is a strange mixture of radicalism and conservatism.

The main planks of the party are those dealing with finance and future development of the country. New Zealand has been badly hit by the drying up of her previous sources of foreign loans which she raised every year and justified by her increased production. The setting of limitations upon the amount she may now export to Great Britain, her principal customer, has made it improbable that those loans will ever be renewed on anything approaching the old scale.

Nevertheless the Democrats propose to attempt to do this, but under a new system. They propose to arrange these loans with a properly established scheme for amortization. The funds for this will be obtained by cutting in half the present unemployment relief taxation—which yields $17,400,000 and is based on a system of registration fees and a 3½ per cent wage tax—and devoting this money to servicing the loan.

To End Exchange Inflation.

The party also intends to end the 25 per cent exchange inflation and compensate the farmers with a system of export bonuses on their products. It will also abolish the nominally 5 per cent sales tax which has been so badly devised that it often works out at from 15 to 25 per cent.

Using the new loan money, the Democrats plan to employ the country's unemployed at full time rates of pay, create a health insurance and national retirement income scheme, protect civil servants from the threat of loss of their superannuation which the collapse of the superannuation funds levels against them, establish a new campaign for the development of manufactures, and stimulate mining by abolishing the existing gold export tax. Besides this, the Democrats pledge to restore all wage cuts in the civil service and to reduce the income tax by 10 per cent at least.

The Conservative Side.

The conservative side of the party's policy is to be seen in its attack on the government for its violation of contracts, such as compulsory conversion of government bonds to a lower rate of interest, taxing of securities, and interference with mortgages. The Democrats pledge that in future contracts shall be inviolate and hope thereby to restore confidence in investment which has been notably lacking in recent years.

The party also promises what many parties hav promised in this country—the attacking of the vast burocracy which has grown up and the restoring of control of national affairs to the legislature. This, together with the system of governing by regulation with the force of law and authorized by hurriedly drawn acts of parliament, has long been a grievance.

Germans Find Substitute Metal for Use on Cars

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 18. — Automobile trade magazines today announced German inventors have succeeded in perfecting a "silver" pipe line made of a new metal alloy, which can be substituted for copper and brass. They assert the new metal will reduce the cost of the production of German cars and at the same time reduce Germany's bill for foreign metal.

LUTHER IS IRKED BY SEARCHING QUIZ IN ST. PAUL

New Ulm, Minn., Cancels Ambassador's Speech.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador to the United States, declared today that "America is not entitled to interfere with German affairs."

He made the assertion after he had been bombarded with questions by newspaper men and executives of the American Jewish World.

"I never before have faced such a situation," he said. "America is not entitled to interfere with German affairs."

Pick "Special Case."

Pressed by Fred H. Weinberg, managing editor of the American Jewish World, for answer to the question, "How do you justify the passage of the Nuremberg decree?" [denial of Jews in Germany the right of citizenship and prohibiting Jews there from intermarriage with gentiles], the ambassador replied:

"There are some people in the United States who think differently on many things. They do not realize the great achievements in Germany. You have picked a special case."

Town Cancels Speech.

Simultaneously a New Ulm, Minn., business group before which the ambassador was to speak Wednesday announced cancelation of the engagement because "there has been too much adverse criticism."

The Rev. Henry Scherer, New Ulm Catholic priest, declared "the present German government is looked upon as antagonistic to the rights of our people." New Ulm is a predominantly German community.

However, the Civic and Commerce association of Minneapolis said a talk tomorrow by the ambassador would be made as scheduled.

Representatives of 70 Jewish organizations adopted a resolution urging that "freedom loving citizens" refrain from joining in any reception or public hearing given the German ambassador.

"Principles Not Export Goods."

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—(AP)—An official of the foreign office, commenting on reports from the United States that the German ambassador had undergone sharp questioning by newspaper men because of Nazi policies, said today Germany's internal politics should not concern other nations. "Nazi principles are not export goods," he said.

"What others do in comparable situations is not our affair. By like token, our Jewish laws are our consideration alone."

It was learned today that the Nurnberg decrees depriving Jews of citizenship in Germany, which Dr. Luther was asked to "justify" by questioners, have aroused forebodings in some foreign diplomats in Berlin.

FALLS TO DEATH ON STAIRS.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Walter W. Weaver, 74, father of Deputy Sherif Ollie Weaver, died at his farm home today of injuries received last night when he fell downstairs.

PROMOTER AWAITING VERDICT TODAY UPON MAIL FRAUD CHARGE

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Herbert McDonald, charged with using the mails to defraud, probably will know his fate some time tomorrow. A jury in United States Judge Ferdinand E. Geiger's court took the case late yesterday. The government charged that McDonald came from Chicago last year to act with his brother, Gustav, and David McCullum in promoting the Continental Distributing association, that became the American Distributing company.

That concern, it was declared during the trial first had rooms in a downtown office building and then was run in the rear of a small liquor shop. Advertising propositions were sold for $10 each, without value being given in return, it was charged.

Herbert McDonald was left to conduct the business, his lawyer argued, after his associates had gone to Chicago and Miami. While McDonald admitted today, under questions by both the judge and United States District Attorney B. J. Husting, that he alone became the company, the defense lawyer argued he was left as a scapegoat. The jury is still out.

STERLING MORTON RAPS NEW DEAL'S DICTATOR TRENDS

The New Deal has failed in two avowed objects of cutting cost of government and getting men back to work, Sterling Morton of the Morton Salt company told University of Nebraska alumni yesterday at a luncheon in Mandels' store.

"Those of us in business," said Mr. Morton, "are very nervous, and rightly so, about the trend of policies of government as they appear in recent legislation, such as the Guffey bill and the potato bill.

"We see the taxing power used for purposes entirely distinct from raising revenue. We see control extended to a degree unknown except under stress of war, putting us under a virtual dictatorship.

"Control over cotton has led to control over peanuts, and now over potatoes. To prevent substitution, control over cotton bags has led to control over burlap and paper bags.

"There is no end, except complete regimentation, complete annihilation of the freedom of action of the individual in business, complete control of all means of production by the government.

Joe Saltis Is Summoned on Auto License Charge

Municipal Judge John Gutknecht in Trafic court yesterday issued summonses for Joe Saltis, prohibition beer gangster, and his son, Joe Jr., to appear before him on charges of failing to buy city licenses for their automobiles. Policeman William McEvoy was sent to the Saltis home at 9900 South Irving avenue where, he said, a woman who called herself Saltis' daughter, told him her father owned a brewery in Thornton and purchased licenses for his cars there. The policeman said he left the summonses with her.

COPELAND WARNS SHIPPERS TO ACT ON SUBSIDY LAW

Present System Doomed, Says Senator.

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—American merchant ship owners were warned today that their "only hope of salvation" is to "come to the mourners' bench now."

The warning was in the form of a letter from Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] to Charles H. C. Pearsall, chairman of the American merchant marine conference committee, and was read at the opening session of the joint convention of the conference and the propeller club.

Senator Copeland declared that the Jones-White act with its present system of mail subsidies for shipping is doomed.

"Law Is in Wastebasket."

"The sooner all concerned shall be reconciled to this fact and get down to brass tacks in the formulation of a substitute law the sooner we may hope for the salvation of American shipping," he wrote.

"I cannot make too strong the assurance that the present law is in the waste paper basket."

The senator emphasized that the shipping men have only 60 days to formulate a new law to replace the present one.

Urges "Smoking Out" Enemies.

Joseph B. Weaver, director of the bureau of navigation and steamboat inspection, told the shipping men they should "smoke out" the enemies of the United States merchant marine.

He did not identify the enemies to be smoked out, but said he did not care how "rich they are or how large they are," they put themselves in a "very unenviable position when they try to defeat this secondary navy.

FILES THIRD SUIT AGAINST HUSBAND WITHIN ONE YEAR

Mrs. Ethel E. Thompson, 22 years old, 4215 Prairie avenue, Brookfield, began suit for separate maintenance in the Superior court yesterday against Daniel R. Thompson, 25 years old, 6103 Evans avenue, an oil salesman. She charged cruelty and nonsupport. The bill, filed by Attorney Norman Becker, was the third court action Mrs. Thompson has brought against her husband. They were first married Jan. 1, 1934, and Mrs. Thompson had the wedding annulled ten months later on the grounds that she was intoxicated when the ceremony was performed in Waukegan. The couple remarried last June and on Oct. 30 Mrs. Thompson filed suit for divorce. This bill was withdrawn Nov. 8 after Mrs. Thompson admitted she had spent a week-end with her husband.

The three women have been staying at the Drake hotel for several days and plan to depart today for Detroit and Niagara.

He Walks Floor with Baby, Wife Sleeps; Asks Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The matter of which parent walks the floor with the baby became the moot point in the contested divorce cross suits of Harold Cleveland Schultz, young attorney, and Mrs. Claire Kathlean Schultz today. Schultz said he was willing to take his turn losing his sleep, but the comely Mrs. Schultz, 26, had declined to do so for three years.

ROPER HINTS U. S. OWNERSHIP OF MERCHANT SHIPS

Warns Against Shortage in War Emergency.

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Warning against a potential shortage of merchant ships in war emergencies, Secretary of Commerce Roper tonight projected the possibility of government ownership of the merchant marine.

Roper advanced these arguments before the American merchant marine conference as reasons why conflicting interests must be willing to make concessions on new subsidy legislation.

Calls Fleet Inadequate.

"Let us say here with great frankness," Roper said, "that we are at that critical point in our merchant marine situation when the industry must support an approach of this kind if government ownership and operation is to be delayed or prevented."

Discussing present conditions of the merchant fleet, he said: "It is well known and deeply lamentable that while we are building up our navy to treaty strength we are doing virtually nothing to supply the navy with modern auxiliaries. Even as it exists today the navy would find our merchant marine inadequate for its emergency requirements, especially in speed.

"Must Build Up Service."

"When navy treaty strength finally is reached, the disparity between our first and second lines of defense still will be more strikingly apparent unless in the meantime we build up the merchant marine.

"Official figures show that in the event of a major campaign the present-day United States would need 900 merchant ships, totaling approximately 6 million gross tons. Some idea of what this means is obtained from the statement that we have only 488 carriers of goods and passengers in the foreign trade of approximately 3,065,000 gross tons."

VERDICT REACHED IN $25,000 SUIT OF DR. KARL MEYER

The jury in the $25,000 personal injury suit of Dr. Karl A. Meyer, medical superintendent of the County hospital, against Mrs. Mabel Hollingsworth, 1518 Oak avenue, reached a verdict last night after several hours' deliberation. The verdict, however, was sealed and will be ready today in Superior Judge M. M. Gridley's court. Dr. Meyer charged he suffered an internal injury on May 27, 1933, when an auto driven by Mrs. Hollingsworth crashed into his car in Evanston. Mrs. Hollingsworth is the wife of an official of the P. F. Corbin company, hardware manufacturers.

G. O. P. DEMANDS PUBLIC VOTE ON CANADIAN PACT

Treaty Called Cruel Joke on U. S. Wheat Farmers.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A "cruel joke" on American wheat farmers, the cattle and dairy interests and on industries, was the verdict passed by Republican western headquarters yesterday on the reciprocal trade treaty between the United States and Canada as announced by President Roosevelt.

After analyzing the trade agreement, Harrison Spangler of Iowa, director of the western division of the G. O. P., declared it was a step toward free trade. He maintained the treaty extended tarif reductions to other countries, except Germany, with which America has foreign trade, this through the British empire "favored nations" agreements.

Mr. Spangler said that congress should repeal the power under which the president now can negotiate reciprocal trade agreements, and the Canadian treaty should have its date postponed to give the people a referendum on the issue in next year's campaign.

Result of Dictatorial Power.

"This treaty has not been approved by congress or by the people," said Spangler. It is the result of the dictatorial powers placed in the hands of the President by a supine congress. The treaty is the result of secret negotiations. In its preparation the American people were not taken into their confidence by our negotiators.

"In this our administration is in sharp contrast with the Canadian government. In Canada, the suggested reciprocal trade agreement was debated from one end of the country to the other. It was the chief plank in the platform of the newly elected Canadian premier. On that issue he was elected and given the majority in the Canadian parliament. Upon such a vital question, surely the American people are entitled to the same rights.

Sees Living Standard Imperiled.

"We have here in America a standard of living which our tarifs have been designed to protect through a system of rates that would equalize the difference in the cost of production of foreign goods coming into the American home market.

"This Canadian trade treaty throws all that overboard. It leaves large groups of our industry and our agriculture at the mercy of imports, in which the difference in cost of production has not been considered.

"The President in announcing the agreement placed great emphasis on the large number of items of American manufacture on which Canada agrees to reduce her rates. The President did not, however, mention that under the British Empire preference trade agreement, the British Isles and all the British dominions are given a preference advantage, ranging upward to 30 per cent, over any and all other competitors.

"England manufactures most of the goods on which the rates have been reduced and American business still must compete at a disadvantage in the Canadian market."

HAROLD TEEN—NO ENTRY, NO PRIZE

BRAZILIAN CHAMBER FORMALLY ADOPTS NEW TRADE PACT WITH U. S.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Santonio Carlos Deandrada, president of the chamber, today formally promulgated the new reciprocal trade treaty between Brazil and the United States, making it effective immediately.

The chamber's finance committee approved a bill authorizing a thawing agreement for $21,650,000 in frozen North American balances, using credits of up to $30,000,000.

Officials said the bill would be taken up on the chamber floor Thursday.

MANY PROTEST TRADE TREATY WITH DOMINION

Pact Seen as Major Political Issue.

tion, W. L. Mackenzie King, the Canadian prime minister, signed for the British crown, as Secretary of State Hull signed for the President. Nonetheless the trade agreement must be approved by the king. This approval is a mere formality as Prime Minister King acted with the full approval of George V.

Contrasts It With Taft's.

In his statement Senator Schall recalled that in 1911 President Taft agreed to a Canadian reciprocity act that did not go a tithe of the distance of this star chamber proceeding in lowering the protective bars of the American farm against foreign competition.

"Every provision of the Taft reciprocity plan was laid before the American people and before congress," Schall said. "This Roosevelt-Canada act is purely a White House edict so far as American participation is concerned. And it covers a score of commodities to every single proposal of the Taft treaty.

"The people of Canada are given a public voice through their parliament. The people of this, the greatest so-called republic on earth, are given a 'summary' of the star chamber proceedings and an executive edict.

"The principal thing we know is that it is principally aimed at the industries of the middle west and the northern border. One of the 'crowning benefits' of the act is that we may get Canadian whisky at a tax of $2.50 a gallon instead of the former $5.00. A boon to the bibbler who shouts for the 'raw deal,' he needs raw whisky cheap to silence his conscience and deaden his brain while he shouts 'Hooray for the Raw Deal.'"

Sees Tarif Destruction.

Representative Church said that the pact "will help destroy our protective tarif system and let in large quantities of foreign products, including agricultural products." Representative Brewster contended the duty reduction on Canadian seed potatoes contradicted a presidential promise.

Former Senator Clarence C. Dill of Washington charged that the treaty renders northwest lumber and fishing industries "sacrificial lambs on the altar of an experiment called reciprocity."

"It is mighty poor business," he said, "for our government to appropriate billions of dollars to employ the idle and then, by reducing tarifs on those things of which we can produce vast surpluses, to destroy the natural employment which such production of our necessities would afford.

"The bitterness of the reduced lumber tarif pill is apparently sugar coated by the limitation of 250 million feet of fir and hemlock, but the sugar coating is only apparent. What it really means is that 4 million man hours of labor are to be transferred from Washington and Oregon to the cheap labor of Canada, including the orientals.

"The reduction of the tarif on halibut and salmon will transfer a large amount of income of our fishing industry to the Canadians. Just how many man hours this will mean is hard to determine, but it adds to the advantages Canada already has in the industry."

Davis Doubts Its Wisdom.

Senator James J. Davis [Rep., Pa.] said our relations with Canada have always been pleasant and expressed the hope that they will continue to be so, but doubhted the wisdom of the treaty.

"Only a clairvoyant should attempt to forecast the good or evil, the gain or loss, which will come through the trade agreement which the President admits is revolutionary," he said. "A similar proposal some 25 years ago acted as a political boomerang on the chief executive."

Other comments included:

Representative Harry Sautoff [Radical, Wis.]—The treaty looks like the old story of agriculture being sold down the river, to benefit manufacturers.

Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.]—It is rank discrimination against our corner of the nation. Canada can undersell us because we have developed decent working wage conditions in our logging camps and fair prices in our markets.

Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] and Joseph C. O'Mahoney [Dem., Wyo.] came to the support of the President. Wagner said he considered the treaty a step in the right direction. O'Mahoney said the pact will benefit the Rocky mountain area especially.

[Reactions from industrial leaders will be found in the business section].

AUTO CRASH FATAL.

Plymouth, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Elwood H. Morrison, 57, was killed last night near his home northwest of here when Fred Mullenhour lost control of the car in which they rode.

Is your Boy too weak to "Play the Game"?

Does it wring your heart to see the longing in his eyes?

You would give anything to strengthen the weak bones, to give him more flesh and muscle and a richer flow of blood through his starved veins.

Perhaps his appetite is good and he seems to be eating plenty of food but doesn't seem to thrive. Lack of vitamins, especially the two so vital to children, may account for his pale face, and thin, delicate body.

You can start today to correct this deficiency. It is a simple way to health—but very important—yet it only costs a few cents a day.

He needs Vitamins A and D

Vitamin A is the essential element used in building and repairing the outer skin and the inner linings of the body. It builds definite resistance against colds with their tendency to cause lung, throat and sinus infections. A deficiency of it retards growth, may cause stunted bodies and certain skin and eye diseases.

Vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, builds and repairs body, bone and teeth, while a lack of it means soft, crumbling, decaying teeth, weak, deformed bones and rickets.

Nature's own tonic

Now you can give your child plenty of vitamins without giving him cod-liver oil or forcing him to eat great quantities of certain kinds of foods. By a new scientific process (U. S. Patent No. 1,690,091) owned by the International Vitamin Corporation, Vitamins A and D are extracted from cod-liver oil, one of the richest sources of these vitamins—and sealed into small gelatin capsules called I. V. C. Vitamin Pearls, which are tasteless, odorless and easy to swallow. The nauseating oil is entirely eliminated. In other words, when you give your child I. V. C. Vitamin Pearls you are giving practically straight vitamins in a convenient and easy-to-take form at a surprisingly low cost.

See the change in 10 days!

Start giving your child I. V. C. Vitamin Pearls today and see the difference even 10 days makes. Mark the improved appetite and new color and vitality the child shows. Run-down grown-ups, invalids and convalescents, as well as delicate children find the source of extra strength and vigor they need in I. V. C. Vitamin Pearls. All first-class druggists sell I. V. C. Vitamin Pearls on a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. Be sure you ask for Genuine I. V. C. # Macfadden Emerges from America's Six Year Debacle with the Largest Voluntary* Magazine Circulation in the World

Rather an amazing result to fall within the life of one man who began with a single publication about a third of a century ago. But its importance lies not merely in this outstanding achievement of Macfadden, but in the far more broadly significant thing that is happening in America and which has not yet been put into words.

And it is this significant thing that is happening in —not to—America (nothing is happening to America) that brings us back once more to these editorial pages which had consideration amongst thinking minds a few years ago.

This significant thing is the psychological change that has taken, and is taking, place amongst a great, broad mass of American people—a change which gives assurance that some of the ideas and ideals of the past can find fulfillment. That change being the settling down of a great mass of people from a useless and untidy waste of wild expenditures to a stabilized demand for useful and usable goods. And this will be the subject of these pages to follow. In other words, the emergence of an entirely new market as America itself emerges.

It is interesting to note, at the start-off, that the beginning of this significant change, which is now in full flow, must be credited entirely to the great manufacturing interests themselves of these United States.

The concept of this new era in American affairs began with important big employers themselves who clearly saw where their mass production schedules were leading them, who clearly understood that new mass markets had to be found to absorb that mass production, and who consciously changed the whole course of world history in their effort to achieve this result.

Russia talks about her economic revolution. That economic revolution started right here in these United States when America first discarded the age-old idea of labor as a commodity and, by voluntarily raising wages and shortening hours, created the brand new idea and ideal of labor as a market; thus, changing the very basic tenet of the whole capitalistic system, and doing it far more intelligently than Russia ever dreamed of.

But that is now an old story which need not be repeated here. It may be interesting to remember, however, that the story of that tremendously important change in the economic set-up of the world was first put into words in a similar series of these pages sponsored by Macfadden Publications nearly ten years ago.

That new concept of a participating world—a world that was at once maker and user—had its first set-back in 1921. And nobody knew just why. No sales manager who had a big production schedule on his hands will ever forget those early post-war days. He didn't know where his markets were nor how long they were going to last. Every market he dealt with was as unstable as a whirling feather in a gust of wind. The only mass market that could be counted upon was the steady demand for pink silk shirts and green silk socks, accompanied always by a riot of powder and perfume. And the result was the crack-up of 1921.

The second set-back of this new concept of a participating world came, of course, with the great debacle of 1929. And that will be taken up more fully in later pages. Suffice it to say, for the present, "debacle", not "panic", is the word to use in relation to 1929. Debacle —a sudden disruption—as when a mighty river breaks its dam and rolls down over the peaceful people below, with "panic" merely the helter-skelter activity that follows it. Debacle, the gathering of forces too great at the top, with outlets too narrow at the bottom.

It was evident even then to thinking minds that something was definitely lacking in the plan. But the world moves fast. Even since that time changes of such significance have taken place that a whole new world is opening up to us.

These changes and their significance will be discussed in the pages to follow. It is hoped they will again put into words what America has been putting into deeds.

The fact that Macfadden has emerged from this six year period with the largest voluntary magazine circulation in the world is an important fact in verifying these changes and a most important factor in pointing up their significance.

But the most important things are the changes themselves which give assurance of wider and more substantial markets, as America itself emerges.

*Voluntary circulation is the number of copies of a magazine that people will buy, issue by issue, if left to their own devices.

THE NEW HOOVER.

Mr. Hoover's address before the Ohio Society of New York will be regarded as one of the ablest of his career. His thought was sharply defined and his expression as forceful as it was dignified. He presented a well knit argument, rooted in fact and free of invective. He did not content himself with saying that the New Deal is composed of contradictory and reckless experiments; he proved it. He left his audience convinced that the government today is in the hands of gamblers who lack even the expectable shrewdness of their fraternity.

Mr. Hoover has grown, intellectually and emotionally, since March 4, 1933. Like John Quincy Adams, he is a more imposing figure in retirement than in the White House. Today he sees men—including himself—and events more clearly than before. His understanding of his own rôle is a striking evidence of his powers of disinterested analysis. He must have been among the first to recognize the mistakes which the New Dealers were making, but he maintained a rigorous silence for two years or more in the knowledge that opposition from him during those years would only strengthen the enemy. His timing has been flawless; he did not speak until the country wanted to hear him.

In his interview with Mr. Henning, Mr. Hoover gave other evidence that he has a keen sense of the rôle he can best play. He cannot fail to know that there are few men in the country as well equipped as he for the presidency, but he still can view the situation objectively and see that other men can enter the campaign with fewer political handicaps and therefore with much greater hopes of success.

Mr. Hoover's most memorable service to his country is plainly foreshadowed. He will throw himself into the fight on behalf of the Republican nominee and his influence will be second to none, for his word carries great weight with the millions who voted for him and other millions who wish they had. As the first outspoken opponent of the New Deal tyrannies, THE TRIBUNE has had the opportunity to appraise every other important adherent of the cause. None of them, we believe, will prove of greater value in the forthcoming campaign than Mr. Hoover.

ANOTHER HEAD-ON COLLISION.

While the New Deal has been aptly likened to the courier who leaped on his horse and rode furiously off in all directions, Mr. Roosevelt's faculty of colliding with himself is certainly a special gift. When a bewildered citizenry, who have watched the plowing under of crops, the slaughter of pigs and cattle, the paying of farmers not to plant corn and wheat, read the new treaty admitting Canadian farm products at reduced duties a considerable number of Mr. Roosevelt's fellow countrymen must have felt forced to the conclusion that their chief magistrate is just lacking in good sense. If one policy can be justified the other cannot.

Mr. Roosevelt ought to try to agree with himself for awhile.

THE MILLION DOLLAR BABIES.

At 17 months the Dionnes are regarded as old enough to start their careers. There has been some preliminary dabbling with camera effects, but now a contract for a moving picture has been signed by their guardian, the Ontario minister of welfare. Motion pictures have regarded the babies as tempting bait ever since they were born. A pretty price was offered and the state guardians thought they must accept in justice to the babies' fund. They are already worth about $200,000 and that obviously is only the beginning if they keep their numbers intact.

Five Shirley Temples in one picture would be a Hollywood dream of the deliriously unattainable, but as these little Canadians begin to move and prattle the miracle assumes probability. There'll be millions in it. The future of these youngsters is a natural subject for speculation. The show business seems to be the field they would enter as soon as they could and one in which they would remain. The unknown element is in the character developed in the minds of the five. When they become conscious of the circumstances of their fame will they become shy? Will they accept the bounty which has fallen in their lap or will they decline it and seek the normality of ordinary existence?

As wards of a state they are as strange legally as they are biologically. Law based upon English development does not ignore the natural family claim as it has in the Dionne case. The right of the parents to their children would have been protected from the first court to the last unless inability to make a proper home had been proved. That the parents were not in position to give the babies the special care which would grant them their best chance of survival was almost self-evident in the beginning. That they could not now resume custody and keep the family intact is by no means certain. The parents can see as well as anybody else that their daughters as they grow older will make a great deal of money if permitted. Of this the family will receive a share, but no such share as would satisfy the parents of one prodigy upon whom Hollywood looked with favor.

RIGHT TO DIE.

The right to live is of more concern to most of us than the right to die. Indeed, the law does not recognize a right to die. Suicide under the common law was and is a felony carrying forfeiture of property. One who advised suicide was guilty of murder, at least when committed in his presence. In some states an attempt at suicide is a crime and to advise or otherwise assist an attempt is a criminal offense. The law differs in our many jurisdictions and decisions are inconsistent; but in this country, as in England, attempts at suicide are punishable and aiding or abetting is criminal.

In recent years there has been discussion of the right of individuals suffering from incurable maladies to end their sufferings and of the right of others to assist them. There has lately begun in England a campaign to establish this right. It has the leadership of Lord Moynihan, a distinguished surgeon; the scientist Prof. Julian Huxley, and other highly reputable men. Lord Moynihan affirms that the movement is gaining support throughout the nation. He anticipates opposition from Roman Catholics, and we should suppose there would be opposition from other communions on religious grounds. There is the commandment "Thou shalt not kill." There is the doctrin that the sole dominion over man's body is God's, that suffering is by the will of God and, therefore, that release from it by self-destruction is sinful interference with the divine will. That, however, is a question of conscience and not of law unless it is made so by law. Lord Moynihan proposes to present a bill in parliament providing for death in certain circumstances. It will be a difficult measure to frame.

The subject divides itself into two important questions. First, shall a sufferer have a right to die, and, therefore, to be assisted to die? Second, shall physicians or other legally authorized persons have a right to end the life of an incurable who is incapable mentally or physically of giving consent, as a hopeless imbecile or a child doomed, in the opinion of science, to incurable disease of mind or body?

Obviously, the removal of present legal restraints and penalties must be attended by the most careful practicable safeguards against abuse. It will be recognized that grave abuse is likely and difficult completely to prevent. But a great deal of unnecessary suffering would be prevented and this consideration in many minds offsets the danger and evils of abuse. It seems a tyranny that the law should deny to the individual the right to end his sufferings if he wills to do so and the consequent right of authorized persons to assist him.

The other question, shall physicians or other authorized persons be granted the power to end the life of incurables when consent is not obtainable? is much more dubious. The most apparent objection is that science has not yet reached the certitude of judgment which might justify such a grant. No diagnostician, however eminent, is infallible. Patients given up have survived. Medical science is progressive and what is incurable today may be curable tomorrow. There are cases, no doubt, where there can be no hope, especially in old people, but most of us cling to life and there is no likelihood that any law would authorize action without consent in any such case. Where the consent of the patient cannot be had for any reason, probably no authority to end life should be granted, although this would deprive many sufferers of a release they would seek if they were able to judge for themselves. The law must rest upon generalizations, and in this twilight zone the considerations against a grant of authority to take life, however plausible it might be in some instances, are too weighty to be ignored. Where rational consent is given the right of a sufferer to die would seem to be a liberty belonging to the individual in a free society.

WEATHER TO THE RESCUE.

[Idaho Statesman, Boise.]

Weather has been extremely kind to the New Deal, relieving the AAA charlatans of worries just when problems began to get tough.

Consider the recent freeze, which appears to have removed all danger of a potato surplus and to have increased prices to a point where no steps will have to be taken this year. This disaster to the crop came just at the moment when the AAA was regarding the Warren control bill with acute distaste and wondering just what it was to do with the whole nasty situation. Now the mess can be postponed until after election next year; and since such happy go lucky postponement is the essence of New Deal philosophy every one is happy.

The situation was much the same with wheat. The huge surplus, piling up over many years because of loss of our foreign markets, had for many long years held wheat prices down to starvation levels. The domestic allotment plan was tried with dubious prospect of success. Then along came two successive years of drouth and the surplus disappeared as if by magic; the United States began importing wheat in important quantities for the first time in history. The result was an increase in prices, and an answer to the vexing question of "What'll you do if some one who never raised wheat before starts raising it now?"

That has been the nightmare of the entire domestic allotment, voluntary control program. Suppose that after all these farmers have been paid not to raise hogs some farmer who never raised hogs before comes along and raises a whole lot of them. If this is sufficiently widespread the entire benefit of the reduction is wiped out and the net result is a lot of checks paid out of the federal treasury, without any reduction of surpluses.

THE SAYINGS OF THE LITTLE ONES usually give me a pain in the neck, but I indorse strongly the constantly repeated remark of Dorothy, aged one and one-half. Dorothy has a stock phrase which she invented herself and uses on all occasions, to wit, namely, "Howdy do goodby." Dorothy set me thinking. How many unpleasant experiences and vain regrets I would have been spared if, like Dorothy, when I met a new acquaintance I had only said, "Howdy do goodby." It's not in meeting a person for the first time that one garners unhappy memories. It's probably a week or two before he goes around and tells how hard you're drinking or that he found out that your father was hanged for stealing sheep in Missouri. And it may be a month or two before he touches you for a five or works off a rubber check on you. Ah, if, like Dorothy, when one meets happy, ingratiating strangers one had only said, "Howdy do goodby." Dorothy is a lot younger than I am, but I can learn things from her. "Howdy do goodby."

But, understand once and for all that Etaoin Shrdlu is not seeking the nomination.

She was one who could never resist
Criticizing her friends and her neighbors.
There was something that every one missed;
Something always was wrong with their labors.

For this one was sweet, but too vapid;
And that one was stunning, but vain.
While another had wits that were rapid;
But a face that was painfully plain.

If the sun shone, his rays were too bright.
She found life and the living unpleasing,
And said so from morning till night.

Then she wondered why she was neglected
When others received tributes floral;
And not for a moment suspected
This fable's self-evident moral!

PSYCHOSES IN YOUTH.

As soon as we begin to reason and to think for ourselves life becomes realistic. We subconsciously inaugurate a series of adjustments of likes, dislikes, fears, joys, and desires. Some persons adapt themselves more readily than others. There comes a time in the lives of most of us when we struggle to dominate somebody—father, mother, or a younger brother or sister. Later we mingle with people and form friendships; we share in a very definite way in their successes as well as in their disappointments.

Between the ages of 15 and 20 youth comes into its own, filled with idealism and ambition, and dominated by the principles of truth, honor, integrity, patriotism, respect for law, etc. Boys and girls in high school and college are dreaming dreams and painting colorful pictures of life as they would wish it to be.

Then comes reality. Dishonesty appears instead of honesty, falsehood replaces truth, a trusted friend betrays a confidence. What a shock to idealism! Some are prepared to meet these mental blows and they adapt themselves with facility; a shrug of the shoulders and the search for an honest friend to replace the one who proved unworthy. These emotional shocks constitute injuries to the mind—the sensibilities—as definite as a crushing injury to an arm or a leg. If the force is great enough something gives way or, as we say, a psychosis or mental upset appears.

Life is a complicated process. We are all bound up in a struggle for existence and in ordering our acts and thoughts in a way that will bring us the greatest amount of happiness. We want to be successful, to have homes, to be popular, to possess friends—in other words, to live. When any one of these ambitions is thwarted or defeated, when the foundations of our beings are swept from under us, psychoses may assert themselves. They will not come if we are able to make adaptations, to substitute something for the thing that has been destroyed and make of this new thing a vital part of our existence.

We can train children to meet the problems of life with which they are bound to be faced by teaching independence, self-reliance, and a certain amount of intellectual and emotional bravery: to subjugate oversensitiveness. We can do this at the very time that we are guarding the child against disorders of nutrition, infectious diseases, and toxins.

The following case of a 17 year old girl who entered one of our co-educational universities illustrates how deep an impress a relatively minor incident—when one views life as a whole—made upon an alert though sensitive mentality. Following her arrival in the college town there was the usual round of parties. The gayety of the rushing season was followed by pledging to the sorority of her choice. Two of her high school classmates attending the same university failed to receive a single sorority invitation. Her sense of personal elation was completely destroyed by the inconsolable grief of her high school friends. She listened to their tales of woe hour after hour and endeavored to serve as a comforter. The whole matter preyed so deeply on her mind that for several nights she was unable to sleep. Her sense of injustice was aroused at the unfair punishment that had been inflicted upon her two lovable classmates.

Finally the whole thought of education became abhorrent. The glamor of the first few weeks faded into nothingness and a drab pall of futility clouded the whole affair. She withdrew from school, appeared at the home of her parents with no explanation other than the fact that she could not stand it all. She is now recovering from a psychosis that may leave an indelible impress on her life. Strangely enough her two disappointed classmates readjusted themselves without difficulty, remained in school, and are doing well.

Hundreds, perhaps thousands, of similar breaks are reported each year, although not all from the same cause. It behooves us, therefore, to watch these post-adolescents, to safeguard in every possible way mental stress and strain until understanding can place upon every incident of life its proper and relative value. It would be a sorry world, however, were we all possessed of sluglike nervous temperaments—our veins filled with circulating ice water.

CONGENITAL DISLOCATION.

H. K. O. writes: When my son began to walk he got around fairly well, but he showed weakness on one side which caused him to fall occasionally. An X-ray showed a congenital dislocation of one hip joint. He was put in a plaster cast after the head of the thigh bone had been replaced in the socket. He is now 9 years old, walks perfectly, and even our physician cannot tell the affected from the normal hip. In our small community we have had five such cases.

REPLY.

Congenital hip dislocations are not uncommon. When the child is young competent orthopedic surgeons have little difficulty in replacing the head of the thigh bone. The important thing is to recognize the condition before the child is too old. A cutting [open] operation is rarely necessary. When the child is under an anesthetic it is a relatively simple matter to reduce the dislocation. You are to be congratulated on the successful management in your son's case.

THE USES OF PAINTING.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—The hullabaloo over the American show at the institute has emphasized the fact that art to be vital must be useful.

The present needs for easel painting are:

1. As objects of decoration.
2. As records of historical events, the essence of which can be better presented by painting than by any other means. [Portraits may be placed in this classification.]
3. Occasionally an artist has an idea so potent that it would have great social significance.

Supplying any of these needs, the artist is working for a definite market. Wall paintings would be made to order for a particular room, the color scheme and interests of the buyer being considered. Here is an opportunity to study the inherent beauty of form and color. Historical painters would cater to collectors and would be something of scientists combining accuracy of detail with significant composition. They would have an additional source of revenue in prints sold at popular prices. The inspired canvas which the artist felt forced to paint is the potential museum piece. However, one is severely strained to name one of these.

So-called "fine art" is the wildest kind of speculation. The average picture exhibited represents an expenditure of probably fifty dollars, including materials, frame, express, and entrance fee. It must be submitted to the whims of a jury, and then take its chance on appealing to several hundred dollars' worth of some one's fancy.

Business is the great patron of art today. Paying the best prices, it obtains the best designers and craftsmen. This is an age of great artistic development, but look for its manifestations in your motor car, in your home, and your library rather than in sheltered halls of a subsidized museum.

FRANCES POE.

SHAKEDOWN ALLEGED.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—I am the manager of an average neon shop. It is required that the aldermen of each ward okay all applications for permits to hang outside neon signs. The city code states that unless the alderman vetoes the application within seven days, the permit shall be issued.

It has been my sad misfortune to have some of my permits held up for as long as three months without the veto. If, on certain occasions, in order to put the job through quickly, we personally contact the alderman, the average one won't even talk to us. His answer as a rule is, "I must talk to the man in person who is putting the sign up." Since the average alderman is either selling insurance, real estate or what have you, you can readily understand why he wants to see the buyer of the sign. Not only is the company urged to buy whatever the alderman has to sell, but we are forced to contribute to political dances, banquets, picnics, campaigns, etc.

We realize that the alderman's salary is small and that the money used to keep him in the style he is accustomed to must come from somewhere; but why not give the little fellows a break? Our margin of profit is small, and being forced to buy something with every permit does not leave much money for our own livelihood.

SIGN MAN.

OUTSTANDING MEN.

Valparaiso, Ind., Nov. 14.—Every time I read in the papers that the Republicans have no chance to beat Roosevelt because they have no outstanding man for a candidate I see red. What do they mean outstanding? Was Roosevelt an outstanding man when nominated? If so, in what way?

Surely there was nothing "outstanding" in his record as governor of New York, or if there was, then the record of Gov. Landon of Kansas must be colossal. Then we are told of Roosevelt's appealing radio voice, his wonderful smile and charm that will make him hard to beat. God help the American people if we, in times like these, choose a President because he has a charming voice and a benignant smile. So had the old time city slickers. I confess that a Harvard accent leaves me cold.

I could make a list of 20 Republicans, shut my eyes and stick a pin in a name and find a candidate as outstanding as was Roosevelt. If the papers would say that there is no Republican available with so good a record as a waster and pledge breaker, I can agree.

NINA DE LANO HITCHENS.

EMERSON ON KENNICOTT.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—On the night following last Wednesday's commemoration at the Academy of Sciences of the 100th anniversary of Robert Kennicott's birth I was reading in the 10th volume of Ralph Waldo Emerson's "Journals"—one of my favorite "bedside books"—and came on this entry under date of March 26, 1864:

"At the club, where was Agassiz just returned from his lecturing tour, having created a natural history society in Chicago, where four thousand five hundred dollars were subscribed as its foundation by 19 persons. And to which he recommended the appointment of Mr. Kennicott [sic] as the superintendent."

The great Agassiz's recognition of the remarkable gifts of our townsman, who died untimely, has, I believe, not been so specifically recorded elsewhere.

Later Mr. Emerson added a footnote, saying:

"When I visited the Chicago Natural History museum in 1865, the fund had become $50,000."

Chicago's population in 1864-'65 was about 175,000. It is now 21 times as large. But, important and vivid though the work of the academy and its museum is to all Chicagoland—especially the children—could anybody, Mr. Editor, raise $50,000 for the institution today?

It needs the money.

JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

HOW ABOUT "HOOFBEATS"?

Saint Mary-of-the-Woods, Ind., Nov. 14.—Anent the discussion about why horses are always run counterclockwise on an oval track: Ninety per cent of all sound young horses are naturally stronger in their right legs and are much faster and surer footed when running with the left legs leading the right, or as horsemen say, "leading left." The horse which prefers the "right lead" must cross his legs when turning left and will either fall or turn wide at the corners, thus losing the race.

Saddle horses are taught to lead off with either foot at a signal from the rider, but it requires months of practice to get them well balanced as most riders post on the right diagonal at the trot and permit the horse to choose his lead at the gallop, thus making the horse eventually become a left front foot stumbler, as the mount always chooses to canter and gallop left.

My humble opinion is that the men who decided to always run counterclockwise on an oval track simply knew their business. Please don't give this the caption, "Interesting if True."

W. O. LANCASTER, Riding Master.

OWNER TOLD TO LEVEL.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—Several months ago I reported the condition of the building next to my property. The building mentioned is in a very dangerous condition. The space between the above building and my property was three feet. But during the last year it has moved so that it is now resting on my property, thereby endangering the lives of my family. I have asked the owner to repair it, but so far he has paid no attention to it. Please advise what to do in order to obtain results in the matter.

A. M.

This is a two story frame building now leaning to the south, dilapidated but not dangerous. The owner has been notified to level and repair building.

PAY FOR GUARDIAN.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I understand that this law department service is free. If so, will you reply to the following? Is it legal for a widow, not strong, without funds, who has been appointed by the court as guardian for her minor child, to receive pay for her service as guardian? The mother receives monthly allowance for child but none for herself.

R. M. B.

Yes, the giving or withholding of such an allowance is largely discretionary with the Probate court.

[Kansas City Star.]

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Whether the Ethiopians are to be successful in defending their country against the Italian forces depends to a great extent upon the activities of one man—and this one man is in a quiet little town in England.

Herbert Edwards, who carries on the ancient industry of flint-knapping [breaking] in the village of Brandon, Suffolk, is working at full pressure to supply Ethiopian warriors with flints for the old-fashioned guns with which so many are equipped.

The demand has increased greatly since the war began. Between 35,000 and 40,000 flints are being exported every week to West African ports, with many thousands finding their way into Ethiopia.

Normally, large quanties are exported through British merchants to West Africa and Singapore, where they are sold to natives for use in flint-lock carbines, horse-pistols and tinderboxes.

"At present we get about $2.37 a thousand," says Mr. Edwards, "and a good knapper can turn out about 300 an hour. My two assistants and myself have been working overtime for weeks to supply the demand.

"How the flints get into Ethiopia I cannot say, but I am told that large quantities are transported overland and find a ready market."

"Flint-knapping" has been carried on by Mr. Edwards' family for generations. It is claimed his firm is the only one surviving today from what was once an important and widely patronized industry.

REDS NEAR GOAL OF COMMUNISM, STALIN CLAIMS

Workers Pressed to Give Utmost Energy.

MOSCOW, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Soviet Russia, Joseph Stalin said today, has taken a "preparatory step" in its change from state socialism to communism.

Opening the Stakhanovite campaign, by which production is being increased through an enlargement of the individual worker's output, the soviet dictator declared all citizens of the U. S. S. R. would have "welfare and a more cultured" life under the new scheme.

He told 3,000 prominent workingmen and women at the first national Stakhanovite congress in the Kremlin that their gathering was a "preparatory step" for the shift from socialism to communism.

"Follows Lenin."

Karl Radek, noted political commentator, in an official interpretation of Stalin's speech in the newspaper Pravda, said:

"Stalin's words are a prediction that the time for this new life is coming and we shall live to see it."

Radek said Stalin was following in the footsteps of the late Nikolai Lenin. He called attention to the fact that Stalin had reminded his listeners of Lenin's statement that food and other necessities would be distributed according to need, under communism, and not in regard to the purchasing power of an individual because of his working capacity.

The Stakhanovite system, called "rationalization of movements" for the more efficient use of tools, is now being used in several factories and textile mills. The process has met great opposition, however.

Strengthens Defenses.

Klementi E. Voroshiloff, commissar of war and navy, advocated rapid spread of the Stakhanovite system to strengthen Russia's defenses. He declared "our enemies are surrounding us and preparing for war."

G. K. Ordjonokidze, commissar for heavy industry, expressed the belief the movement "will so strengthen our country that no Hitlers and no Japanese imperialists will dare plot against our land."

Alexei Stakhanov, 30 years old, Don basin coal miner, who inaugurated the system, stepped up his daily output of coal 1,400 per cent. Working his drill every minute for a six hour shift, Stakhanov produced 102 tons of coal as compared with his previous seven tons in the same length of time. Now his name is next to that of Stalin as the best known in the soviet union.

Workmen under the Stakhanovite method are receiving greatly increased pay, some earning more than 1,000 rubles a month as compared with their old wages of 150 to 200 rubles.

WIFE GETS TIRED OF BEING PATIENT; NOTIFIES POLICE

Mrs. Fredricka Kos Murphy, 3251 West 63d street, waited six years for George Murphy, 34 years old, to be paroled from Joliet prison in 1929. Then she married him when he promised to go straight. She even forgave him, she says, when he broke his promise and robbed a hardware store. It was too much, she said yesterday, when Murphy announced he was going to live with another woman. She called police when he came for his clothes and had Murphy arrested as a suspect in the robbery of the C. F. Wooley and Sons hardware store, 2937 Archer avenue, in 1932.

144,000 ATTEND AUTO SHOW IN FIRST 3 DAYS

Crowd Records Fall as Sales Go Up.

BY HAL FOUST.

Chicago's 36th annual automobile show last night had broken an all-time attendance record established in January of 1929. In the first three days of the event, Al Faeh, show manager, estimated that 144,000 persons passed through the doors of the International amphitheater at 43d and Halsted streets. This is 42 per cent more than last winter's three day count and 20 per cent above the boom year high.

Sales likewise are on the up. From a compilation of reports from the companies, Mr. Faeh estimated that, as compared with last winter, 22 per cent more contracts have been signed on the exhibition floor and in dealer showrooms throughout the city during the three days. The number of sales prospects listed during the three days is 50 per cent higher than during last winter's event.

Encouraging to Auto Industry.

The upturn in sales and show attendance is particularly encouraging to the industry since autumn in the past has not been a motor buying season. The introduction of new models and the exhibition are being held in the fall for the first time. The date of the event was advanced for the express purpose of stimulating winter sales so as to level employment in an industry that with its allied activities engages a tenth of the country's gainful employed. Success is in prospect.

"The success of the show," said Roy Faulkner, president of the Auburn Automobile company, "should be an inspiration to merchants and manufacturers in all lines."

"The automobile industry," said W. C. Cowling, general sales manager of the Ford Motor company, "cannot take credit for leading the country out of the depression. The situation is simply that the motor producers are the first to take advantage of the recovery."

"Heaviest Buying Since 1929."

"We are having our heaviest buying orders since 1929," said Arthur Hatch, head of Lincoln sales. "When folks start paying $5,000 for motor cars, it's a wholesome indication."

R. H. Grant, vice president of General Motors, after reviewing the show yesterday and talking with heads of the corporation's branches, predicted that the 1936 market will absorb 4,250,000 automobiles. This can be compared with a total 1935 production estimated at 3,375,000 units.

Similarly encouraging reports and predictions came from Harlow H. Curtice, president of Buick; from Harry Klingler, president of Pontiac, and from D. E. Ralston, vice president of Oldsmobile.

The show will continue through Saturday night with the daily hours from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m.

AUTO SHOW NOTES

Medium and high priced cars are enjoying their first wave of buying since the 1929 stock market crash. Fred Johnston, president of the Chrysler Illinois company, describes this trend as a return of the high hat.

H. A. Trevellyan, assistant general sales manager of Oldsmobile, a former Chicagoan, believes that the current increase in motor sales represents a change in public buying habits as much as an improvement in general economics. He commented yesterday that owners for the first time are appreciating the advantage of buying a new car on the eve of winter with its difficult operating conditions.

Emerson J. Poag, Dodge's director of merchandising, is to join the army of motor executives in Chicago today.

Charles W. Nash, chairman of the board of the company bearing his name, will address a luncheon of Nash and LaFayette dealers today.

TOSCANINI MAY QUIT SYMPHONY POST NEXT APRIL

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—It is probable that Arturo Toscanini will make his final appearance as conductor of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra this coming spring, it was learned today.

Toscanini has been anxious to retire for several years. His schedule of concerts has been considerably shortened during recent seasons.

The contract under which he has worked for several years expires at the end of the current concert season, on April 26, 1936. Now in Europe, Toscanini will return to this country in time to take charge of the final ten weeks of concerts.

Arthur Judson, manager of the Philharmonic symphony, declined to comment today on the report.

FOUND DEAD; POISON NEAR.

LATVIA FREE 17 YEARS; UNVEILS LIBERTY STATUE

Symbolizes 3 Tribes of Letts United.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 18.—Latvia's statue of liberty was unveiled today in the center of Riga by President Albert Kviesis on the seventeenth anniversary of the proclamation of Latvian independence.

The statue, facing western civilization, is the tall figure of a Latvian maiden holding high above her head three golden stars, symbolizing the three tribes of Letts who survived 700 years of serfdom under the Germans and Russians and who today are united in the key nation of the Baltic states.

The monument occupies the site once devoted to the equestrian statue of Peter the Great, which held aloft a sword defying Sweden, whose army he defeated here. The liberty statue is made of Swedish and Italian travertine, while the relief figures at the base are constructed of Finnish granite.

Premier Karl Ulmanis, who proclaimed liberty for Latvia when the bolsheviks were holding a reign of terror in Riga, and Gen. Janis Balodis, who, coöperating with the Estonians, defeated both the German army and the Red army, stood beside President Kviesis, who made the dedication speech.

Tonight Premier Ulmanis spoke over the radio to America, expressing thanks for the aid of the American relief administration and Red Cross which saved this country from a famine plague during the war for liberty.

A crowd of 150,000 watched the ceremony and parade. The statue cost $400,000, which was raised entirely by public subscription in the last seven years and is the most imposing monument thus far erected in northeastern Europe. Tonight the president held a reception and ball for the diplomatic corps and a thousand guests at Riga castle.

*Standard production PACKARD EIGHT 7-passenger sedan, weighted to capacity, passing timing booth at Packard Proving Ground, Utica, Michigan

*this Packard

1. Covered 15,432.26 miles with throttle wide open
2. Averaged 88.76 m.p.h., day and night, for 173 hrs. 51 min. 49 sec.
3. One third of this mileage through rain and fog
4. No service except precautionary spark plug change
5. Stopped only for gas, oil, tire changes and driver relief

Starting simultaneously with the opening of the New York Show, this Packard was whirled around the world's fastest concrete track day and night until the show closed. More than a year's normal mileage was piled up in seven days. Through rain and fog, with throttle wide open, it took the severe test that only sustained high speed can give.

Took it and liked it—and was ready for more at the end of the run. This is the kind of performance and stamina Packard expects of the cars it builds. This is the reason a Packard always surpasses the expectations of its owner.

WALTER HUSTON

The clever play "Dodsworth" affords you ample opportunity to continue to give America the superb talent and brilliant performance that has characterized your art—placed you in the first firmament of stardom.

The acting is perfect and the story a grand vehicle for your high talent. In the entire play, there is but one line we would suggest changed. Remember when you accept a beverage to soothe your distraught nerves and momentarily forget the plans of your ambitious "Fran"? And recall that you do not touch the drink during the entire scene?

That, Mr. Huston, we would change. We would have the waiter place in your hand a glass of clear sparkling Fox Head Ale. The aroma would intrigue and pleasantly remind you that here is a brew to be heartily enjoyed. And the flavor and tang would soothe and beguile you from even the most disturbing thoughts of your scheming Fran. You would not leave Fox Head Ale untouched, Mr. Huston!

Anyway, thank you for the grandest play we have seen in years—with an ending that makes even seasoned first-nighters gasp! May you continue for many, many more years to give us the finest characterizations on the American Stage.

EWING GALLOWAY

The open road has a strong allure for the New Yorkers who hit on all cylinders.

In their active lives there are many highways and many destinations. To them an automobile is the motored steed that whisks them to and from the scenes of their varied interests . . . up to New Haven for the game . . . out to Long Island for a round of golf . . . or over to Jersey for the week-end.

The active New Yorkers lead an existence that is amazingly rounded. Their activities embrace the mental as well as the muscular. Their sphere of living includes the hearth as well as the highway. Here are the New York men and women who do many things and need many things to do them with. They have the incomes to provide the clothes and accessories for sport, the cars they drive, the furnishings that make their homes modern and comfortable. They have a keen appreciation of things that are new and things that are worth while, whether it be the swift beauty of a streamline or an ingenious new container.

They appreciate, for instance, a newspaper which concentrates as whole-heartedly on their interests and enthusiasms as The Sun. They find in it a tempo, a quality that makes The Sun not only a great newspaper, but a great advertising medium.

CROAT BLAMES MISSING 'BRAINS' FOR KING'S DEATH

Tells How Chief Armed His Gang in France.

AIX-EN-PROVENCE, France, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Amid stormy courtroom scenes, Mio Kraj, one of three Croats brought to trial for aiding the assassination of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia, told from the witness stand today how a missing blonde woman and a mysterious "Petar" armed the terrorist band in France.

But he insisted he knew nothing of the nature of his "mission" until he left Hungary for France, and declared he fled in horror from Marseilles, where the king and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou of France were shot down Oct. 9, 1934.

"Petar"—suspected by prosecutors of being the slippery Dr. Ante Pavelich, accused master mind of the plot—gave him two bombs and two revolvers, Kraj testified. The woman, he added, handed him 1,500 francs [about $100] pocket money.

Led by King's Slayer.

Accusing Dimitrov Velitchko, the actual slayer, who was killed on the spot, the accused conspirator declared:

"Velitchko led me. I didn't even know the king was debarking at Marseilles. The sight of the crowd upset me. I fled for fear of killing innocent persons."

Kraj admitted taking the oath of the Ustachi band of terrorists "for the liberation of Croatia." He said he was recruited for the Ustachi in 1933 by Pavelich and admitted he lived "near" the Janka Puszta farm in Hungary which allegedly was the base for the terrorist band.

Under questioning by Chief Justice De la Broise, the prisoner revealed that members of the Ustachi drew black and white balls from a box and the ones who drew the black "were chosen for the task."

The lone defense attorney, Georges Desbons, engaged by Pittsburgh, Pa., Croats, protested so violently to the alleged bias of the trial interpreters that he was threatened with disbarment and finally was let off with a reprimand.

"I am pleading an affair which might have set fire to Europe," Desbons cried, in defense of his spirited objections.

Desbons, who charged the Jugo-Slav government had blocked the "true political background" of the assassination by refusing to extradite an important witness, declaed the three defendants were victims of the "cruel, oppressive yoke of Alexander." He also accused a Serbian interpreter of trying to make the prisoners "commit suicide."

Jury Chosen in 10 Minutes.

Also on trial are Zvonimir Pospechil and Ivan Rajtich. The prosecutor's indictment, read after the jury was chosen in the first ten minutes of today's session, stated French authorities had been unable to persuade Italy and Austria to extradite Dr. Pavelich and two other accused Ustachis.

The courthouse, with neighboring streets blocked off by barbed wire and more than 100 mobile guards with fixed bayonets to hold back the throngs, resembled an armed camp. Nearby houses were searched and inhabitants required to show passes on leaving and entering their own homes.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

What's Your Idea?

November 18, 1935.

TRIBUNE farm managers are going to start early on plans for tests to be made in 1936.

For two years various suggestions have been advanced and put to test under practical farming conditions on the farms. Some things have been found worthwhile, others have been discarded. Practical suggestions growing out of experiments have been passed on to other farmers throughout the United States.

Readers of experimental farm stories printed in THE TRIBUNE and thousands of visitors at the farm have expressed their appreciation of the good that has come to them through the work at the Yorkville and Wheaton places. This has been so encouraging to the farm managers, Clarence Thurow and Carl Henderson, that they wish to coöperate even more closely with the public in carrying on experiments in the future by inviting farmers and city people to offer suggestions for use in developing the experimental program for next year.

Some of the tests that have been made during the last two years deal with the following practical farm problems:

CROPS: Rare and unusual crops have been grown on a small scale for two years. In 1934 these crops were grown at the Yorkville farm, and this year at the Wheaton farm, for the convenience of thousands of farmers and city visitors. Seeds and root stock from various parts of the United States and foreign countries have been brought to the farms and tested.

BREEDING: Blue gray beef animals are being produced by mating pure bred Aberdeen-Angus hefers with a white Shorthorn bull. Lambs that recently sold at the highest price paid on the Chicago market in five years were produced by mating grade ewes with Corriedale and Southdown rams.

FEEDING: Tests with different feeds and feeding methods have produced steers that have topped the Chicago market during the last two years. A test is now in progress to increase the weight of wool by giving sulphur water to sheep.

HARVESTING: Methods of curing, baling, and storing hay have been tried out this year.

EROSION: Terraces have been built this year to determine their value in preventing the washing of soil. Trees have been planted in gullies to prevent erosion.

BUILDING: A barn and metal hay keeper have been built within the last two years to test out modern methods of building and new ideas of housing calves and storing crops. Plans are now being worked out for a model tool shed and repair shop.

MACHINERY: New implements, machines, tools, and mechanical devices are constantly being tested at the farms.

These tests do not conflict with the work being done at various agricultural experiment stations and similar institutions. On the contrary, they have done much to encourage farmers to make greater use of the practical and scientific facts developed and recommended by scientists of agricultural colleges and the federal department of agriculture.

Efforts will continue to be made through the activities of the Tribune Experimental farms, totaling more than 2,300 acres, to help introduce new crops, breeds and crosses of live stock, methods of feeding farm animals and marketing agricultural products.

Encouragement will be given to the production of new crops or renewing interest in old ones such as fiber crops, and to the work of processors and manufacturers in a better utilization of products that come from the farm.

Managers of the Tribune farms will welcome suggestions concerning new ideas which farmers or others would like to see tested out under the 1936 experimental program that is now being developed for the farms at Yorkville and Wheaton.

WALLACE'S CORN COMPANY SEEKS TO BEAT SEASONS

Embarks on Experiment in Argentina.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The Hi-Bred Corn company of Grimes, Ia., founded by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and in which he still retains a family interest, now is striving to beat the seasons. It is embarked on an experiment of growing hybrid corn in the Argentine this winter for the 1936 planting season in Iowa.

Some weeks ago Murray Brawner, an employé of the Hi-Bred company, left for Buenos Aires, traveling by plane, carrying with him varieties of inbred corn. Attachés of the Hi-Bred farm at Grimes report that word has been received that the experimental planting south of the equator started about Nov. 1 and will be finished by about Dec. 1.

How much land is being planted has not been divulged by the company, but before leaving Brawner was quoted in a Des Moines paper as saying he doubted that he would be able to care for more than two or three acres of hybrid corn this winter.

Industry Termed Bonanza.

At the time he left it was said at the Hy-Bred farm that attempts to gain a season over the normal climate by growing corn in greenhouses here was not successful. Brawner made a hurried study of conversational Spanish and flew off with his corn bags for South America, where the seasons are reversed.

In these parts the hybrid corn industry is regarded as a bonanza. The sales talk its salesmen have been giving is that the Hi-Bred seed, development of which Secretary Wallace engaged in some ten years ago, increases per acre corn yield about 20 per cent.

It operates in the reverse direction of the AAA reduction policy, for by planting "Wallace seed" farmers could reduce their acreage 20 per cent, take the federal bonus, yet grow almost as much corn as before they reduced their acreage. Secretary Wallace last year, in discussing the divergent paths of the hybrid corn industry and the government's corn acreage reduction policy, declared that because of the limited supply the seed corn of the Hi-Bred company to be planted in Iowa in 1934 would run only from 1 to 1½ per cent of the total crop.

Some Grown as "Contract Corn."

Advertising literature for the company quoted Hi-Bred seed prices as from $6.50 to $7.50 per bushel. Some of the seed is grown as "contract corn" raised by farmers who are provided with the seed and are paid a flat sum for the corn produced under specified conditions.

WALLACE MAPS LONG TERM PROGRAM TO END ILLS OF AGRICULTURE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Asserting that the time has come to "shift from an emergency basis into a long term, permanent, and economically sound program," Secretary Wallace today urged farmers of the country to regard the problem as national in character.

"We have a man sized job on our hands," Wallace told delegates to the convention of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities. "We can't get to first base unless the farmer looks beyond his line fence to his neighbor, to his region, and to the nation.

"Unless the farmers can learn to make the necessary mental and emotional adjustments, we are licked before we start."

The agriculture secretary then forecast an era of regional agricultural adjustment and urged development of county planning by farm leaders during the coming winter.

"You will be hearing a good deal about regional adjustment," he said.

Recalling four regional meetings held with extension workers and college officials last summer, Wallace said "we are at last approaching the agricultural problems as we would have in 1933 had there been time."

Despite the "splendid Canadian tarif agreement," Wallace said, "it does look as though we are going to be under necessity for quite some years yet of making adjustments as sensibly as possible to the foreign markets as they exist."

ASK FEDERAL AID TO REPAIR COAST STORM DAMAGE

Plan Barriers to Future Havoc; Loss in Millions.

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Leaving behind it a coast line strewn from Cape Hatteras northward with the wreckage of seaside dwellings, of battered piers and board walks and of stranded fishing and pleasure craft, the northeaster that lashed the Atlantic coast on Sunday moved out to sea today. Meantime, scores of communities began repairing damage estimated in the millions.

In New Jersey, where much of the loss centered, Gov. Harold Hoffman telegraphed to President Roosevelt urging allotment of federal funds to help rebuild seascoast structures and to create artificial barriers to future storm damage. His plea was repeated in messages to Washington from mayors and officials in a score of other communities.

To date, these messages pointed out, New Jersey has failed to obtain favorable aid for coast projects, although applications for funds have been made.

Two Year's Work Planned.

Governor Hoffman said "the great values of the properties affected and the magnitude of the interests involved merit substantial federal allotment of monies to provide protective structures." The building of barriers, he estimated, would provide employment during the next two years. The improvements should not be regarded as a local project, he said, since "these beaches are national playgrounds."

Other telegrams were sent to Federal Relief Administrator Hopkins, Secretary Ickes, and representatives of the state in congress.

Beach Haven, N. J., which was completely isolated at the height of the storm, reported that on Long Beach island, eleven houses had been washed into the sea and 17 undermined. The damage was estimated at $50,000, in addition to $100,000 caused by destruction of the Pennsylvania railroad causeway to the island. An adjacent motor causeway was repaired today, and bus and automobile trafic was resumed.

Fishing Operations Halted.

Atlantic City was reported digging itself out from the debris left by the wind and the high tide. Damage was estimated at $100,000, chiefly to the owners of small properties. Fifteen families passed a part of the day at the Marlborough-Blenheim hotel, at the invitation of Mayor Charles D. White, a part owner, while firemen pumped water from their homes and made them habitable.

At Long Branch, in addition to other damage, it was stated that loss of piling and nets had caused four of six fishing companies there to suspend operations for the remainder of the season, throwing about 100 fishermen out of employment.

Asbury Park, N. J., officials of which joined in the plea for federal aid, began repairing damage in the surrounding area estimated at $300,000. At Deal the new municipal sewage pumping system was badly shattered and a row of bath houses destroyed. Other communities hard hit included Belmer, Avon and Bradley Beach.

25 Deaths Laid to Blizzard.

Other severe damage as a result of the storm was reported from Cape Cod and parts of the Massachusetts coast, and from parts of Long Island. In towns removed from the seaboard, where the storm took the form of wind-driven snow, sleet or rain, at least 25 deaths occurred as a result of automobile accidents. A large part of these occurred in Pennsylvania, where snowfall marooned scores of motorists and bus passengers overnight in the Pocono mountain area, and caused numerous accidents by reducing visibility.

In New York, where the property damage was relatively slight, interest centered on an account of the storm at sea, brought to port by the captains of the Ward liner Orizaba and the United Fruit liner Veragua. They reached port 18 hours late, partly because they had stood by the collier Hartwelson, which had sent an SOS while off the Delaware coast. The collier reached Delaware breakwater safely.

N. Y. Snow Kills Four.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 18.—(AP)—New York state dug out today after a snow and sleet storm that caused four deaths and injured scores of others. Snow ranged from nine inches in the southern tier to five in the northern Adirondacks.

BOTTLERS IN CHICAGO BUY BETHESDA SPRING FROM WAUKESHA BANK

Waukesha, Wis., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—George M. Brenner, president of Bonton Beverages, Inc., Chicago, announced today his company has purchased the Bethesda Spring here, once a famous "watering place."

Herman Glick, secretary and treasurer of the company, is here. The Chicago plant will be dismantled and its machinery shipped here. The Bethesda plant has been idle since its bankruptcy last spring. Mr. Brenner aserted that Morris Cohn, vice president of the Bonton company, will be in charge of Chicago distribution. The Waukesha National bank acquired Bethesda Spring and the park surrounding at a receiver's sale. They were offered to the city, because Bethesda park has been much in demand for outdoor activities. The city refused to consider purchasing the property. The Bonton company bought the spring and plant from the bank.

GERMAN PRINCE TAKES DESK JOB WITH AIR FIRM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—Contrary to reports prevalent in semi-official circles, Prince Louis Ferdinand of Prussia, after completing his military service as a private in Brandenburg early this year, returned to Germany's national aviation company, Lufthansa, where he now holds an administrative job.

A close relative, Prince Henry XXXVII. of Reuss, was placed in charge of the relations between the air force and foreign diplomats. Reuss, a former submarine commander, is related to the former imperial house through his mother, who was born Grand Duchess Charlotte of Mecklenburg-Schwerin.

Prince Louis Ferdinand, who is the second son of former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm, flew a plane for Lufthansa last summer. Now he is learning the administrative details of commercial flying.

SPINNING ROTOR NEWEST TOOL IN ATOM STUDY

Whirls 21,000 Revolutions Per Second.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The fastest mechanical thing in the world, a small rotor which spins on air at a speed of 21,000 revolutions a second, is science's newest tool in separating molecules and studying the nature of the atom.

Dr. J. W. Beams, physicist of the University of Virginia, one of the men who designed and operated the machine, described it today before the National Academy of Sciences.

A metal cup, similar to the spinning plates of a cream separator, is supported on air or other gases and is driven by a jet of gas playing against its flanges.

Forecasts Girls' Growth.

A method for telling how tall small daughter is likely to grow was explained before the academy.

Take her height at the age of seven. If she is tall then she is likely to be tall at sixteen, when her growth is about complete. If medium at seven, she may always be so, Dr. Edwin B. Wilson of the Harvard school of public health told the academy.

That is the way girls grow, according to a study of 275, whose heights were measured each year from the ages of seven to 16.

Brain Signals Told.

Electric signals detected for the first time coming from the supposed "executive" center of the gray matter in the brain also were described to the academy.

The executive center is part of the cortex or covering of the brain, a blanket of gray matter considered as the one development of evolution most responsible for man's superiority and for the high status of all the mammals.

Detecting these signals and tracing them to their source is a new experimental method of investigating the mysteries of the brain. The work was reported to the academy by J. G. Dusser De Barenne and W. S. McCullough of Yale university.

Experiment With Monkey.

The experiments were conducted on monkeys, whose cortexes are similar to man's but about half a millimeter less in thickness.

The cortex is known from previous experiments to be a series of layers, one on top of the other like stacked sheets five to six in number. The three outer or top layers are by hypothesis verified to some extent by experiments as the reception centers or rceiving rooms of the brain.

The layers beneath are called the executive center. They are known to contain the cells, pyramidal in structure, that function in control of the body's movements.

Pen Traces Signals.

The Yale scientists placed fine electrodes on the heads of monkeys in such manner that they picked up electrical signals coming from the cortex. The signals registered in a series of wave motions traced with a pen, after the electrical brain currents had been amplified a million times.

The fact that these signals came only from the cortex, and that each separate layer possessed its own electrical potential generator, was proven by heating small spots in the cortex electrically.

Rob South Bend Church of $3,000 in Collections

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Burglars broke into the First Presbyterian church here early today and after chopping the bottom out of a safe made their escape with more than $3,000. Collection envelopes and other papers were scattered about the church in the search for the money.

PANTS BANDIT ROBS A. & P.

A robber held up Harry Muir, the manager, in a Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company store at 6244 University avenue yesterday and took $12, also his victim's trousers to discourage pursuit.

FEDERAL JUDGE FITZ HENRY DIES OF LONG ILLNESS

Funeral in Bloomington Church Tomorrow.

Judge Louis FitzHenry of the United State Circuit Court of Appeals died in his home at Normal, adjoining Bloomington, yesterday after an illness of five months. He was 65 years old. At his bedside were his wife, Mrs. Lottie Rankin FitzHenry, and his children, Mildred Elizabeth, 22 years old, and Charlotte, 18.

Judge FitzHenry was stricken last June while on a vacation and was brought from Petoskey, Mich., to the Passavant hospital here. He had recovered sufficiently to be able to be removed to his home last month. Last Wednesday he suffered a relapse and hope for his life was abandoned. Attending physicians said death was due to complications following a paralytic stroke, high blood pressure, and a kidney infection.

Funeral Will Be Tomorrow.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the Second Presbyterian church, Bloomington, of which Judge FitzHenry was a member. The body will lie in state in the church from 10 a. m. until the time of the services at 3:30 o'clock.

Although Judge FitzHenry was born in Normal and always maintained a home there, his prominence in state affairs and his work in Chicago with the United States Circuit Court of Appeals made him a widely known figure in this city.

He was born on June 13, 1870, and in his early life was a newsboy, lamp lighter, office boy, then finally became a newspaper man. Deciding then to become a lawyer, he entered Illinois Wesleyan university with that goal in view.

He was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1897 and practiced law for twenty years. From 1907 to 1911 he was city attorney of Bloomington and in 1912 he was elected to congress on the Democratic ticket, overturning a normally Republican majority of 8,000.

Active in the House.

Instead of the obscurity generally allotted to a first termer in the house Judge FitzHenry found himself a member of the committee on judiciary. He helped write many of the laws in President Wilson's program.

Following his term in congress, he was defeated in a race for the Illinois Supreme court, but in 1918 was appointed a United States district judge for the southern district of Illinois. He was indorsed for this post by Senator James Hamilton Lewis and by the McLean county bar.

In November of 1933 he was appointed to the Circuit Court of Appeals by President Roosevelt. At about that time he declared in a luncheon speech that he considered the New Deal constitutional, and held that the President had not transgressed this document in setting up the machinery for the recovery program.

During prohibition days, while he was on the district bench, Judge FitzHenry was militant in enforcing the dry law. He expressed the belief that any person who bought a drink of liquor and failed to report it to the authorities was a violator of the law.

Presiding Judge Evan A. Evans and Judges Will M. Sparks and Samuel Alschuler, Judge FitzHenry's associates in the appeals court, expressed deep regret when informed of his death.

BLOATED ALL THE TIME, CAN'T EAT OR SLEEP

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart hurt. A friend suggested Adlerika. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never felt better."—Mrs. Jas. Filler.

Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adlerika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A story filtered in the other day to the effect that Helen Hayes required all of her supporting actors to learn their parts by heart instead of reading from script as is the custom generally in radio drama. On addressing an inquiry to Miss Hayes the truth of this report was established.

When she began rehersals on "The New Penny," [Tuesdays, 8:30 p. m., WENR], Miss Hayes explained, she noticed that her supporting players hadn't memorized their parts.

"Don't you learn your part?" Miss Hayes asked one actor.

"Well, yes and no," was the reply. "We glance over the script just to familiarize ourselves with the action but in an actual broadcast we read from the script. We don't memorize the parts."

Miss Hayes promptly ruled that all would have to learn their parts perfectly.

"That's the only way you can thoroughly assimilate the character you are playing," she explained. "Waiting until the last minute and then trusting to natural acting ability to carry one through isn't enough."

Miss Hayes is in New York, rehersing her new Broadway production "Queen Victoria," but several queries were put to her by remote control. Her answers may be of interest to radio listeners:

Q.—Does radio really interest you seriously, Miss Hayes, or does it represent mainly a means of making a lot of money rather easily because of your reputation as an actress?

A.—Well, I turned down an offer of $85,000 to make a single picture and declined again when the offer was raised to $100,000. Having become established in two dramatic media—the stage and screen—I want to go ahead and master a third form—radio, if I can. There is much too much at stake to take this new venture anything but seriously. I have wanted to go on the air regularly for a long time, but not until Edith Meiser's "New Penny" script came along did I find what I wanted. Last year negotiations were under way for an additional program for Eddie Cantor's sponsors, but no script that was satisfactory could be found at the time.

Q.—When you begin playing Queen Victoria on Broadway what will happen to your radio show on Tuesday evenings?

A.—The New Penny will go marching on and Queen Victoria will rest on Tuesday nights. On Monday nights, however, I shall have to make a swift dash to the studios after the performance in order to do a broadcast of the New Penny for the west coast.

Q.—Is it true your young daughter is to appear in "The New Penny" soon?

A.—No. The suggestion has been made but Mary is still a little too young to stay up late at night, much less to do any acting.

In answer to a query regarding her radio salary Miss Hayes' representatives stated that it was approximately $2,500 a week for the two appearances.

SING SING BOYS TO WORRY ALONG WITHOUT TURKEY

Sing Sing Prison, N. Y., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The 2,300 prisoners in Sing Sing will eat no turkey Thanksgiving day.

Hollins College Lecture Series

Miss Betty Babson is one of several young women who ushered at the opening of a series of benefits for the Hollins College Scholarship fund, but she will not be ushering this afternoon at the second of the series, a lecture Admiral Byrd will give at the Auditorium, because regular members of the theater's staf will be required to handle the hundreds of children who will attend.

Many of these youngsters will be excused early from school this afternoon for Admiral Byrd will speak at 3 o'clock. The admiral will speak again tonight and show the movies of his second antarctic expedition at the Union League club, which is having its first ladies' night of the season.

New Fur Coats the Ultimate in Streamlining

BY RHEA SEEGER.

What better time to hustle down and buy that fur windbreaker than when the weather keeps you shivering? Of course, it's fun to be feminine and contrary and buy your furs and coats in August when the thermometer sizzles, but it's twice the fun now to buy a good looking model and wear it out.

Fur coat designers are doing grand things about streamlines. A bulky fur coat is practically unknown; even the fluffier furs have been skilfully treated and "worked" to keep superslim silhouettes, especially in front. New black silhouettes flare with dash and swank, collars fit snugly and warmly without submerging either your head or an especially flattering hat. Sleeves accommodate the most complicated of dress sleeves and, well, there doesn't seem to be any reason for either improvement or criticism in any of them.

Iron gray Persian is the pet of the young, slim shoppers. It tops any colored or dark dress you own perfectly. Most of these Persian lamb gray numbers are extremely smart with a fitted silhouette, a wide belt drawn tightly around the middle, frogs and braid buttons and a military smoothness of streamline that makes them the successful buys of the season.

A new idea is a black Persian lamb made to resemble a little boy's reefer—a double row of fur buttons down the front, a fitted-in silhouette, a standup and notched collar, cuffed sleeves, and hip pockets very much in sight as they are patched on. It reaches the kneeline and is quite the most unusual new model to be found. Another fur that will make you spend your money is a swagger coat of natural black muskrat with the fur pelts worked like the most expensive of mink. It's positively breath taking. All you sniffers at practical and formerly rather dowdy looking muskrat will have something to change your minds after this coat is inspected.

Muff and coat combines are better than ever. Coppery brown sealskin coats in long and swagger styles are slick buys for red heads and brown eyed shoppers. They are a knockout this winter in style smartness and high fashion!

Mr. Witte's Job Is Making Right Moon for Movie

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Among the numerous unique occupations in Hollywood's film colony is that of Louis Witte. Lou Witte is a moon maker. In ten years working in film effects he has created 152 moons.

A movie director will send for Witte. "Make us a good looking moon," he will say. Witte will answer him like this: "What time of night is the scene? What season of the year is it? Where is the locale? Is it for a couple of lovers looking at a big moon over their shoulders, or is it a far-away, cold moon, shining down on a mystery spot?"

You see, there are all kinds of moons, and the moon maker must know what is expected of his creation before he can exercise his talent. As to his art, Mr. Witte says: "Most popular of all moons, and the easiest to make, is the full moon. I average four full moons to each half or crescent moon. The most elaborate one I made was for a film whose name I have forgotten, ten years ago. I rigged up a heaven, put 2,500 flashlight globes into it to represent stars, and in their midst was a moon made of glass, which really moved. That job cost $3,000."

Leaders Praise Film Depicting Long Fight for Press Freedom

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Religious and civic leaders hailed a new era in motion picture entertainment tonight in comments on the first movie première ever held in a church.

The picture was "Are We Civilized?" first of a series of educational-instructional films. It was produced by Edwin Carewe, veteran director, and shown Sunday night at the Hollywood-Beverly Christian church.

Carewe's first venture was an illustration of the threatening forces gathered around the rights of a free press and free speech. It showed the struggle, through history, for these privileges.

Mrs. Thomas M. Buley, president of the Federated Council of Protestant Churchwomen of Southern California, said "the churches have found the answer to their repeated requests for wholesome educational features such as churches can indorse and show."

Edgewater Church.

The seventh annual charity bridge and fashion review sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's group of the Edgewater Presbyterian church will be held tonight in the crystal ballroom of the Edgewater Beach hotel. The president, Miss Rose Stuke of 1341 Elmdale avenue, heads the bridge committee.

Many Yuletide Functions for Joan McArthur

Debutante Stays in East for Thanksgiving.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALTHOUGH Miss Joan McArthur, debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Selim W. McArthur, is not coming home from Bennington college for the round of debutante parties at Thanksgiving, she will more than make up for the fun she misses then at Christmas time when several parties will be given for her. Dr. McArthur is making plans to go east the Thanksgiving week-end to take his daughter and a schoolmate, whom she will be visiting in New York, to the Yale-Princeton game on the 30th.

Miss McArthur will return home on Dec. 20. Her mother and father are giving a tea at home on Christmas afternoon to introduce her to their friends, and among the other parties planned for the debutante are a supper and hocky party on Sunday, Dec. 29, at which her uncle, Lewis L. McArthur, will be host, and a luncheon during the holidays that her aunt, Mrs. Billings McArthur, will give. Miss Frances Whedon and Miss Frances Jeffrey will give a cocktail party for Miss McArthur on Sunday, Dec. 22.

The debutante, who is a granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Lewis L. McArthur, does not have to return to Bennington until Feb. 22, but while the college gives its students such a long vacation it requires that they give a little time during those free weeks to additional work on their major subject. Miss McArthur is fortunate that she can do her work at Sanibel Island, Fla., and that it will keep her there for a month or six weeks.

Joseph T. Ryersons Will Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson have issued invitations to some forty young friends of their debutante nieces, Miss Nancy and Miss Joan Ryerson, for a dinner on Dec. 12 at their Astor street residence. Afterward the Ryersons will take their guests to the hocky game.

Mrs. Ryerson will return tomorrow from a flying trip east. She visited her daughter, Mary, at St. Timothy's at Catonsville, Md., and then went up to New York where she saw her son, Joseph Jr., who came down from New Haven for a day.

On Saturday night at the Casino Robert F. Carr and his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins, will entertain at a dinner-dance which is being given partly to celebrate Mr. and Mrs. Hodgkins' 7th wedding anniversary and partly for Mr. Carr's nieces, Miss Emily and Miss Barbara Baker, daughters of the Frederick Bakers of Hinsdale, who have reached debutante age.

The party will be a gay one with guests of all ages included, some of the debutante crowd, some of the young married people, and a few of Mr. Carr's contemporaries.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Church have sent out invitations to a house warming Saturday afternoon in their new home at 941 Tower road, Winnetka. The former Josephine Marks and Mr. Church were married last June in the summer home of her aunt, Mrs. Benjamin F. Taylor, in Nantucket.

Mrs. Taylor, who lives at the Ambassador East during the winter, and Mrs. Rudolph Prussing and Mrs. Leo Nicolson are expected to return today from a 10 day motor trip to Atlanta, Ga., where they visited the George C. Venards, former Chicagoans.

Because of Mme. Edith Mason's illness, Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk have postponed the cocktail party they are giving for the singer from tomorrow until Friday.

Chicago Entertains Y. W. C. A. Officials.

Members of the Chicago board of the Y. W. C. A. are busy this week entertaining members of the national board who are meeting here for the first time. Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, vice president of the Chicago association, is giving a tea at 3 o'clock this afternoon in her apartment for Mrs. James Stewart Cushman of New York, the former Vera Scott of Chicago, and Miss Charlotte Niven and other delegates to the meeting.

Mrs. Cushman is vice president of the world service council, and Miss Niven, who is an aunt of Thornton Wilder, was the executive head of the World's Y. W. C. A. at Geneva, Switzerland, for 12 years, but she now is back in Chicago. She and Mrs. Cushman will speak today at the tea. They are staying at the Fortnightly.

Assisting Mrs. Strawn as hostess will be Mrs. William L. Hodgkins who is president of the Chicago Y. W. C. A., and a member of the national board; and Mrs. Hermon B. Butler, Mrs. Charles W. Gilkey, Mrs. Philip Post, Mrs. William A. Vawter, III., and Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy Jr.

Mrs. Cushman and all of the visitors will dine tomorrow night in the handsome building at Dearborn and Oak streets which is known as the McCormick residence, and which was given to the Y. W. C. A. by Cyrus H. McCormick.

Mr. and Mrs. Strawn are going to New York for the three day celebration Nov. 25, 26, and 27, of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Andrew

FRONT VIEWS AND PROFILES
BY JUNE PROVINES

DR. LOYAL DAVIS told his friend, Walter Huston, star of "Dodsworth," who with his wife, Nan Sutherland, were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Davis at the Purple ball given Northwestern alumni at the Drake Friday evening, that he had to go home early. He had two operations the following morning, he explained.

Actor-View—Foch—Oddments.

"Business is good, apparently," Mr. Huston commented.

"These are two charity cases," replied the famous brain surgeon.

"Hm," murmured Huston, "playing a couple of benefits."

AND, in case you would like to know what Miss Sutherland chooses for evening wear off stage, Friday evening she wore a gown of gray tulle accented with diamond jewelry—a handsome pin glistening like dewdrops in the mists of tulle, little diamond wings outlining the lobes of her ears, diamonds encircling her wrist.

PEOPLE write in all kinds of things to this column. About a fat Negro driving a team of mules and going to sleep while waiting for a green light at a crossing. Mules, too. And about the two fellows, obviously westerners, who stood on the Michigan avenue bridge, staring fascinated at a boat coming down the river. The bell that warns pedestrians that the bridge is about to go up rang imperatively, the gates started down, and persons crossing the bridge hastened their footsteps. All but the two visitors to Chicago. Impervious to the warning bell and the flashing lights, impervious even to the policeman's whistle, they gaped at the white boat swinging toward Lake Michigan. Finally a policeman dashed out and corralled them. They weren't quite off the bridge when it started up.

Then there was the truck driver who was driving a three ton truck up Kimbark avenue toward 64th street. A big black cat started to cross his path and the driver stopped for a full thirty seconds, obviously weighing the bad luck odds. Then he turned his truck in the trafic filled street and started back to 63d street. We have a feeling about printing such small oddments. Surely they must make people's hearts warm and make them feel that they live not in a heartless metropolis but in a city full of folk like themselves—human, fallible, lovable.

ON the other hand we like to write about eccentric, or decadent, or exotic, or erratic, or extremely modern folk. The woman who is putting wall paper on the floor of her new apartment, for instance, with many coats of lacker to make it wear. Then there was the woman who took luncheon with her husband, who was temporarily estranged, and her former husband—a cozy little party of three. She commented that she had luncheon with her "ex and her king's X."

SPEAKING of friendly relations between divorced couples, a Chicago woman received a wire from a friend saying: "So-and-so invites you and me to a dinner party given by his present wife for his former wife before she sails for England to join her present husband."

IN the second of the above mentioned categories are the woman who is doing a needlework picture of the automobile accident in which she miraculously escaped with a few minor bruises, although the car was shattered; the man who keeps his goldfish in a brandy balloon, a huge one he saw in the window of a glass establishment; the Chicago gentleman with a well known name who is expert at tapestry; the woman with an equally distinguished name who is getting out a book of cross-word puzzle words, and the woman who employs two secretaries to keep track of her charities.

Tenth Exhibition of All-Illinois Society Praised

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The tenth annual exhibition of the Work of Illinois Artists, sponsored by the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts, has just opened in the third floor gallery of the Stevens hotel. It is a brilliant show, better than that of last year, and fully equaling the best the All-Illinois has yet given us.

There are landscapes, portraits, and still life. Portraiture again announces itself as the most difficult kind of painting, and here, if anywhere, the show falters. There are, however, a few choice interpretations such as "Ruby," by Alice Mason; "Portrait," by Elizabeth Boynton Millard, and "Shirley Jean Exley," by Richard A. Chase to banish misgivings.

Robert Kilbert carries off many of the exhibit's honors with two stunning canvases, "The Toilers" and "Berry Picking Time." Adam Emory Albright is in delightful vein with his painting of "Two Boys on a Raft." Karl Plath, newly appointed curator of birds at the Brookfield zoo, shows a stunning composition in "Golden Parrots."

Carl R. Kraft has a brilliant little canvas, "Poet's Home." Edithe Jane Cassidy breaks into great good humor with "Emma and Ella." Dale Nichols is remote and dignified in "Empty Handed."

The gold medal for landscape in oil was won by "The Toilers," by Robert P. Kilbert; the silver medal went to "Neighbors of Navoo," by Lane K. Newberry.

The gold medal for still life in oil was awarded to "Against the Screen," by Berenice Newman, and the silver medal went to "Market Basket," by Nina K. Griffin.

The gold medal in water colors was given to "Once Upon a Time," by Richard A. Chase; the silver medal went to "In the Spring Time," by Lydia D. Pohl.

The gold medal for excellence in wood carving was awarded to "Spinning Wheel," by M. Walter Huber.

Honorable mentions were given to Karl Plath, Julia Sulzer Griffith, Mary Helmuth, and C. Warner Williams.

With Lotte Lehmann, Grete Stueckgold, and Marion Claire appearing in "Rosenkavalier," the Strauss re-creation of 18th century Vienna, the customarily large Monday night audience was larger than usual at the Chicago Opera last night. Rudolph Ganz and Felix Borowski were in seats near the orchestra, as were Miss Janet Fairbank, Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, and Arthur Meeker Jr.

Mrs. Jacob Baur, in green lame, with pearls wound in her hair, was hostess to a group that included Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Morton, and Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell. Mrs. Haskell was in blue lame with a red flower at her shoulder, and Mrs. Morton wore black velvet and pearls.

Lloyd C. Douglas, author of "The Magnificent Obsession," was a guest of Mrs. William A. Gilchrist, together with Mrs. Robert Lee of California, Walter Ding, and Gov. Paul Campbell of Nevada.

Miss Olga Menn, in blue crêpe spangled with rhinestones, a rope of pastel pearls in her hair, was hostess to Baroness Violet Beatrice Wenner, Mrs. L. D. Fillius, Walter Pfeiffer of Berlin, James Bradley-Griffin, and Paul L. Menn.

Good Morning!

I was interested in Edmund Gwenn long before I met him, because of his work in "I was a Spy" and "Friday, the Thirteenth." My enjoyable visit with him re radio, movies, the theater, etc., and the pleasant experience of having him as guest on my radio program had made me eagerly anticipate his next movie. Well—here it is! And it's good!

The delightful English actor is cast as a twinkling eyed, enthusiastic English bishop, with a passionate addiction to detective stories and a sleuth complex. The bishop's gentle sister, Lady Emily, who lives with him, is another just like him! And the two of them remind you perpetually of a pair of children [who believe in Santa Claus] on the night before Christmas.

"O for a real adventure! Something to sharpen my deductive molars on!" This has been the mental yip of his reverence—AND the Lady Emily—for years and years. . . . And lo, one stormy night, their prayer is answered . . . !

The bishop and Lady Emily, seeking refuge from the elements in an inn, find it apparently deserted. Hopefully exploring, they discover the owner and others, gagged and tied in a back room. Hoopla!—[or whatever bishops say for "Hoopla"]—this at last is the life!

Not only are there gaggings and tyings but there has been a jewel robbery! [The observers have learned about that affair before the bishop enters the scheme of things, but I'm telling you nothing about it here save that Miss Maureen O'Sullivan, cause of it all, bites off a heap more than she can chew.] As, so must it regretfully be reported, does the bishop.

The story works out zestfully and amusingly to the tune of able direction, bright dialog, and snatches of droll characterization.

Mr. Gwenn is at the acme of his element. Such a cozy, jovial, sparkly, canny human little churchman as he makes! The audience loved him. AND Lady Emily! Lucile Watson makes her one of the sweetest, most naive, alert, and exquisite aristocrat-to-her-finger-tips that you ever met.

Etienne Girardot as Mr. Brooke, the bishop's curate, is irresistible! A worried mouse of a man, whose devotion to the bishop and the bishop's sister leads him into strange places and peculiar predicaments, and makes him, if not as brave as a lion, still—pretty brave. He has one awfully funny scene.

The gay, clean little picture works up competently to a laugh-starred finale.

See you soon.

Paramount Scout Sees Lack of Stars; Praises N. U. School

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Would-be movie stars of all ages, shapes, and sizes flow steadily into Hollywood, but Ben Piazza fears a "serious shortage" of talent.

Piazza, head of the scouting corps of Paramount studio, said so in a report studied with interest tonight in Hollywood.

"Unless measures are taken immediately to meet the situation the industry within a few years may find itself unable to replace the important stars it has today."

He recommended as antidotes for the trend: Subsidization of stock companies, aid to little theater groups through the country, development of dramatic schools in universities and colleges.

Piazza said his survey had disclosed only three "really excellent" dramatic schools in the country. "They are at Carnegie Tech, New York university, and Northwestern university," the report said.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A herbal preparation irons out the signs of facial weariness. Used as a pickup it transforms the weary complexion to one of radiance. It can also be used as a corrective treatment.

Whether you're a busy woman or one of those fortunate ladies who can devote herself to good works and good looks there must be many times when you'd give all the traditional tea in China for something that will revive your gray, tired face and make you radiant.

Well, we know of something that will do a miraculous job in 10 to 20 minutes, a herbal cream you can use as a pickup mask. There is no clay in this and you won't look as though you'd fallen in a mud pie if by chance some one does see you when you have it on.

It's as easy as pie to give yourself the benefit of this magic; simply spread the fragrant gray cream over your face and neck [not over your eyelids, though, because this is faintly stimulating to make you look pink and pretty] and leave it on until it dries, which is usually ten minutes.

If you plant your body in the bathtub with this on your face you can be sure of pretty complete physical restoration after a tough day. When it dries simply wash it off with warm water and finish either with cold water or a lively little skin tonic. That tired face of yours will look and feel marvelous.

In some mysterious fashion using this as a pickup mask tones up the skin instantly and efficiently. There's the faint glow you want to make you look and feel like a radiant young creature again and the droop that brings out all the lines is just about gone.

This herbal mask isn't just a pickup. Use it a couple of nights a week to keep your skin toned up all the time, and after the nightly treatment dip into your tissue cream jar.

This mask has been used for years in a very fine professional facial given at salons. Isn't it nice that it came out of the professional class and within our financial reach? It's a home treatment aid that works wonders.

Our Daily Bread

I said to elizabeth arden . . .
its all very well
for your lovely ladies to spend hours and hours making themselves lovelier but I am too busy earning my daily bread to bother battling with a not very sympathetic world takes up most of my time

elizabeth arden said that it did not take hours and hours that if I spent a little less time at my desk and a little more time at my dressing-table
I should very soon find that my daily bread had jam on it!

because beauty
is its own justification

if it is coupled with brains
it proves a combination

The Briar Pipe

By Stuart Palmer

SYNOPSIS.

Violet Feverel is killed, apparently by having been thrown from her horse Siwash, which she had taken from Thwaite's Riding academy for an early morning's ride in New York's Central park. Miss Hildegarde Withers, teacher and student of criminology, happens on the scene of the tragedy, where she meets her friend, Inspector Piper. In a small adjacent pool they uncover an old garden hoe with an unrusted horseshoe attached to it. Dr. Bloom, medical examiner, finds no wounds on the body, though murder is suspected. After the body is removed Miss Withers finds a briar pipe on the spot where the dead girl had lain. Miss Withers and Piper let the horse lead, and he gallops back to Thwaite's. They learn from Highpockets, the stable boy, that the stable is managed by Latigo Wells.

INSTALMENT VIII.
ONLY A MURDER CASE.

"Oscar, we're just wasting time. This place must have an office, and the office must have records of some kind."

Piper nodded. To the boy—"You all alone here?"

Highpockets nodded. "Yes, sir . . . I sleep on a cot in the back, so I'm always here. Mister Latigo, he comes in daytimes, and Mrs. Thwaite and her husband, they live in a flat upstairs. She owns the stables, but I doan like to disturb her unless we got to . . ."

"Heaven forbid," Miss Withers cut in. "This is only a murder case, that's all. But which way to the office?"

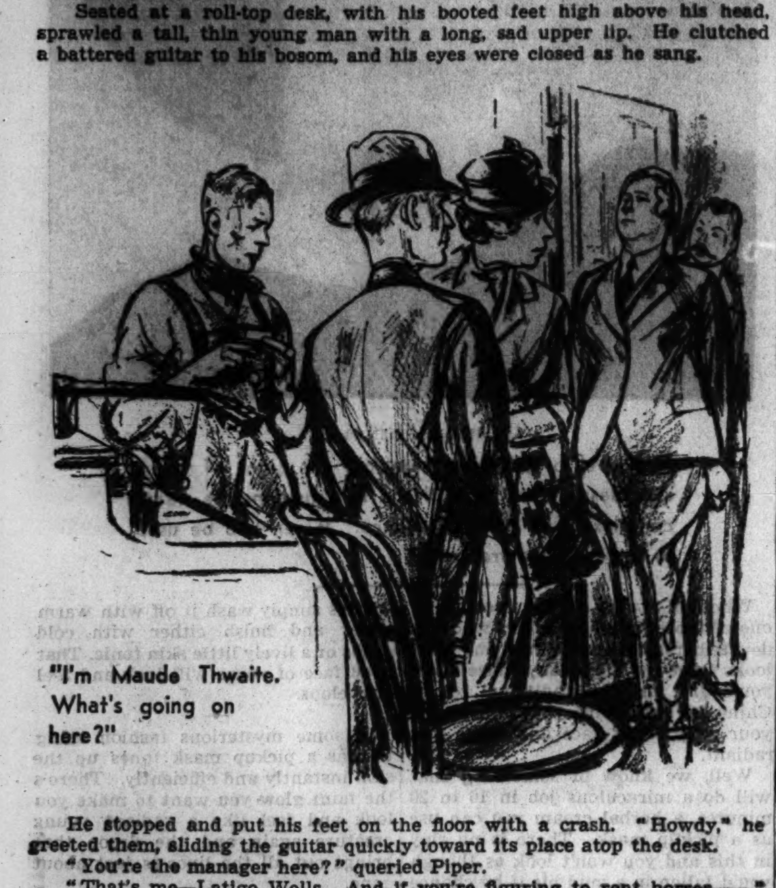
Highpockets pointed with wavering finger toward a side door. "Down the h-hall," he offered.

It was a long hall, with a sharp turn in the middle. Then they saw a pane of lighted glass in a doorway. As they came closer they heard sounds of distant, mournful song . . .

"Hill-billies!" gasped Miss Withers. "But this isn't the hour for them to be on the air. Listen!"

The inspector's head was nodding in time with the wailing ballad of the plains, but such music was not to Miss Withers' taste. She flung open the door of the office.

Seated at a roll-top desk, with his booted feet high above his head, sprawled a tall, thin young man with a long, sad upper lip. He clutched a battered guitar to his bosom, and his eyes were closed as he sang.



"I'm Maude Thwaite. What's going on here?"

He stopped and put his feet on the floor with a crash. "Howdy," he greeted them, sliding the guitar quickly toward its place atop the desk.

"You're the manager here?" queried Piper.

"That's me—Latigo Wells. And if you're figuring to rent horses——"

"Don't be silly—do we look dressed for riding?" Miss Withers snapped. She smoothed her neat serge suit.

"You never can tell," Latigo Wells was saying. "I just had the dickens of an argument with a tough guy in a blue overcoat—he got sore when I wouldn't rent him a fast horse. I told him he'd have to wear boots or chaps to ride any horse out of this stable. And these hacks in the stable get a hard enough life without going out under that kind of a hombre."

"We don't want horses," the inspector cut in. "We're looking for—for a Miss Feverel. You know her?"

Latigo's gray eyes flickered. "Sure I know her. She's not here. And if I were you I wouldn't wait——she's likely to be gone for some time."

Miss Withers sniffed. "I don't suppose that you, working here, happen to know where she lives?"

Latigo bristled at that. "Sure I know—I been up to her apartment. Last Tuesday night, to a swell party. She lives in the Hotel Harthorn, up on Broadway." Then the westerner rose to his feet. "Say, what's it to you folks?"

"It's this," said Oscar Piper. He flashed his badge. "Miss Feverel was found dead on the bridle path about an hour ago."

Latigo didn't say anything, but his neck reddened and he grew oddly white about the mouth.

"Sure," Latigo nodded. "Ever since I saddled her horse—that big red racehorse she owns. I been sitting here . . ."

"Why didn't you answer the phone, then—and why did the colored boy say that you went out to breakfast?"

Latigo blinked. Then he smiled apologetically. "I told him I was going, and then I changed my mind. I been sitting here, just singin' a little—and I guess I was too busy singin' to answer that phone."

He began to roll a cigaret. "You say Miss Feverel's dead? Did the horse kick her?"

Miss Withers looked at the inspector, and her eyelid dropped a fraction of an inch.

Piper nodded. "Looks that way," he said. "Dangerous horse."

"Sure," agreed Latigo. "Any fast horse is dangerous for a woman who can't ride better than her. I warned her—no race horse makes a good saddle horse without a lot of training. But she wouldn't spend the money to have the horse schooled right—I guess she was hard up. Didn't pay her board bill on time, neither . . ."

"Mrs. Thwaite made a fuss about that, didn't she?" asked Miss Withers wickedly.

"Well," Latigo admitted, "they did have their arguments. You see, Miss Feverel got the idea that Mrs. Thwaite wanted Siwash. She suspicioned that we were using her horse when we knew she wouldn't be around . . ."

"And, of course, she was mistaken in that belief?"

"Well——" Latigo began.

"Of course!" snapped a brittle and decisive voice. A door had opened just behind Miss Withers, disclosing a stairway filled at the moment by a very wide woman and a rather smallish man who sported a large moustache. The woman came first, in practically everything—as she made clear.

"I'm Maude Thwaite," she announced. "What's going on here?"

It was rare for Miss Hildegarde Withers to take an instinctive dislike to a person on sight. In fact, as experience had taught her, she was prone to the other extreme. Yet she felt an instinctive surge of loathing rise in her being as she looked upon the proprietor of this riding academy.

Mrs. Thwaite was wide and muscular—qualities not necessarily unattractive in a woman. But her eyes were small and beady, and her complexion was a gray blue, heavily mantled with light powder.

She was dressed in formal riding attire—fitted jacket, light jodhpurs, and heavy shoes. In one hand she held a heavy crop with a silver cap, and she switched herself on the ankles as she spoke.

"I said—what's going on here?"

"Yes, what's going on here?" echoed her husband. Even shaggy worsted failed to give him bulk, either physical or mental. He waxed his moustache as he spoke.

"Only a few questions about Miss Feverel," said the inspector hastily. "You know her?"

"Of course . . ." Rufus Thwaite began. His wife drowned him out.

"Yes, we know Violet—a very good friend and a valued customer," she said. "She has stabled her horse with us for the last six months."

The inspector was a great believer in direct frontal attack. "Well, she won't be a customer any longer," he remarked. He displayed his badge. "You see, she was killed about an hour ago on the bridle path."

"Murdered!" added Miss Withers, just to make it more definite.

Dr. and Mrs. Thwaite looked at each other. Then they both said the proper things.

"Naturally, you'll be glad to help us in the investigation?" Piper went on.

But the Thwaites were doubtful. "You see," explained Mrs. Thwaite, "we didn't know her except as a customer—a client, really. She was in the habit of coming very early in the morning to exercise her horse, before either myself or the doctor was up . . ."

"Doctor, eh?" Piper looked at Thwaite.

"I am a veterinary surgeon," explained the little man. "As we were saying, we won't be able to help you much."

Miss Withers nudged the inspector. "Come on, Oscar—before these people convince us that they never heard of Violet Feverel."

Dr. Thwaite opened the outer door for them. "If there's any little thing you want to know, just call on us!"

"It's the big things that we want to know," Miss Withers told him.

GASOLINE ALLEY—THE WELL KNOWN SECRET

3 Factors Basic in Education of Retarded Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Three important things are necessary in the education of the exceptional child—the child who is mentally retarded. Those three things are:

[a] "To provide expert medical care" for him.

[b] To provide "intensive scholastic training."

[c] To provide "adequate personality development."

In this way Dr. E. A. Farrington, head of the Bancroft school of Haddonfield, N. J., sums up the needs of the mentally retarded child. He also makes these two statements, the first of which is so heartening to parents:

"Retarded children can always be helped if adequate training is provided," and,

"The special school is the best place to secure that training."

Of the three needs of the exceptional child listed by Dr. Farrington, probably the one which the average mother or father would be most likely to overlook would be the first—the need of expert medical care. Yet this is virtually a starting point—a fundamental.

With all children, normal as well as retarded, correcting physical defects and building a child up to a state of positive health are necessary preliminaries to achieving the fullest measure of mental and emotional development and poise. The mentally retarded child is often held back seriously because all is not done for him physically that could be done.

There have to be many approaches to this aim of a maximum of health. For example, to list them briefly:

The exceptional child often does not eat properly. He must have a well balanced diet, but he frequently needs to be trained to like and eat what is good for him.

Assuredly, defects must be corrected, or, if that is not possible, improvement must be aimed at.

Further measures concern themselves with rest—that "let up" so important to all children, but especially to the retarded child. And exercise, which must be specially planned for the exceptional child. To these are added, where needed, massage, special corrective exercises, baths, and electric and violet ray treatments.

Kissing Every Boy Decidedly Old-Fashioned

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am a young man who had the misfortune to fall in love with a sweet, pretty girl with a good figure. I met her at a co-ed dance. I was expelled from school for being seen kissing this girl. And now she is cold to me. She writes only once in a long time. When she does write her letters are full of talk of how other boys are dating her. She says she still loves me but she wants to have fun and not become serious for years.

"She lets almost any man kiss her when she has a date. I told her it wasn't right, but she repeats that she is only having fun. Do you think she could love me and kiss other men, too? You are a woman and should know how woman are, Miss Blake, and that's why I ask you." DUDE.

You flatter us, Dude, if you think we know how all woman are! We don't. We never know ourselves which way the ornery critters are going to turn. But we have a large suspicion that a girl who can turn her cheek from one man to another "just for fun" is in for a washed up career shortly.

Quite aside from any moral angle, we think she's a perfect Dumb Dora, a back number in behavior. That sort of thing belonged in the dark ages, generally known as the flapper era. Girls have become wise to themselves since that time. They don't go flinging their favors in the face of every boy just because he asks for a date.

When you meet one who still expresses herself in that promiscuous manner, you must know she dates herself as miles behind the times. She's too old-fashioned for a bright young man to bother with. The smart young woman of these days can see, months ahead, the handwriting on the wall for the girl who has to seal every date with an exhibition of how cheaply a girl can rate herself.

Many Yuletide Functions for Joan McArthur

Debutante Stays in East for Thanksgiving.

Carnegie by the Carnegie Foundation. Mr. Strawn is one of the trustees of the Carnegie Peace Foundation. Sir James Colquhoun-Irvine, principal and vice chancellor of the University of St. Andrews in Scotland, will give the memorial address.

Needlework Guild Elects Directors.

Mrs. Kent S. Clow and M[illegible]mes Ward Thorne were elected to the board of directors of the Needlework and Textile Guild of the Art institute at the annual meeting yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, 1551 Astor street.

Mrs. Emily Crane Chadbourne, Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, Mrs. Potter Palmer, and Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne were reëlected to the board, which will elect officers at the December meeting. Mrs. Harry H. Shearson is the president now.

An interesting bit of news in Mrs. Shearson's report yesterday was about the miniature rug that Mrs. Robert Scott, executive secretary of the guild, Miss Norie, the teacher from the Royal School of Needlework in London, and Miss Douville, the designer, are making and will present to Mrs. Thorne. It is to be used in the Georgian room that Mrs. Thorne is reproducing for the Royal Victoria and Albert museum in London and the Chicago guild is very glad that it is contributing something to the exquisite work of art that Mrs. Thorne is producing for the museum.

No exhibit of the members skill in needlework was held yesterday, but it is hoped to have one in the spring.

Woman's Exchange Holds Sale Today.

The ballroom of the Blackstone hotel will be crowded with shoppers today from 9 to 5 o'clock for the Woman's exchange is holding its annual Christmas sale there and women always find it easy to select gifts for their feminine friends and relatives at the exchange sales. Not that there aren't things for men on display, too, but the lovely things for which the exchange is noted are more for women than men.

Children come in for a large share of attention at the exchange and there are toys and novelties as well as the smartest of attire for little men and little women. A rock candy village that Mrs. Columbus Healy has made will be exhibited today and there will be many youngsters, no doubt, who will persuade their mothers to order similar ones for future birthday parties, for the whole thing is guaranteed to delight the palate as well as the eye.

Mrs. John L. Cochran, the first vice president who has assumed Mrs. Philip L. Reed's place as president since the latter moved east, and most of the directors will be on hand to assist with the selling, and Mrs. Press Hodgkins and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler will be there all day to model negligees.

Working all day yesterday in the ballroom arranging the display were Mrs. Cochran, Mrs. Cyrus G. Hill, chairman of the domestic department; Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mrs. W. Roy Carney, Mrs. A. K. Selz, Miss Helen Gurley, and Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer.

American Opera Society Musical.

There will be a luncheon at the Casino today following a musical meeting of the American Opera society there at 11 o'clock. Richard Hageman, who was awarded the David Bispham Memorial medal for his opera, "Capponsacchi," and Mrs. Hageman will be especial guests of the society. Emery Darcy will sing one of Mr. Hageman's songs among those he has chosen for his program this morning.

The men of the board of Olivet institute—there are no women on the board—are giving a coffee party tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the French room of the Blackstone for the women who are helping them with their benefit this year. The board has taken over the première of Max Reinhardt's moving picture of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" Friday night at the Apollo theater, and Mrs. Fowler McCormick is chairman of the committee in charge of it. Mrs. Robert M. Adams, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Miss Peggy Hambleton, and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey are some of those on the committee.

David Seabury will speak on "What Makes Us All So Queer?" at another of the morning lectures of the Woman's Athletic club Thursday.

Women Geographers to Hear Lecture.

The Society of Women Geographers, an international organization with a small group in Chicago, will meet at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Herbert Bradley to hear Miss Harriet Borland give a lecture on her trip from Guatemala to Mexico overland. The meeting will be held in the Bradleys' famed Jungle room.

The Army and Navy club is giving a dinner Thursday evening for Count Giulio Bolognesi, who will speak on "Is Italy the Culprit?" This is the first of a number of informal dinners to be given by the club at its quarters at 850 Lake Shore drive.

Harley F. MacNair will speak on "China in 1935—An Eyewitness Account," at a luncheon of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations Friday at the Palmer house.

Before Mr. MacNair was appointed professor of far eastern history and institutions at the University of Chicago he was head of the department of history and government at St. John's university, Shanghai.

The entertainment committee of the Union League club has sent out cards for a lecture by Sir Frederick Whyte, journalist and former member of parliament, on "Where Is Europe Going Today?" at 2:30 o'clock next Saturday. Members are invited to bring their families and guests.

Tart Steamed Pudding Based on Cranberries

BY MARY MEADE.

An old-fashioned steamed pudding, filled with tart rosy polka-dots of cranberries, and served, fragrant and hot, with a melting, slithering rich sauce—now there's something to awaken food memories! If this time of year doesn't awaken any such fond recollections in you, you simply have missed out on one of the best holiday treats gran'ma ever made.

The recipe for this old favorite is one we've wheedled out of a dog-eared family cookbook, and it has seen a great many years of service.

The pudding itself is not at all sweet, and much less heavy than the usual fruit-filled steamed pudding. All its distinctive flavor comes from whole, popping cranberries, and the tang of good country sorghum. [Good molasses will do, if you haven't sorghum in the house.] It's the simplest pudding of its kind in existence, we'll wager—just to calm your fears as to the complicated ingredients and preparation which old-fashioned recipes frequently demand.

Since the pudding is tart and not overly rich, we think you'll like a rich cold sauce to spoon over each steaming serving. So with the recipe we're including the pudding sauce recipe to which it has been happily wed these many years.

Old-Fashioned Steamed Cranberry Pudding.

1 cup sorghum [or molasses]
1 cup hot water
1 teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon salt
2 cups sifted bread flour
1 cup raw whole cranberries

Combine the sorghum and hot water and stir into the sifted dry ingredients. Mix well and add the washed whole cranberries. Pour into a greased pan [either with tube center or cylindrical] and steam for two hours. Serve hot with:

Old-Fashioned Pudding Sauce.

½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup heavy cream

Cream the butter and sugar together until light and fluffy, and blend with the vanilla. Whip the cream until stiff and mix with the creamed mixture. Chill until used.

Maturity Gives Judgment to Most Persons

Applies Their Knowledge to Useful End.

BY HUGO WESTERBERG.

The actions of the full-grown human are decided by personal judgment [a backward sloping forehead] and characterized by an ability to plan and organize with a minimum of errors. He knows right and wrong as something concerned not only with his own welfare, but with that of his group. He learns not only from his own experiences and those of others, but through his own observations, and applies his knowledge to a useful end [bumps over the eyes].

Decisions are made without interference from personal feelings [short backhead], a cold, matter of fact way but necessary for effective handling of large affairs. The capacity for knowledge is great [broad forehead] and can take care of his keen desire for information.

The former helplessness of the child has changed into self-sufficient strength and acumen through the mature man's coping with an outside world, and his emotional qualities naturally fill the requirements of his work in life. He has the ability to concentrate on business at hand [upper eyelids slanting down outward] and to become aware of slight changes in all factors affecting its progress [short upper lip].

Having the ability to see the fitness of things for their purpose [pointed nose tip in a side view], he also profits by an ability to proceed with caution [nose tip hanging down over the upper lip] and courage [heavy, dark eyebrows] to remedy bad conditions without sacrificing whatever is good in them [fleshy part of nose narrow]. Responsibilities are easily carried [broad chin] and the ability to finish an enterprise, a line of thought or action, is predominant [protruding chin] even when force is needed to overcome obstacles [wide jaws].

MIXED TYPE FRONT VIEW — MIXED TYPE SIDE VIEW

The harmonious growth of an individual is indicated by these interpretations of the physiognomical chart, and the exact status of any person can be ascertained by a comparison of him to the standard types. People are seldom found to be of pure type, embodying all the characteristics of one class, but have a mixture of qualities in different stages of development.

The organic structure of society of today shows the same condition of unequal growth of parts and to fit the two together is the problem.

According to CULBERTSON

COVERING HONORS.

When, and when not to cover an honor is one of the most troublesome problems of the game, even for good contract players. Their confusion is, in my opinion, largely based on the so-called bridge "aphorism," no more true than dozens of others equally misleading, that one always should "cover an honor with an honor."

To be helpful, a rule must have few exceptions. When the exceptions reach as great a number as the observances, the rule is worthless.

The fact is that a player's intelligence must be invoked on each individual occasion. But before this can be done, a clear understanding must be reached as to the object involved in covering, or not covering, honors.

The object of covering is to promote to a winning position some other card held by the coverer, or his partner. Conversely, when no such promotion is possible, or likely, a cover should not be made.

To illustrate a standard situation:

NORTH
Q J 9 2

WEST 10 7 5 — EAST K 8 4

SOUTH
A 6 3

If East covers the lead of the queen, all four cards in the suit can be cashed in by North-South. The ace wins the first trick, North's nine is finessed on the second round, the jack drops the eight and ten, and the deuce is perfectly good.

If East does not cover, the suit cannot be run without the loss of one trick. If North next leads the jack, the king covers and promotes West's ten to winning rank; if North leads a small card, the ace must be played by South, or the ten permitted to win the trick.

Making It Easy for Declarer.

Many a difficulty with which a declarer is faced is smoothed away by a defender who fails to recognize an obvious situation.

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1♠ | Pass | 1 N T | Pass |

Opening lead, diamond king by West.

South ruffed West's second diamond lead, and led the jack of spades. Here West made a fatal blunder—he put up the king. When another ruff put declarer in the lead, he crossed to dummy's heart ace and finessed East's queen of trumps for a total of ten tricks, and contract.

Had West properly ducked the spade jack, the declarer would have had a difficult guess to make at a later stage. He could not know that West now held the unguarded king, and might well have played East for an original holding of both spade honors—particularly after West, on his first two leads, showed the ace and king of diamonds.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: After a four no trump slam try, may one sign off in the lowest ranking bid suit even without trump support?

Answer: Yes. Partner should be able to size up the situation, and if not satisfied with the contract, improve it by returning to another bid suit.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

A rabbit's hair woolen in a bright and wine red check made the original of the dress shown today. It's an ideal design for school, college, and for the young business woman, and it's easy to make. A red suede belt to match the red bone buttons and the pert red grosgrain tie complete it. A dark wool crêpe with a pastel chambray collar, made detachable—so as to be readily laundered, is another suggestion.

The pattern, No. 2749, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3⅜ yards of 39 inch material, with ¼ yard of 35 inch contrasting for the collar, and ⅛ yard of 35 inch contrasting for the belt.

The Eighth Woman

WHY SHE IS ALWAYS HERSELF

ALL women are not born "free and equal." Nature being what it is. Many readers of this newspaper know this to their sorrow. A woman's days are not all alike. There are difficult days when some women suffer severely.

There didn't used to be anything to do about it. Eight million had to suffer month after month. Today, a million have accepted the relief to be had from Midol.

As a rule, it is a knowing woman who keeps that little aluminum case tucked in her purse. One who knows what to wear, where to go, how to take care of herself, how to get the most out of life. That "eighth woman" who has learned to rely on Midol!

Are you a periodic sufferer? Midol might spare you such pain. And even though it didn't make you perfectly comfortable, you would receive relief well worth while!

A smart woman doesn't try every pill or tablet somebody says is good for periodic pain. But Midol is recommended by specialists. It can form no habit because it is not a narcotic. Taken before the time, it often avoids the pain altogether. But Midol is effective even when the pain has reached its height. It's effective for hours, so two tablets should see you comfortably through your worst day.

Any drugstore has these tablets. Or, a card addressed to Midol, 170 Varick St., New York, brings a trial box free and postpaid, plainly wrapped. Do you wish one?

Gracefulness in Mannerisms Aid to Beauty

Sitting Posture Is One of Important Factors.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There are a few outstanding physical mannerisms that spoil the good effect of all the money spent for hairdress, clothes, and cosmetic aids. Little things and bigger ones that spoil the picture. Posture peculiarities, they may be, or graceless, tense gestures of one sort or another.

A woman enters a room, say. Her clothes are smart, her hair attractively done, her makeup enhacing. On her feet she passes informal inspection well enough. She proceeds to a chair or divan end then she begins the spoiling work. She may, as some women do, give her skirt a hike up as a man yanks up his trousers, and sit with the knees spread apart. The shortened skirt and that fully exposed leg position are, perhaps, the ugliest picture a woman can make of herself. Knees close together and skirt pulled down to make a graceful line is the right procedure.

Or, maybe she's a knee-crosser [as aren't we all these carefree times]. But she crosses them below the knee or directly at the knee, creating a thickness and an ugly criss-cross line. The trick here is to cross the upper leg well above the knee, and let that crossed leg drop in the same direction as the leg supporting it. Try before your full length mirror, and see what a difference this makes. You'll be spared that extra widening of the leg when the under knee pushes the calf forward.

The plump little woman serves herself the best turn by not attempting the knee crossing at all.

There's another little picture destroyer in the way some women cross their arms on their chest, in a sort of bunny hug. That's the effect presented, anyway. Women who do this invariably hunch forward. The back is broadened with the bulge behind, and there's a general impression of cringing, warding off a blow.

Taking a seat and getting up out of one is many a fair one's Waterloo.

Novel Quilt Block Creates Several Designs in Color

Diamond Net.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Diamond Net" is one of the most interesting quilts to observe. A single block creates the outline of one design, while an entire quilt composed of "Diamond Net" gives the observer more than a half dozen designs formed by the colors used. There are several pastel shades and one dark shade as an accent. This is one quilt which is the exception which proves the rule that most quilts set together as an all-over design lose all their distinctive characteristics. One block scarcely does an entire coverlet justice.

Substitute 'Rigoletto' at Opera Tonight; Edith Mason Ill

Because of a bad cold, Edith Mason, scheduled to sing Violetta in "La Traviata" at the Chicago City opera tonight, will not be able to appear. The opera has been changed to "Rigoletto" and "La Traviata" postponed to next Monday.

Tonight's "Rigoletto" features Mila Kocova, the Czechoslovakian soprano who made her Chicago debut last Saturday. Ada Paggi, Carlo Morelli, Virgilio Lazzari, Joseph Bentonelli, and Ruth Mills are the other principals.

Richard Crooks, distinguished Metropolitan opera tenor, will give a recital next Friday night at the Auditorium. It is a benefit concert, the proceeds to go to the La Rabida-Jackson Park sanitarium.

EVANS RESIGNS AFTER INDIANS REDUCE SALARY

Cleveland Leaves Job Vacant.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 18.—(AP)—William G. [Billy] Evans, general manager of the Cleveland Indians for eight years, resigned today.

BILLY EVANS.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Baseball company, announced the resignation and said it had been accepted with regret. At the same time Bradley announced the office of general manager was being discontinued and that C. C. Slapnicka, chief scout for the Indians for 14 years, had been appointed assistant to the president.

Evans, an umpire in the American league for 22 years before he became manager of the Cleveland club, said his plans were "indefinite, although I hope to have a new job by the time my present contract expires on Nov. 27."

How About Detroit?

He said he had made no contacts with other major league clubs. Asked concerning the possibility of a move to the Detroit club, he explained his original statement included Detroit, and added that while he has received no offers he is "in a receptive mood for any offers." He plans to attend the minor league meeting in Dayton, O., starting Wednesday.

Evans said the acceptance of his resignation was "as much a surprise to me as to any one." He said his salary was reduced from $30,000 a year to $12,500 a year at the end of the 1933 season, with a bonus of 5 per cent of club profits, provided they reached $100,000.

In 1934, Evans said, profits just reached this mark, and they were only about $75,000 this year under the same arrangement. He said the contract offered for 1936 called for less than $12,500.

Previous Effort to Resign.

Bradley said Evans wanted to resign two years ago due to the salary reduction, but that he prevailed upon him to continue.

"It is with regret that we accept his resignation," Bradley said. "He has given competent and loyal service and we wish him success in any new undertaking."

Slapnicka will take over Evans' duties pertaining to the executive operation of League park, the Indians' home grounds, Bradley said. Steve O'Neill, former catcher for the Indians, manages the team on the field.

Brings Up Stars.

With the exception of Willis Hudlin, pitcher, the entire Cleveland team was brought together by Evans, the retiring general manager said. He said Hal Trosky, the slugging first baseman; Joe Vosmik, Lou Berger, Roy Hughes, and Bill Knickerbocker, all were brought up from the minors without cost to the club. The Indians have finished in the first division of the American league for the last seven years.

JOB FOR STEPHENSON.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Riggs Stephenson, former outfielder with the Chicago Cubs and more recently with the Indianapolis club of the American association, has signed a contract to manage the Birmingham Barons of the Southern association next season. This announcement was made today by W. A. West, president of the Barons.

Stephenson was once a star full back at Alabama university.

QUARLES DEFEATS FREDDIE MILLER; DECISION SPLIT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Norment Quarles, North Carolina fighter, won a split decision over Freddie Miller, the featherweight champion, in a ten round bout tonight. It was a nontitle affair. Miller weighed 130, Quarles 130½.

The fight got off to a slow start with the southerner much at the mercy of the champion for the first four rounds. But Quarles quickened the pace as the bout wore on. He whipped the champion back on his heels with punishing rights.

Referee Red Robinson and Judge Karl Koehn awarded the decision to Quarles. Judge Primo Columbus voted for Miller.

Fight Decisions

At Pittsburgh, Pa.—Norment Quarles defeated Freddie Miller [10].

At Miami Beach, Fla.—Paddy Creedon stopped Young Tuffy Griffiths [5]; Benny O'Dell and Tommy Blanton drew; Tommy Speigal beat Jimmy Wade; Joey Speigal beat Ray McNatt.

Sagilio Stops Bob Tinsley in Fourth Round

Frank Saglilio, Cicero slugger, scored his first knockout in more than a year last night at Marigold Gardens. Bob Tinsley, west side youngster, was the victim.

Although Tinsley slumped on the canvas unconscious, his shoulders against the lower ropes, after being hit with a series of lefts and rights on the jaw, his handlers tossed in the towel in the fourth round as Referee Tommy Gilmore counted nine. Thus Sagilio got credit for a technical knockout instead of a clean knockout. The time was 2 minutes 59 seconds.

A capacity crowd of almost 1,500 witnessed the match, which was scheduled for eight rounds. Gross receipts were $1,467.

Makes a Fight of It.

Sagilio weighed 141½ pounds, five and one-quarter more than Tinsley. This advantage in weight, coupled with superior strength and hitting power, was too much for Tinsley. Nevertheless he gave Sagilio a fight for almost three rounds. Then Frank cut loose with wild swings which stunned and Tinsley dropped to his knee. Before the referee could reach the spot Sagilio clipped Tinsley with a hard right to the chin, but he did not topple over. The crowd booed the foul punch so lustily the referee failed to hear the bell ending the round two seconds later.

Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois boxing commission ordered Sagilio to appear at the commission Monday for disciplinary action. His purse was not held up. The rule regarding fouls was printed on the back of last night's Marigold program. It follows:

Aron Defeats Weinert.

"A referee warns a contestant committing a foul so that the judges and the public are aware of a foul having been committed, and, in the case of the judges, they can use their best judgment whether or not to take that round from the contestant who committed the foul."

Whether Sagilio would have been given credit for a knockout in case Tinsley had been unable to come out for the next round or Tinsley have won the fight on a foul was not mentioned.

Milt Aron, Dubuque junior welterweight, defeated Puggy Weinert, Chicago, in eight rounds in the bout which followed the windup. Other results:

Hershie Wilson beat Bus Breese [6].
Jimmy Webb knocked out Les Chultz [1].
John Erjavec knocked out George Bittner [2].
Dan Millilo beat Ed Schiller [4].

Football Tagged "Just Glorified Basketball" Now

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Frank Lane, Big Ten football official, said today "Football as played this season is just glorified basketball."

He blamed rediscovery of the lateral pass. Admitting "I like the laterals," he suggested that they be permitted only behind the line of scrimmage.

As it is now "every one seems to be running around in circles looking either for some one to pass to or receive the ball from," he said.

"Fundamentally this season's gridiron version is topsy-turvy. Formerly the player who made a shoestring tackle was a hero. Now he's a bum because that kind of tackle won't stop a lateral pass. He's got to jump up around the ball carrier's neck and grab a handful of ears to be in style.

"Blocking is a lost art. We formerly heaped praise on a fine bit of blocking. Now we ask that this fine blocker make a chameleon-like change into being adept at snaring 'flea-flicker' passes and still retain his blocking finesse. It just can't be done."

SOX PLAN TWO DEALS AT MINOR LEAGUE SESSION

Cubs Go to Dayton After a Pitcher.

Grimm Signs

CHARLEY GRIMM, vice president and manager of the Cubs, last night signed to manage the team in 1936. The terms of his contract, which is for one year, were not announced. Grimm said he expects to get into condition to play first base next season.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Inside of a few days the vast army of White Sox fans may get a little nourishment for their 1936 hopes. It will come, unless delayed, from Dayton, O., where the annual minor league convention, at which all the major league clubs also will be represented, opens a three day session tomorrow.

In anticipation of accomplishing one or more worth while moves, J. Louis Comiskey, owner of the Sox will pocket his check book this evening and set forth for the Ohio city. He will be accompanied by Vice President Harry Grabiner, Secretary Joe Barry, and Coach Billy Webb. Manager Jim Dykes will be there to welcome them tomorrow.

The Cub delegation, made up of Manager Charley Grimm, Vice President John Seys and Treasurer Charles Weber, departed last night but Grimm said there is only a slim chance he will do any dealing.

Seek Outfielder, Pitcher.

The Sox officials have two things in mind and will put them over now, if possible, instead of waiting for the big league gatherings here early next month. One item of concern is a center fielder. The other is a southpaw pitcher. In the former connection Sammy West, the still speedy and capable member of the St. Louis Browns, has been mentioned. For a left-handed pitcher the Sox will be satisfied if they can use cash to lure Earl Whitehill away from foxy Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington club.

One thing the Sox bosses do not intend to do is to trade away any men counted on as necessary for success next season. They might agree to give up an outfielder and cash or an infielder and some money for West. Vernon Washington and Jack Hayes have been spoken of as candidates for this impending transaction. Whitehill is a fellow who hasn't much more than a season or two of work remaining in his arm, so the Sox will endeavor to restrict this offer to cash.

Grimm Wants Pitcher.

Grimm, while at Dayton, will concentrate on the capture of a pitcher good enough to be a starter.

"I don't know where or how we'll find a fellow like that, but we'll snoop around," declared the Cub pilot.

If Grimm can find a manager willing to part with a pitcher coming up to specifications, the Cubs will try to make the swap by tendering an outfielder. He said he wouldn't give up either Augie Galan or Frank Demaree, so any interested club can take its pick from Fred Lindstrom, Chuck Klein, or Tuck Stainback.

The American league will be represented at Dayton by President William Harridge, Henry Edwards, public relations chief, and Lew Fonseca, the league's movie lecturer.

LITTLE HOPE FOR NOTRE DAME BOY HURT ON GRIDIRON

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Richard J. Sullivan, 19 year old Notre Dame sophomore, who suffered a fractured vertebra in an interhall football game yesterday, was given little chance to recover by physicians at St. Joseph hospital here tonight. Sullivan, who is from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., was playing full back for St. Edward's hall and was injured when he plunged into the Freshman hall line on a spinner play.

CAN IOWA CATCH HIM?

Ollie Adelman, who brought new thrills to Northwestern university football fans by making three touchdowns against Wisconsin last Saturday. He went 65 yards on one of his scoring dashes. This performance earned him recognition as one of the Wildcats' best backs and assured him a job in next Saturday's battle with Iowa.

How to Check Simmons Is N. U. Problem

The memory of Ozzie Simmons' flying feet as he led Iowa to a 20 to 7 victory over Northwestern last fall is uppermost in the minds of the Wildcat players as they prepare to greet the Hawkeyes at Dyche stadium Saturday in the season's final game.

It was against Northwestern in the opening game of the 1934 season that the Iowa half back came up with his spectacular individual performance. He unreeled numerous long runs, topping off the afternoon's efforts with a zigzag gallop of 48 yards for a touchdown.

Records Are Similar.

The teams arrive at the final game with records that match in several respects. Both lost to Minnesota and Purdue by margins of one touchdown while both defeated Illinois, Iowa by a score of 19 to 0 and Northwestern by a score of 10 to 3.

Against Wisconsin last Saturday, Northwestern displayed the same improvement that has characterized its performance all season. The Wildcats have advanced by slow but certain stages and now boast a winning streak of three games. After dropping three games in a row the Purple has come through with victories over Illinois, Notre Dame, and Wisconsin.

Offense Hits Peak.

Northwestern's offense hit a new high against the Badgers with a total of 369 yards from scrimmage. Don Heap, hard running sophomore, gained 162 yards in 22 attempts for an average of 7.7 yards. In seven games Heap has carried the ball 120 times for a total of 648 yards, an average of 5.4 yards.

Sharing honors with Heap was Ollie Adelman, 158 pound junior half back, who ran the Badgers dizzy in scoring three touchdowns on romps of 15, 35 and 65 yards.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

MICHIGAN FOOTBALL.

WHAT is the matter with Michigan football?

The question is suggested by Minnesota's defeat of Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday by the largest score of Wolverine conference history. The answer is: Probably nothing which cannot be explained. This answer may be divided into two parts, cyclic swings and scholastic requirements.

In the period 1930-1933, 4 seasons, Michigan either won or shared the Big Ten title, winning 21 games, losing 1, and tying 1 in the conference. It developed a system nationally characterized by Coach Harry Kipke in a magazine article as "A punt, a pass, and a prayer." Behind those factors, however, was stubborn defense which made the system almost unbeatable. Michigan fooball was sound rather than brilliant, but it was effective. Those years the pendulum swung far to the right.

Then seniors graduated who were the greatest exponents of this system. Replacements did not fill the bill. Michigan's pendulum swung to the far left with the punt and pass gone, the prayer unanswered. In 1934 Michigan failed to defeat any conference opponent for the first time in its history.

Still far from a Michigan eleven of supremacy days, the Wolverines this year took their first two conference contests and added intersectional battles from Columbia and Pennsylvania. Even if Ohio State downs the Wolverines Saturday, as now seems probable, Michigan will have won 2 of 5 conference games, have won four of 8 in its season schedule.

So it appears the pendulum has started back. Michigan's 1935 squad is better than that of 1934, Capt. Bill Renner as a passer being in large part the cause. Several sophomores are on the team. Several others are injured. The best freshman squad of years is at Ann Arbor. Some of them will be playing next year if they remain eligible scholastically. The process of rebuilding has started.

Now comes the second part of the answer. From this point our information is more from those interested in sports than from those interested solely in education. Michigan has raised its standards both for entering and for staying in school, according to this group. Many boys who would like to play football for Michigan cannot get in any more or cannot stay there if admitted.

Graduation from Michigan high schools does not automatically land the graduate at Ann Arbor. He also must be recommended by his principal and a questionnaire filled out. High school principals are chary of signing recommendations unless they feel pretty sure of the applicant lest it reflect on the high school's standing.

Brains and brawn are not always contained in the same human body. Other colleges are getting boys wanting to enter Michigan who cannot meet the conditions, says our informant. One Big Ten college has three players on its first freshmen team who tried in vain to matriculate at Ann Arbor this fall. All three are from Michigan high schools.

Again, remaining eligible is a problem. The reader knows and this writer knows that a football player working his way in part through college, as most of them do, needs at least one subject in which he can coast or spend a minimum of time. His self-supporting work of 20 to 40 hours a week and football practice take from his study time.

Art Appreciation, Economic Evolution, Russian Literature—old standby snaps for footballers—are still in the Michigan curriculum. But they no longer are snaps. Outside reading and home research are required to a greater degree than ever.

But how about the school of education where boys are fitted to become coaches and physical instruction teachers? Yes, it's there. But this course has required courses. Among them is rhetoric with plenty of essay writing. However proficient coaches or their ghosts may be in writing for newspapers or magazines, it comes hard apparently in the 12 noon—Layton vs. Hall.

1:30 p. m.—Bozeman vs. Matsuyama.
3 p. m.—Hall vs. Bozeman.
8 p. m.—Hoppe vs. Cochran.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Willie Hoppe, for nearly two generations the idol of American billiard fans, will play Welker Cochran of San Francisco for the world three cushion championship at the Sherman hotel tonight.

This situation developed last night when Cochran got his first taste of defeat in the nearly two weeks old tournament out of which the new champion will come.

Cochran was crushed by the calm, deliberate shot maker, Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago, by a score of 50 to 37 in 45 innings. The defeat sends Cochran into battle against Hoppe with the championship at stake on even terms. Each has won seven games and each has lost one. Allen Hall of St. Louis handed Hoppe his lone defeat early in the tournament.

Balkline Stars Come Through.

Players in the championship match are almost total strangers to the staid three cushion billiard fans. Their heroes—the three cushion champs of other years—dropped by the wayside long ago in this tournament. Layton, Kieckhefer, Denton, Hall, Bozeman, and Reiselt tumbled into defeat at the hands of Hoppe and Cochran.

The situation is strange because both Hoppe and Cochran, the contenders for this newest three cushion crown, are old rivals at balkline billiards. Cochran is the world champion at the 18.2 balkline game. Hoppe has often held that title, but right now is the world champion at 18.1 balkline.

Cue Ball Hops to Floor.

Cochran was away flying, but Thurnblad was right at his coattail and took command in the eighth inning when a run of five sent him into a lead of 10 to 7. He actually ran six, but his cue ball became unruly, jumped off the table, and Thurnblad was penalized a point for the foul.

The smoothly moving Cochran was not to be downed easily, however. He scored three in the ninth inning and ten in the tenth to go back in the lead by a score of 20 to 14.

The lead see-sawed back and forth until a run of four in the twenty-third inning put Thurnblad well in front, 37 to 28. Marvelous bank shots, some of them clicking against five and six cushions before the count was made, had the crowd standing and cheering for Thurnblad by this time.

Ends With Run of 4.

Cochran, for the first time during the tournament, was plainly nervous after Thurnblad had turned in these marvelous shots. He never regained the lead. Calm and collected and master of the ivories always, Thurnblad moved methodically on toward the kill. It was a run of four in the 45th inning that ended it. Before the match started Cochran had ruled as the 2 to 1 favorite.

Thurnblad played championship billiards in this match, yet the two defeats at the start of the tournament have smothered his dreams of a title. He will be tied for second place with the loser of tonight's Hoppe-Cochran championship match and there will be a playoff for second money.

The championship game will start at 8 o'clock tonight.

Matsuyama, Bozeman Win.

In playoff matches for fourth place yesterday Matsuyama defeated Hall, 50 to 46, in 36 innings, and Bozeman won from Layton, 50 to 38, in 45 innings. This series will continue today.

In the evening playoff Matsuyama beat Layton, 50 to 45, in 60 inings.

New Season Attendance Mark Set at Ohio State

Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—(AP)—With a 1935 home game attendance of 252,950, Ohio State football fans have set a new seasonal record for the Buckeye stadium. The previous peak was 232,265 in 1928.

THOSE PINTAILS ARE BIG TEST FOR HUNTERS' NECKS

And Shoveler Duck Is a Startling Fellow.

BY BOB BECKER.

Although it's hard to beat the fun of shooting mallard ducks from a good blind when the birds are decoying, the other day when we were hunting with James Offield, Chicago, in one corner of Grand Island, near Bath, Ill., we decided that the pintails put on a more spectacular and enjoyable party for us than a thousand mallards could stage.

In fact, we would rather watch pintails work a stool of decoys than any other marsh duck. The way they look over a blind and decoys, and their crafty system of sailing around just out of range while making up their minds what to do, is one of the most delightful experiences in hunting waterfowl.

Necks Get Good Workout.

On this particular dark, misty morning the pintails started early to put our neck muscles out of commission by banking around and around our block decoys. As Jim remarked, it took a fellow ten minutes to unwind his neck muscles after a flock of sprigs had tied one up by their ring-around-the-rosy stuff. And you had to follow them, because sometimes they swung within range only when behind us and while crossing over the rear end of the blind.

There were times when we decided that we might wait until Christmas before these smart pintails would swing the way they should to give us the best shots. So we stood and took them high and climbing. Once both of us let go at a pair of these merry-go-round pintails that tried to sneak by on the left. We missed our shot clean, and only a skyscraper blast from Offield's repeater nailed one towering bird. It was winged, but was recovered after quite a chase. This pintail was so high that it seemed as if we waited five minutes for it to come down and hit the water.

Scooper Has Quaint Habit.

There are quite a few scoopers down there in the marshes. At least that's what Stubby Martin, the boss of our expedition, called the queer looking spoonbill or shoveler duck. They were always good for a shock, because all would be quiet in the blind when suddenly one of these funny looking spoonbills would cut across in front the blind and make everybody jump.

When the sky is so overcast and the visibility so poor in a misty haze that you feel you ought to burn flares to show the ducks that you have decoys and are open for business, there is nothing like a lone scooper quietly sneaking up behind you to give you a start.

With plenty of mallards to keep one busy, a sprinkling of pintails to put on an aerial circus, occasional spoonbills to keep you on edge, fast flying ringneck ducks to whizz past your blind, and flocks of geese high in the air to serenade you, hunting down there on Grand Island provides plenty of interesting sights and experiences for anybody in a duck blind.

Films of Irish Pass Play Fail to Settle Row

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Slow motion pictures of the Army-Notre Dame football game, shown today at the Pathe studios, failed to settle the argument over the play on which the Cadets were penalized for pass interference, on the two yard line, and the Irish thereby given their chance to score the tying touchdown in the last minute.

The pictures showed both Whitey Grove, Army half back, and Bill Grohs, quarter back, in proximity to Wayne Millner, Notre Dame receiver, but left a question as to what, if any, interference occurred.

Interference on Previous Play?

On a previous pass, where no interference was called, it appeared as though Mike Layden, Notre Dame half back, was more closely covered than Millner was on the subsequent and more critical play.

W. R. Crowley of Bowdoin, umpire of the game, who backed up the decision of the field judge, A. W. Palmer, saw the pictures and expressed the opinion they showed illegal interference. As Crowley saw the play on Saturday, Grove's left hand grabbed Millner's right arm at a moment when both reached for the ball.

The pictures, however, indicated Grove did not come in contact with Millner in any way until after the ball was grounded. Newspaper observers, at the film showing, were convinced there were no conspicuous grounds for calling interference.

Palmer Not in Position.

The pictures indicated Palmer was not in a good position to see the details of the play from his station near the sidelines, although he showed no hesitation in making his decision. Palmer did not ask Crowley for confirmation at the time. At his home in Haverford, Pa., today, Palmer declined to discuss his decision. He explained there was a rule against such discussion by the Eastern Association of Football Officials.

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Chief Little Wolf pinned Jim Browning at Madison Square Garden tonight. A crowd of 3,000 saw Little Wolf triumph with a flying tackle after 29 minutes 56 seconds of wrestling.

Operation May Save Career of Rochester First Baseman

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 18.—(AP)—John Mize, first baseman with Rochester of the International league part of last season, may still have a baseball future. Dr. Robert F. Hyland, physician for the St. Louis Cardinals, said today Mize was progressing satisfactorily after an operation for removal of a growth on the left pelvic bone. It was feared the growth might end his playing. Rochester is a Cardinal farm.

Cardinals to Play Tonight at Brooklyn

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Forced into idleness by last Sunday's rain, the Brooklyn Dodgers will oppose the Chicago Cardinals at Ebbets field tomorrow night in the first National Football league night game of the local season. The kickoff is scheduled for 8:30 o'clock.

A victory for the Cardinals will give the Chicago club undisputed possession of the western division leadership. They are now tied with the Green Bay Packers. If the Dodgers should triumph, it would put them back in the race for eastern division honors and bring them to within a half game of the New York Giants.

The two day postponement was welcomed by Coach Paul Schissler of the Dodgers as it gave four valuable players, Red Franklin, Ralph Kercheval, Carl Heldt, and Wayland-Becker, additional time to recover from injuries.

Kercheval and Franklin are slated to start in the back field along with Father Yumpkin and Stan Kopka. Milan Creighton, playing manager of the Cardinals, shifted his back field order from that which he had announced for Sunday so that Paul Pardonner, a superior kicker, replaces Phil Sarboe at quarter back.

The probable starting lineup:

| CHICAGO. | | BROOKLYN. |
|---|---|---|
| Creighton | L. E. | Riblett |
| Field | L. T. | Lubretovich |
| Handler | L. G. | Croft |
| Hughes | C. | Cohler |
| Volek | R. G. | Kirkland |
| Gordon | R. T. | Lee |
| Neuman | R. E. | Fuqua |
| Pardonner | Q. B. | Lumpkin |
| Russell | L. H. | Franklin |
| Nichelini | R. H. | Kercheval |
| Mikulak | F. B. | Kostka |

Referee—E. F. Hughitt [Michigan]. Umpire—B. A. Savage [Cornell]. Linesman—John Reardon [New Hampshire]. Field judge—Dr. O'Hara [Waterbury, Conn.].

Six Seniors to Play Last Game for De Paul Saturday

Six seniors will be in the starting lineup for De Paul university in the final game of the season against St. Louis Saturday at Soldiers' field. Co-Captain Joe Sullivan at left end, Ray Durkin at quarter, George Schwarz and Joe Wosik at guards, Walt Loess at left half, and Gene Cowhey at center are the seniors.

FOOTBALL GAME TONIGHT.

The Winkler Motor Service All-Stars, undefeated this season, will meet the Jefferson Park Bulldogs tonight at Litsinger park, Ashland and Wellington avenues. Both teams are members of the Midwest league.

BRONKO NAGURSKI PLANS TO PLAY AGAINST LIONS

Bear Star Reported Fit After Sunday's Action.

The Bears will resume practice today in preparation for the invasion of Wrigley field by the Detroit Lions Sunday with hopes that Bronko Nagurski will be able to play a good part of the battle.

Last Sunday against the New York Giants Coach George Halas permitted Nagurski to get into action for a few minutes. It was a surprise to the crowd, which gave Nagurski a big cheer.

Yesterday Nagurski reported that he felt fine and that he believes he needs only to harden up a bit to be in perfect condition. His return to active duty will add to the offensive and defensive power of the club.

Keith Molesworth, who was kicked in the ankle shortly after entering last Sunday's game, also is in shape, his injury being only a bruise.

Coach Halas was generous in his praise of the play of Bill Karr. George Musso, too, came in for a share of praise.

The Lions still are in running for the west section championship of the National Pro league and with Bill Shepherd, the star of the All-American-Bear game at Soldiers' field last August, in the lineup, are expected to make a general nuisance of themselves.

Shepherd, who starred at Western Maryland university and started the season with the Boston Redskins, was purchased by Detroit a few days ago.

BERWANGER IN GOOD SHAPE TO BATTLE ILLINI

Fareed, Whiteside Also Back for Maroons.

Fairly sound of limb but sore in spirit and anxious to forget the defeat by Indiana, the University of Chicago football team assembled yesterday for the final Monday practice of this season. The Maroons face Illinois at Champaign in the last game of the Big Ten schedule on Saturday.

The Chicago team should be in fairly good physical shape for the Illini game. Jay Berwanger, whose injury handicapped his play against Indiana, suffered no ill effects from his competition against the Hoosiers, and should be further improved by the end of the week. Omar Fareed, right half back who was held out last Saturday, will be back in the lineup this week and Sam Whiteside is expected to resume his post at center.

Coach Shaughnessy indicated yesterday that he will try to start the team which played so well against Ohio State, with Gordon Petersen and Bill Gillerlain at ends, Merritt Bush and Earl Sappinton at tackles, Prescott Jordan and Harmon Meigs at guards, Whiteside at center, Ewald Nyquist at quarter back, Berwanger and Fareed at the halves, and Warren Skoning at full.

Thomas, Wolfson Get Chance.

Three Maroons, Nyquist, Skoning, and Fred Lehnhardt, were hurt in one play early in the Indiana game but not seriously enough to be out of this week's practice. Elbert Thomas and Edmund Wolfenson will be given a chance to displace Jordan and Meigs at the guard positions. Scrimmage on both offense and defense was held yesterday for those who did not play much of the Indiana game. Long scrimmages for both the varsity and reserves is scheduled for today and tomorrow. Otto Strohmeier, who scouted the Illini Saturday, is teaching the freshmen Illinois plays.

WORK TO STOP BERWANGER.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—How to stop Jay Berwanger is the problem that will occupy the minds of Illini players this week as they prepare for their final game here against Chicago. As the Illini regulars, who battled so stubbornly against Ohio State, reported for light work, Freshman Coach Mills drilled his charges in Maroon strategies, with Jay Wardley, first year back, in the rôle of Berwanger.

Indiana's decisive defeat of Chicago lessened in no way the respect entertained for the threat the Maroons will make. Coach Zuppke told the Illini that Chicago, with Berwanger playing his last college game, will be keyed to the limit to close the season with a victory. The Illini have won close games by a single touchdown from Chicago for two years, with Berwanger threatening to break up the game every minute.

In addition to devising a defense for Berwanger, Zuppke started today to strengthen the offense. John Kanosky, sophomore half back, whose punting against Ohio State was consistently good, will remain at right half back and it is improbable there will be any changes in the lineup which played against the Buckeyes. Kanosky was practically the only player against Ohio State who is limping, but is expected to be in condition within a short time.

DUBLINSKY BEATS LETO AFTER SLOW FIRST 5 ROUNDS

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Harry Dublinsky of Chicago tonight outpointed Jimmy Leto of Hartford, Conn., New England welterweight champion, in a ten round bout at St. Nicholas arena. Dublinsky weighed 143¾ and Leto 142¾.

A slow starter, Dublinsky didn't open up until the fifth. From there on he punched his way into command and continued on his two fisted onslaught to the end.

This was the fourth meeting between the pair and it gave Dublinsky the edge with two victories to Leto's one. The other bout ended in a draw.

500 WESLEYAN STUDENTS MARCH TO CLAIM TROPHY

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Five hundred Illinois Wesleyan university students, accompanied by the university band, marched on their neighbors, Illinois State Normal university, today, and claimed the traditional gilded hatchet, won in Saturday's football game between the two schools.

Clifford Scott, Normal cheer leader, presented the hatchet to Hartford Larison, head of the Wesleyan cheering squad. The hatchet is never buried, but passes back and forth as games are won and lost between the twin cities schools.

Indiana Coach Picks 3 for A. A. U. Harrier Meet

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Track Coach E. C. Hayes said tonight Don Lash, defending champion; Tommy Deckard, and James Smith will represent Indiana university in the National A. A. U. cross-country meet Saturday at New York City. He said Indiana will not enter the Central A. A. U. meet at Lansing, Mich., or the central intercollegiate meet at Chicago.

Bodach Named Commodore of Lincoln Park Boat Club

Robert Bodach was elected commodore of the Lincoln Park Boat club at the annual election last night. William Exham was named vice commodore, Raymond Kerwin treasurer, and Max Deffner secretary. Other officers named were: Captain, Werner Dietrich; lieutenant, Arthur Skrabel; ensign, Walter Berry; directors, Richard Harders; Ralph Kerwin, Bert Anderson, and R. H. Green.

Purdue Turns Attention to Indiana Plays

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Plans for the return of the old oaken bucket to the Purdue campus were launched here this afternoon as the Boilermakers started preparation for their annual battle with Indiana at Bloomington Saturday. The Boilermakers concentrated on ways and means of halting the Indiana attack that appeared to hit its peak against Chicago last Saturday.

The vastly improved Hoosiers, with a great group of sophomore stars, are expected to turn in their game of the season against the Boilermakers in an effort to retain possession of the old oaken bucket which they won for the second time in ten years last season with their 17 to 6 upset.

Squad in Good Shape.

Considering the fierceness of the battle with the Hawkeyes, in particular between the two forward walls, the Purdue squad came through the game in remarkably good physical condition, and barring unexpected developments is expected to be at top strength for the invasion of Bloomington.

FOUR HOOSIERS AILING.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Four of the key men on the Indiana football team are on the ailing list, but are accorded an excellent chance to play against Purdue here Saturday.

Chris Dal Sasso, regular tackle, who incurred a knee injury in the Ohio State game, made the trip to Chicago Saturday, although he did not get into the game, and, if he is able to return to the lineup, the Hoosier forward wall will be considerably strengthened.

Roy Eads, regular right half back, who was benched by an ankle injury in the Maryland game, is the biggest question mark. The hard blocking little back has been hobbling out to practice for the last few days. But he is unable to do much running. The other cripples are Corby Davis, regular full back, and Bill Anderson, sophomore half back, who were hurt in the Chicago game. Both took light workouts today, however, and are expected to break into the lineup for at least part of the Boilermaker contest.

MICHIGAN STATE WINS I. C. A. A. A. A. HARRIER EVENTS

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Led by John Edward Bechtold, a skinny lad of 140 pounds, Michigan State for the third straight year today won the Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic association cross country run at Van Cortlandt park.

With Gene Venzke, Pennsylvania's great miler, offering an argument almost every step of the rain soaked five mile course, Bechtold sprinted in the final 250 yards to leave the former king of the indoor milers 20 yards to the rear.

Bechtold was clocked in 26:23.6. Venzke was caught in 26:28. The time goes down in the books as a new record, as it was the first time the event had been run over five miles—a mile shorter than in previous years.

While Bechtold was giving Michigan State its fourth individual title in six years, his teammates came rolling in among the leaders to pile up the low aggregate of 30 points. Kenneth A. Wait was in third place, Nelson J. Gardner, third last year, crossed the line in sixth position, with Gerard H. Boss ninth and Arthur Green eleventh.

Phils Sign Johnny Kerr, Hawaiian Pitcher, Outfielder

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Gerry Nugent, president of the Philadelphia National league baseball club, announced today the signing of Johnny Kea Kerr, Hawaiian athlete. Kerr is a pitcher and outfielder. He played with Buck Lai's Hawaiians during a tour of the United States last summer. Nugent plans to use Kerr as a pitcher.

CUTLER FIVE WINS, 36-26.

The Cutler Shoe Store team defeated the Davis Store, 36 to 26, at the Central Y. M. C. A. last night in the opening game of the Loop Basketball league. Salsman led the winners in scoring.

adolescent stage. Rhetoric takes its toll of prospective eligibles.

We did not talk with professors. An impression still exists among many professors that colleges still are educational institutions, and that impression seems to be growing everywhere. If Michigan adheres to this naive belief, Wolverine elevens may never again maintain for extended periods their past supremacy. They probably will not sink to the level of Chicago, where a similar theory persists, because of a larger undergraduate body.

It is reasonably certain, on the other hand, that Michigan will have its share of triumphs again no matter the reasons for current depression. The cyclic pendulum is on the up arc.

NORRIS TO HEAR PROPOSITION ON N. Y. AMERICANS

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Syndicate ice hockey seemed likely today as it was disclosed that Bill Dwyer, will leave for Chicago tomorrow in a belated attempt to save his heavily mortgaged New York Americans from his chief creditor, James Norris of Chicago, owner of the Detroit Red Wings.

After losing money at his Tropical park race track in Miami and running into the red with his hockey team here last winter, Dwyer borrowed a large sum of money from Norris early this summer to operate his Coney Island track near Cincinnati. He gave Norris an option to buy a controlling interest in his Americans for a sum said to be in the neighborhood of $150,000 as security for this loan.

Dwyer's Ohio track season was a flop.

NORRIS IS SILENT.

James D. Norris, Chicago grain broker, last night denied he had a deal on with Bill Dwyer, head of the New York Americans, relative to purchasing a controling interest in the eastern hockey team.

"I don't know anything about it," Norris said. "Suggest you wait until Dwyer appears in Chicago tomorrow."

MARQUETTE GETS WARM WELCOME DESPITE DEFEAT

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A crowd estimated by police at 6,000, twice the number that saw the undefeated Marquette university eleven leave here last Thursday, swarmed the Union station yards tonight to greet the returning players.

Stunned by the reception, Jack Lauterbach, a guard, asked "say, did these people get the score right?"

Temple knocked Marquette from the unbeaten ranks Saturday, at Philadelphia, 26 to 6.

Injured Stars at Michigan May Be Ready

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Still in fourth place in the Big Ten conference standings and apparently not at all convinced that their brand of football suffers in comparison with that Ohio State has been playing lately, the few ablebodied men left on Michigan's football squad started working for the Ohio game today.

The squad was heartened by the appearance of the two giant linemen, Tiny Wright, center, and John Viergever, tackle, injured in the Minnesota game, on the practice field and word that they probably would be able to play Saturday. In addition to Wright and Viergever, Jim Lincoln, sophomore tackle, and Capt. Bill Renner stood on the sidelines. Cedric Sweet, full back, hobbled around on crutches, the result of an ankle injury he suffered in the second quarter of the Minnesota game. Mike Savage, right end, spent the afternoon in the training room having an injured shoulder baked. It was said that all this group with the possible exception of Savage would be ready by Saturday.

OHIO REGULARS REST.

Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Most of Ohio State's first football team was given a part vacation today to recuperate from the battering received in the Illinois game here Saturday.

The second eleven worked out against the Michigan plays as presented by the freshman team, hampered by a drizzling rain.

With the first chance to share in a Big Ten championship staring them in the face since 1920, more than fifteen thousand rooters are making plans to attend the game with Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday.

All the Ohio players finished the game in good physical condition, Saturday, and with the exception of Quarter Back Stanley Pincura, all are expected to be ready to go against Michigan.

SECRET PRACTICE AT IOWA.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Coach Ossie Solem gave University of Iowa football players today off following the Purdue game, but served notice of intensive secret workouts before the final game of the season with Northwestern at Evanston Saturday.

"The gates this week will be locked to everybody," Solem said. "I have a very good reason for doing it, but I can't tell you more than that now." His statement was taken as an indication that the Hawkeyes will attempt new strategy and a different style of attack against the Wildcats.

Although all of the Iowa regulars escaped serious injury against the Boilermakers, most of the players were badly battered. Dr. Bill Hayne, team physician, said that Ozzie Simmons, full back, who was removed in the last quarter with an ankle injury, will be in top shape again in a couple of days.

Gopher Players Hear Chalk Talk on Badger Plays

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—University of Minnesota football players drew a vacation today before going to work for the windup game with Wisconsin at Memorial stadium Saturday. A chalk talk was the only order of business, with Backfield Coach Red Dawson leading the discussion on Wisconsin plays.

The Gophers had an unusual number of minor injuries because of the cold in which they played at Ann Arbor, but there were no injuries of serious consequence. Sheldon Beise, full back, whose shoulder was hurt, will be himself again in a day or two. Tuffy Thompson, shifty half back, turned his ankle, but he, too, will be prepared to go again Saturday.

Heavy practice will be on tap tomorrow with most of the work being done indoors. It was raining in Minneapolis today and there was promise of more of the same the next two days.

MORTELL BACK IN LINEUP.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin football squad opened its last week of practice this afternoon in preparation for the Minnesota game Saturday. The squad was somewhat battered in the Northwestern game, and Coach Spears excused the players who saw action against the Wildcats from scrimmage. Reserves went on defense against Minnesota plays enacted by the freshmen.

It was expected that Emmett Mortell, half back, injured late last week in practice, and Ed Christiansen and John Golemgeske, tackles, who were hurt in the Northwestern game, will be ready for the Gophers.

Having piled up 288 yards on forward passes against Northwestern, with Lynn Jordan doing most of the tossing, Spears intends to spend considerable time this week in sharpening the aerial attack. The Badgers' running game appears to have little chance against the Minnesota line.

SAM LANGFORD SERIOUSLY HURT WHEN HIT BY CAB

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Sam Langford, former prize fighter, was injured seriously today by a taxicab. Langford, who is partly blind, was taken to a hospital suffering from internal injuries.

Langford was crossing a street against the trafic lights when the taxi, driven by Eustace C. Eaves, also colored, made a left turn. Eaves honked his horn, but Langford, who was totally blind until he underwent a second eye operation last April, became confused and could not get out of the way.

Langford, now 49 years old, has been living in Harlem where, as in boxing circles, his ring career of 500 fights is still a lively tradition. He has been aided by small relief grants from the department of public welfare, which also has been paying his room rent.

Expect 50,000 at Notre Dame, U. S. C. Game

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—With a crowd of 50,000 in prospect, Notre Dame will close its season here Saturday against Southern California. More than 30,000 tickets, the best advance sale of the year for a home game, have been sold for the finale in which 17 of 19 lettermen from 1934 will conclude their Notre Dame careers.

Coach Elmer Layden excused the first two teams from practice today, but there was plenty of action for those players who did not appear in the 6 to 6 tie against Army, and for the freshmen and reserves who will demonstrate the intricate Trojan formations in practice this week.

Pfefferle Ready Again.

Bill Steinkemper, left tackle who replaced the injured Dick Pfefferle at left tackle against the Cadets, was hurt in the Army game and may not be able to play. Pfefferle, however, will rejoin the team after a three weeks absence with injuries received in the Ohio State game.

There is a possibility that Andy Pilney, left half back, and John Michuta, right tackle, will get into a few plays, but they are not being counted upon.

The student body greeted the team vociferously upon its return to South Bend this morning.

TROJAN BACK HURT.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Indication that Southern California will be without the services of Glenn Thompson, quarter back, when it plays Notre Dame at South Bend Saturday was given tonight when his name was missing from the list of 32 men who will make the trip east, starting tomorrow night.

Thompson, sturdy runner and excellent passer, was in the hospital as a result of an ankle injury. Coach Howard Jones worked Jimmy Henderson, a 200 pound youth who has been alternating at end and full back on the third team, at quarter back today.

North Central Adopts Rule Against Frosh

North Central college yesterday adopted the freshman rule prohibiting first year men from participating in varsity athletics, effective next September. Five Little Nineteen schools adopted the rule simultaneously, and with the four who have been using it for some time there are now nine conference schools under this ruling.

The five new schools include North Central, Millikin, Wheaton, Augustana, and Illinois college. Knox, Bradley, Monmouth, and Lake Forest have been playing under the arrangement for several years.

The rule has been adopted to affect only football and basketball. The other major sports, track, wrestling, swimming, baseball, and tennis will continue to use first year men. Freshman squads in football and basketball will begin practice a week later than the varsity, and a two game schedule will be arranged for the yearling squad in football involving one home and one away with freshman squads from other schools.

ST. MEL POINTS FOR LEO GAME, EYES CITY TITLE

Driscoll's Team Takes Six Straight.

A former college and professional football star, Paddy Driscoll, now coach at St. Mel, has stepped into the Chicago high school spotlight with a fast charging eleven which may bring the city prep football championship to the west side.

Driscoll's team, greatly improved over last season and undefeated in six games in the west division of the Catholic league, has another barrier to hurdle before obtaining the chance to gain the city title, however. It will meet Leo, east section champion for the second successive year, at Soldiers' field Sunday afternoon.

Plays Parker or Lindblom.

The winner of the league title will oppose the Chicago Public High School league champion, either Parker on Lindblom, on Nov. 30 at the lake front arena before a crowd of 75,000. The proceeds of the game will be turned over to Mayor E. J. Kelly's Christmas benefit fund.

Parker and Lindblom will stage their battle for the public school crown at Stagg field Saturday. The teams qualified for the final round last Saturday, Parker defeating Schurz, 13 to 0, and Lindblom scoring a 6 to 0 victory over Marshall.

St. Mel also will be seeking to avenge a defeat at the hands of Leo last year in the finals for the Catholic league crown. Leo went on to the city championship game, but lost to Lindblom, 6 to 0.

Better Than Last Year.

Driscoll expressed confidence that his team would make it a busy afternon for Leo. St. Mel encountered no difficulty in winning the west division title, and it was the only undefeated and untied team in the league.

"The team has played great football this season," Driscoll said yesterday. "It is much better than the 1934 squad which lost to Leo."

Leo staged a great uphill fight to qualify for the final round against St. Mel. Thrown into second place when it played a scoreless tie with Loyola, Leo returned to first place by defeating De Paul two weeks ago and last Sunday triumphed over De La Salle, 9 to 6, to win the sectional championship.

ROSS TELLS OF KNOCKDOWNS AT GARCIA'S HANDS

Champion Works Hard for Return Bout.

Barney Ross, welterweight boxing champion, yesterday gave his version of the two knockdowns he suffered at the hands of Ceferino Garcia at San Francisco in September as he prepared to open his third consecutive week of training at Trafton's gymnasium for a return bout with the Los Angeles Filipino fighter at Chicago Stadium Nov. 29. Much has been made of this accomplishment, handlers of Garcia contending that a short count, an abbreviated round and other happenings deprived Ceferino of a knockout. The champion recovered from the knockdowns, both of which occurred in the first round, to win the ten round decision.

"There's no question about my being floored twice in our first meeting," Ross said, "but as for being knocked out, that's the bunk. I will say, however, that if I wasn't in fine condition I would have been knocked out."

The champion then told his side of the story, for the first time, to a TRIBUNE reporter.

"Shortly after the battle got underway Garcia, a better than average boxer, dazzled me with his left and then crossed his right to my chin," Barney said. "The power behind the wallop caused me to drop to the canvas. I arose immediately, only to be met with another right to the jaw which floored me again. I got up for the second time and weathered the round. There was no count on either occasion."

Davey Day, lightweight stablemate of Champion Ross, followed Barney into the ring, going three rounds with Lou Vine in preparation for a ten round scrap with Roger Bernard, at Guyon's Paradise Friday. Davey appeared below the required weight of 135 pounds after the workout. Dick Axman, publicity director of the show, Carl Stockholm's first as a promoter, said Bernard would arrive in town today.

Bernard, who holds a decision over Ross, scored four years ago, has fought the outstanding featherweights and lightweights with a measure of success. The 28 year old Flint, Mich., battler has been knocked out twice in his six year campaign, the last time in 1932.

Ernie Kulasik, north side welterweight, has accepted a six round bout against Billy Miller of Milwaukee on Stockholm's card.

Charles Grubmeyer, Topeka, Kas., yesterday was selected to oppose Zack Malkov in the main event of the wrestling show at Merry Gardens tomorrow. . . . Dave Barry, Springfield featherweight, has been signed to substitute for Paul Estrada in an eight rounder against Moon Mullins on the card headed by the mixed boxing and wrestling match between King Levinsky and Ray Steele at St. Louis tonight.

Billy Celebron, former Chicago Golden Gloves welterweight titleholder, yesterday moved to the city from Rockford to finish training for his ten round bout with Lou Halper, Newark, N. J., at 124th Field Artillery armory Saturday. Celebron took the kinks out of the right hand which knocked out his last two opponents in one round each by tossing it at Young Jack Blackburn's chin for three rounds. Halper is due in town today. Sammy Scoglio has replaced Johnny Campbell in a four round preliminary against Sam De Pasquale at the armory. F. M.

C.Y.O. to Open Quarter-Final Round Tonight

Opening matches of the quarter-final round in the fifth annual C. Y. O. boxing tournament will be held at Loyola university gymnasium beginning at 8 o'clock tonight. Sixteen bouts—eight in class A and an equal number in class B—will be held.

Tomorrow night the quarter-final round for the south and suburban sections will be held at St. Bernard's parish gym and on Thursday the west section quarter-finals will be held at the 132d infantry armory.

Hold Finals Dec. 4.

Boys who will emerge victorious in the quarter-finals will advance to the semi-finals of the tournament Nov. 25 and 26 at the C. Y. O. center gym, 31 East Congress street.

The winners of the semi-final matches—16 boys in class A and 16 in class B—will then go through a tense week's training in preparation for the final championship bouts at the Chicago Stadium Dec. 4.

Garvey vs. Youngblood.

Topping the north section quarter-final card at Loyola university gym tonight are bouts in the 147 pound class between Ed Garvey and Bill Youngblood; 126, between Charles Allcoate and Pat Berne; 175, between Sigmund Ligocki and John Hawthorne, and in the heavyweight division between Terry Bannion and Mike Adler. All these boys are class A title contenders and are expected to put up stirring fights tonight.

LOYOLA COUNTS ON 3 VETERANS IN BASKETBALL

A twelve man basketball squad will be carried by Coach Lennie Sachs this year at Loyola university through one of the hardest schedules yet arranged for the team. Three veterans from last year, Marv Colen, Ed Calihan, and Ed Murray, are counted on to handle the attack while the other two positions still remain open. Gart Winkler and Bob Brennan, freshman numeral winners last year, are putting in strong bids for the positions with Bill Lynch, a guard discovered on the all-university intramural basketball champions last season.

INJURED HAWKS TO BE READY TO MEET TORONTO

Hold Light Workout for Game Thursday.

Tonight's Schedule

Detroit at New York Rangers.
Toronto at Montreal Maroons.
New York Americans at Boston.

The Chicago Blackhawks, leaders in the American division of the National Hocky league, yesterday went through a light practice on the Chicago stadium ice following their 3 to 0 victory over the New York Rangers Sunday.

Slight injuries to several members of the team in Sunday's game were given as the reason for the light workout. The Hawks will return to the stadium today for a more strenuous two hour practice in preparation for their game with the league's leading scorers, the Toronto Maple Leafs, at the stadium Thursday.

Louie Trudell, Art Coulter, Marty Burke, and Alex Levinsky were among those injured. Last night it appeared that all the cripples will be ready for action Thursday.

STADIUM'S MAT CARD APPROVED BY COMMISSION

The Illinois athletic commission yesterday approved the wrestling program at Chicago Stadium next Monday night. Dan O'Mahoney will defend his heavyweight wrestling title against Chief Little Wolf. The semi-final matches Jim McMillen with Pete Mehringer. Hans Steinke is matched with Fred Grubmier, Ernie Dusek will face Olaf Oleson, and Bobby Bruns is paired with Andy Raschier.

"Daddy, what's a Sales Quota?"

Yes, a lot of Daddies are talking half-forgotten language these days—words and phrases that three and four-year-olds have never heard before. One of these current puzzlers is "Sales quota." (It may be a puzzler for some of the Daddies before long.)

As business comes back, as money comes out of hiding, so does the old sales quota. As the public exhibits greater willingness to buy, up go higher marks for salesmen to shoot at.

The goals now being set in the automobile business are based on 1935 experience —a year in which long pent-up demand kept factories humming. The coming year will find a different picture. In the battle of the rival quotas, the responsibility for deliveries will be shifted squarely on to the sales force.

This means that dealers and salesmen will require the kind of help which newspapers can best give them—the kind of localized persuasion which the Chicago Tribune can best contribute in the world's second largest market for motor cars.

The readers of this newspaper buy most of the new cars sold in this market. At one of the lowest rates per 100,000 circulation in the publication field, it is economically possible to exert selling pressure throughout the year not only on your best Chicago prospects but on practically all of them as well.

A week-day circulation of more than 800,000 families and in excess of a million on Sundays testifies to the Tribune's ability to develop its own market opportunities, to fulfill its own sales quotas.

As a result, it is the Chicago newspaper which can give you the most help in fulfilling yours.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 18.—Low priced bonds continued their forward movement although the volume of dealings was considerably less than in the closing days of last week. Transactions totaled $15,382,000 par value.

An outstanding feature was Alleghany 5s of 1950, stamped and unstamped. Both descriptions sold well above their previous highs for the year. Advances of a point or more were recorded in By-Products Coke 5½s, Milwaukee General 4s, most of the Rock Island obligations, and Denver and Rio Grande 4½s.

Many Rails Move Higher.

Gains were also shown by International Paper 6s, Mercantile Marine 6s, Missouri Pacific refunding 5s of 1977 and 1981, Pittsburgh and West Virginia 4½s of 1958, St. Louis Southwestern first 5s and refunding 5s, several Southern Railway issues, Wabash refunding 5½s and 4½s, Western Pacific first 5s, Third Avenue adjustment 5s and Soo Line 4s and 5s.

The market for first grade corporate issues was quiet and little changed as investment bankers undertook the first of another important series of refunding bond issues.

Treasury Bonds Dull.

Treasury bonds were again extremely dull. Turnover for the entire list on the stock exchange was smaller than what is ordinarily considered a good day's business in a single issue. Prices were generally steady. Not much interest was taken in the afternoon bidding on the latest issues of treasury discount bills. The trend of rates has been downward for several weeks and dealers could see no reason for expecting a change at this time.

Italian bonds had another of their periodic weak spells as league of nations sanctions were put in force. South American issues were generally higher.

Minnesota Power and Light.

Investors' Guide: Please give me your opinion of Minnesota Power and Light 4½s, due 1978.—J. R. C.

Answer: Minnesota Power and Light company is controled by American Power and Light and is supervised by Electric Bond and Share company. It serves the highly industrialized iron and steel regions in the vicinity of Duluth and Superior.

The company operates under low rates and it does not appear likely, therefore, that there will be serious agitation for lower rates. Labor costs and taxes, however, have increased sharply, more than offsetting increased gross revenues. In the twelve months to Sept. 30, 1935, for instance, gross revenues advanced about 4 per cent from the preceding twelve months, but fixed charges were earned only 1.47 times, against 1.56 times in the twelve months to Aug. 31, 1934.

Fixed charges were earned 1.50 times in 1934, 1.50 times in 1933, 1.70 times in 1932 and 2.11 times in 1931.

The declining margin of coverage at a time when demand is increasing as a result of greater activity in steel mills is a discouraging factor.

On Dec. 31, 1934, current assets were $2,065,000 and current liabilities were $1,744,000.

The first and refunding 5s, due 1955, and the 4½s, due 1978, both equally secured, are somewhat speculative.

Registered Liberty Bonds.

Investors' Guide: I own quite a sum of United States fourth 4¼ per cent bonds which have been called. I did not exchange them for lower rate interest bonds and am still holding them. They were called Oct. 15. They are registered, but up to date I have not received my interest checks. This is the first time in twenty years that the interest checks have failed to come in on time. What would you advise me to do? I am worried about this money.—Mrs. B. M. M.

Answer: These bonds have been called for payment, which means that the maturity date has been accelerated—the bonds, in effect, matured on Oct. 15.

There is only one thing to do, and that is to send your bond through for payment. You will then receive a check for your interest and for the principal amount of the bonds you hold.

There is no point in continuing to hold the bonds, as they no longer bear interest.

FORTY MILLION UTILITY BOND ISSUE OFFERED

Large Ohio Edison Issue Expected Tomorrow.

Two large utility issues featured yesterday's financing news. Public offering was made of an issue of $40,000,000 Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation first and general mortgage bonds by an underwriting group headed by Blyth & Co., Inc., and an offering of $43,963,500 first and consolidated mortgage bonds of the Ohio Edison company is expected to be made tomorrow by a group headed by Morgan Stanley & Co.

Offering of the west coast utility's bonds will complete the immediate refinancing program of the Pacific Lighting corporation and its subsidiaries. The new issue consists of 4 per cent bonds due in 1970. They are priced at 102 and accrued interest. Proceeds from the sale will be used to redeem various issues of the company now outstanding.

Expect Details of Deal Today.

Details of the Ohio issue, which is to refund bonds now outstanding, will be announced today. It is expected that the underwriting house will follow the precedent it established by publishing detailed information about the issue in its advertisements. Most advertisements of security offerings since the passage of the Federal Securities act have been only bare announcements, with no details given.

Public offering is being made today of $2,450,000 first mortgage 20 year 5 per cent bonds, series A, of Canadian Utilities, Ltd., by an underwriting group headed by E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc. The bonds are priced at 93¾ per cent plus accrued interest.

Chicago Firm Wins Award.

A. C. Huyck & Co., Inc., of Chicago, was awarded a new issue of $300,000 City of Evansville, Ind., school bonds on a bid of 100.33 for 3¼s. The bonds are dated Nov. 1, 1935, and mature serially from June 15 and Dec. 15, 1937 to 1951.

The New York Central railroad has applied to the interstate commerce commission for permission to issue or reissue up to 75 million dollars in promissory notes. Security for the notes will be 175 million dollars of the road's refunding and improvement 5 per cent mortgage bonds.

GREAT NORTHERN RY. PLANS $100,000,000 CONVERTIBLE ISSUE

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—W. P. Kenney, president of the Great Northern Railway Co., today notified stockholders of a plan to float a $100,000,000 convertible bond issue.

The bonds, if approved by a special stockholders' meeting in St. Paul, Minn., on Dec. 20, will be issued to help meet the maturity on July 1, 1936, of the company's $101,266,000 general mortgage 7 per cent bonds, series "A".

Subject to stockholders' action, the company intends to create a new series of general mortgage bonds, the letter said. The bonds would be "convertible into the stock of the company at a price or prices bearing such relation to the then market price as will afford a reasonable prospect" of early conversion of a large part of the issue and the ultimate conversion of all of it, it was stated.

The bonds will be offered first to the stockholders in proportion to the amount of stock held. Subject to such an offering to the stockholders, the company may also take steps to sell "on not more favorable terms" any of the bonds not taken by shareholders.

PRICES OF COTTON FUTURES ARE 3 TO 12 POINTS LOWER

Relative weakness in Liverpool and increased hedging pressure brought a decline in cotton yesterday. While there was fair trade buying on the dip, the close was at net losses of 3 to 8 points in Chicago and 4 to 12 points in other markets, with the October delivery dropping most.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to 10 points lower, with New Orleans, 12.25 cents; New York, 11.20 cents, and Galveston and Houston, 12.05 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

BUSINESS VIEWS ON TREATY WITH CANADA DIFFER

May Hurt Farmers, Aid Manufacture.

Opinion was divided in Chicago yesterday regarding the reciprocal trade treaty with Canada which will go into effect on Jan. 1. Interests which depend largely on agriculture, particularly live stock, were not favorably impressed. Manufacturers were more complacent. Labor was critical of provisions which might let goods into this country at the expense of American jobs.

R. H. Cabell, president of Armour & Co., packers, issued the following statement:

"It appears that the treaty will tend to benefit the consumer of meat and dairy products, but it will probably have little effect at the moment on the producers of these products in the United States because our current production is abnormally low.

Sees Burden on Farmers.

"It cannot be denied, however, that if the live stock population in the United States is restricted to a normal basis the treaty will tend to burden our producers of meat and dairy animals. It remains to be seen how severe that burden will be and whether it will be offset by other economic benefits."

Farmers coming into the Chicago stockyards with live stock complained about some provisions of the treaty. For example, they pointed out that while the tarif is reduced on cattle weighing over 700 pounds it remains the same on live stock coming into the country weighing less than this amount for feeding purposes. The farmers said the tarif on heavy live stock is reduced at a time when they have been reducing the production of hogs, which, in turn, has helped cattle raisers.

Thus, they say, the government encourages reduction of production while making it easier for cattle to come in. They conceded that the quota system might modify their complaints to some extent.

Grain Men's Views.

Grain dealers saw little to benefit or to harm them except indirectly. Bernard W. Snow, statistician with Bartlett, Frazier & Co., said: "Indirectly our domestic grains are affected by the lowering of the duty upon Canadian whiskies, which will have some result in decreasing our domestic distillation from grains."

Speaking for manufacturers, James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, said:

"Illinois manufacturers whose trade with Canada has been curtailed owing to the high Canadian tarifs will view with satisfaction the new reciprocal trade treaty between the two countries. Some of the favored items are printed matter, meats, lard, engines and boilers, nuts and bolts, castings and forgings, all of which are manufactured in considerably quantity in Illinois.

"On the other hand, manufacturers whose commodities will be subject to competition with Canadian manufacturers will not regard the treaty so favorably. These include makers of whisky, acetic acid, and electric cooking stoves."

American Owned Plants Affected.

Joseph E. Otis Sr., president of the Stewart-Warner corporation, looked at the treaty from the standpoint of an American manufacturing company having a plant in Canada.

"Unless tarifs on goods imported into Canada from the United States are lowered to a point where it will not pay us to manufacture in Canada, I cannot see where the treaty will do us much harm," Otis said. He indicated that tarifs which would permit American goods to enter in competition with American owned plants might lead to abandonment of such plants, which might be costly.

WHAT NATION THINKS

Nationwide reactions to the provisions of the new United States-Canadian trade treaty were reported by the Associated Press as follow:

DENVER, Colo.—The American National Live Stock association compared the treaty to "a single break in a dam or levee," following which "the

Banks Protest but Can't Stop Federal Waste

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Despite all the tall talk at the bankers' convention in New Orleans last week about banks putting pressure to bear on the politicians to stop wasteful spending, and despite a series of anonymous reports from New Deal headquarters in Washington to the effect that the time has arrived when the deficits are to be tapered off, the situation now is exactly what it was three, six and twelve months ago.

The bankers are helpless to resist. Many of them proclaim loudly the folly of "spending for prosperity" and predict that continuation of that policy will result in chaos. But they are powerless to do more than talk. As long as the government continues to spend extravagantly in excess of its revenues the banks will continue to lend the difference.

They have no other choice. To "boycott" government bonds, as suggested by Banker Orval Adams of Salt Lake City, would mean the collapse of the market for government bonds already outstanding with the consequent impairment of the capital of banks throughout the country.

The only value of criticism of governmental extravagance such as was voiced at the bankers' convention lies in its possible effect upon the voting public. The bankers can't check wasteful political spending. They cannot even stop providing the funds which make possible the continuation of that spending. But the voters can do something about it. Apparently some such reasoning has prompted the decision of the American Bankers association to embark shortly upon a nation-wide program to "take the mystery out of banking."

In any nation the credit needs of the central government are always paramount. The banks have to go along. They are left no choice. In a dictatorship the process of forcing banks to finance the extravagances of government is short and simple. An order is given and it is obeyed. In a democracy the process is a little more complicated but it is none the less effective and inevitable.

In the United States the banks of the nation had to adjust their affairs to satisfy the credit needs of the government during the world war. Afterward, the resultant credit inflation followed by the collapse of 1929 overwhelmed many bankers in the consequences of a financial program in the making of which they had no voice. Even had they been able to foresee these consequences, however, they would have been powerless to resist.

During the war the credit needs of the German government forced the banks to lend much money to the government. After the war Germany, unable to pay it back or even to raise enough money to pay current expenses, resorted to printing press money. The German banks were as powerless to resist their government's spending as the banks in this country are today to check federal extravagance.

Once a government's expenditures begin to exceed its income somebody must lend the difference. And when, as is the case in the United States today, few lenders other than banks are willing to continue lending, then the banks have got to carry on indefinitly. To fail to do so would mean to jeopardize the loans they have already made.

Meanwhile, the anonymous rumblings of possible tapering off of the federal budget seem to have no discoverable basis. No government official has made any promises. Gov. Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board last week skirted the subject in a talk to the bankers in New Orleans, but he said nothing that could possibly be used against him later in case the political extravagance continues.

The situation, therefore, appears to be unchanged.

LATE REALIZING ERASES EARLY GAINS IN STOCKS

Sentiment Is Bullish Despite Reaction.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—A reactionary wave hit the stock market late in the last hour today, erasing gains of 1 to 3 points and driving many issues well below Saturday's closing figures. Even the late profit taking, however, which affected virtually every section of the list and was encouraged by sold out bulls looking for an opportunity to take up new positions at lower levels, could not dissipate the bullishness of the session as a whole.

The market climbed fractions to more than 3 points in heavy dealings before the belated setback. Total transactions for the day amounted to 3,230,520 shares.

Many New Highs Reached.

Many stocks ran up to new highs for the year or longer in early dealings as bullish sentiment feasted on a number of favorable items in the day's news. This week the steel industry will move up to an operating rate of 53.7 per cent of capacity, the highest since the middle of June last year. With a firmer tendency in prices the street now considers the industry in good position and its rising activity is held to reflect better trade throughout the country.

Another constructive factor was the action of directors of du Pont in favoring the stockholders with a special bonus of 1-55th of a share of General Motors common.

The rails took the lead in early dealings, but gave way to the steels and utilities after failing to gain much more than fractions. Great Northern was a strong spot, reaching a new high of 32¼ before retreating with the rest of the market. United States Steel and Bethlehem also reached new high marks before reacting.

Utility Shares Prominent.

Utility shares came into prominence in the afternoon and demand for some of them was considerable. Consolidated Gas went to a new peak of 34½ on heavy demand. Pubic Service of New Jersey also bettered its best price of the year.

Another strong section was the mail orders. Montgomery Ward scaled 40 for the first time this year and Sears-Roebuck moved up over a point, though it closed well below its best point of the day.

In the motor sector Chrysler and General Motors scored new highs before selling off. Chrysler closed over a point lower, while Motors gave up a major fraction.

Silver mining shares reflected the inflation course in the market. Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, and United States Smelting showed gains at the close ranging from fractions to a point. The oils were distinguished only by a gain of 3 points in Standard of Kansas.

Southern Pacific to Spend Million on Air Conditioning

Southern Pacific company announces it will spend $1,100,000 in 1936 for air conditioning its equipment.

Court Wants Middle West Plan Changed

Expressing surprise at creditor objection to his suggested modifications of the proposed plan for reorganizing Middle West Utilities company, principal holding company of the old Insull system, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday indicated that he will not approve any plan not in general accord with his suggestions.

He appointed a committee of three to discuss the proposed modifications with all interested parties and to work out a plan suitable to all. The hearing was continued until today and will be extended from day to day until the parties come to an agreement.

Shaw Heads Committee.

Walter A. Shaw, engineer and utility expert, who has been special adviser to the court for some months, was named chairman of the committee. Others chosen were Daniel C. Green, trustee of Middle West, and his attorney, William J. Froelich.

"I thought I was waranted in assuming that my suggestions would be received differently," said Judge Wilkerson. "There must be a provision for the stockholders to share in the future prosperity, if any, of the company before the plan will be approved."

Judge Wilkerson also indicated he will insist on another provision set forth in his memorandum—that the court retain a measure of control of the reorganized company, especially with regard to sale of assets, possible dismemberment, and salaries of top officers.

Split on Stock Division.

The plan proposed by banking creditors and approved by noteholders and preferred stockholders, as well as a substantial minority of the common stock, was modified to give stockholders slightly less than a 10 per cent stock interest in the new company instead of offering them warants entitling them to purchase approximately a 26 per cent interest for an outlay of $7,000,000 to $11,000,000 over a ten year period.

The court is insisting that in addition to the 10 per cent outright interest stockholders be given warants to purchase more stock at $5 a share in the event the company prospers in the future, thus affording them an opportunity to recoup part of their losses. The creditors, on the other hand, assert the 10 per cent interest is a gift, because the company is not worth as much today as it owes its creditors.

STEEL PRODUCTION ESTIMATED HIGHEST IN LAST 17 MONTHS

Steel production will rise to the highest rate in 17 months, according to estimates made yesterday by the American Iron and Steel institute on the basis of reports from a majority of the industry's units.

Institute placed output this week at 53.7 per cent of plant capacity, a gain of 1.1 per cent from the 52.6 per cent figure last week, and the best since the week of June 18, 1934. This compares with 27.6 per cent of capacity a year ago and 51.8 per cent a month ago.

This will be the sixth consecutive week of operations exceeding 50 per cent of capacity.

LIQUID CARBONIC PROFIT DOUBLED IN FISCAL YEAR

Liquid Carbonic corporation yesterday reported a net profit of $903,273 after all charges and taxes for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30. This is equivalent to $2.58 a share on the 350,000 shares of capital stock outstanding, compared with $463,212, or $1.32 a share, in the preceding fiscal year.

W. K. McIntosh, chairman, in his report to stockholders, said October net shipments were 17 per cent above last year and for the first seven weeks of the new fiscal year there was an increase of more than 40 per cent in orders for soda fountains, bottling machinery and other equipment.

The company closed its fiscal year with a net working capital of $7,385,627, compared with $7,698,766 a year ago, the decline being slight in view of an expenditure of $1,450,000 during the year for new buildings and equipment. Net sales for the year were $11,012,808, compared with $9,210,443 in the preceding fiscal year, a gain of 19.5 per cent.

Charges New Deal Dodges Price Blame

Providence, R. I., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Asserting that the Roosevelt administration is seeking to dodge its responsibility for the rising cost of living, Melvin T. Copeland, professor of marketing at the Harvard graduate school of business, told the economic club here today that the rocketing of prices has only begun unless the administration changes its policies.

"The administration now clearly is becoming frightened at the effects of the policy announced so clearly in 1933," said Prof. Copeland.

Drouth Is Alibi.

"The drouth, instead of being welcomed as an aid, is being used as an alibi, and an attack on business is being launched. In plain words, the administration is now trying to skulk away from responsibility for its own acts.

"The campaign to shift the responsibility is almost certain to result in unwholesome bitterness and grave injustice. It is not fair to judge all business men by occasional malefactors. If the new campaign were to be successful it would be disastrous."

Results of Program.

He pointed out that hostility to business would cause reduced sales and smaller income. This, in turn, would postpone recovery through slackening of business and would reduce the federal government's income from its major source, taxation of business and its profits, since direct taxes are so unpopular, he said.

"If the general public does not pay for this [Roosevelt reform] program either by direct taxes or through higher prices which yield larger taxes on profits, it will pay eventually in other and still more costly ways," he said. "The radio words of our friendly President might be paraphrased: If Santa Claus cannot collect his bill in one way he will collect it another."

Du Pont Pays Gen. Motors Stock as Extra

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. directors today declared a dividend of 1-55 of a share of General Motors common stock on every du Pont share, payable out of the du Pont company's temporary investment in General Motors stock, which is carried on the company's balance sheet separately from the company's investment in 10,000,000 shares of General Motors.

The du Pont directors also voted the regular quarterly cash dividend of 90 cents. On the basis of 11,065,704 shares of du Pont outstanding, the stock dividend payable in General Motors shares will require 201,194 shares of the latter. At current market value the stock dividend is worth about $11,870,000, or slightly more than $1 a share on du Pont stock.

Paid Extra in September.

On Sept. 14 the du Pont company distributed to its stockholders an extra cash dividend of 35 cents a share, in addition to the quarterly 90 cents, the extra representing income received from General Motors extra dividends, plus a contribution from the du Pont company's earnings.

The du Pont balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1934, carried an item, "Other securities and investments at cost or at subsequent revaluations [including temporary investment in 200,000 shares of General Motors corporation common stock at cost]," at $28,887,079. The 10,000,000 shares of General Motors stock held by the du Pont company and itemized separately are now carried at $16.20 a share, or $162,000,000.

The regular dividend is payable Dec. 14 to stock of record Nov. 27. The stock dividend payable in General Motors shares is payable Dec. 27 to stock of record Nov. 27.

Other Concerns Pay More.

The Rapid Electrotype company declared a dividend of 80 cents on the common stock, payable Dec. 15. This compares with payments of 60 cents in the previous two quarters.

Lake Shore Mines, Ltd., voted an extra dividend of 50 cents on the common stock, payable Dec. 16.

Wright-Hargraves Mines, Ltd., announced an extra dividend of 5 cents on the common stock, payable Jan. 2.

The Associates Investment company voted an extra dividend of 30 cents on the common payable Dec. 31.

The Vichek Tool company voted a dividend of $4 and a stock dividend of $20 [payable in preferred stock] on the 7 per cent preferred.

BOSTON STORE NETCHER SALE BEST SINCE 1929

Response to the Boston Store's Netcher day sale yesterday was the best for that event since 1929, H. G. Hart, vice president and general manager, said last night. Volume held up well all day and most departments were unusually active, he added.

"Response to the sale is a forerunner of a greatly increased volume of Christmas shopping this year over the last few years," he said.

"We sold a large amount of goods for delivery just prior to Christmas. However, business was not confined to those departments. Household furnishings and wearing apparel departments did a large business. We are pleased also with telephone and mail orders, which were the largest in several years."

UTILITIES BALK AT SEC RULES; PLAN TO FIGHT

May Move to Enjoin Control Act.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Utility holding company managements at this time are almost a unit in the decision not to register with the securities and exchange commission under the provisions of the utilities holding company act of 1935, according to reports in utilities circles here today.

[Assoc. Press Photo.]

Final decision, it is understood, will rest in a number of cases upon the action to be taken by directors prior to the deadline on Dec. 1, and if these uphold the opinions of the officials who run the great companies, a legal battle of major proportions is indicated.

Several Courses Open.

The utilities may take the initiative by bringing action against the commission in the federal courts prior to the deadline, thus seeking by injunction to prevent the commission from invoking the provisions of the act.

Three main courses are open, among others, to the utility companies:

1. Have a stockholder bring a suit in equity in the state where the holding company was organized and has its principal offices to enjoin the management from registering.

2. File bills of equity in District courts to enjoin the United States attorney and commission.

3. Seek an injunction in the federal courts of the District of Columbia to enjoin the commission.

MAGILL EXPLAINS COURSE.

Final decision as to registration of public utility holding companies under the new utility act must be made by each of the different utility companies, Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Investors, declared yesterday.

"However, the investors in these companies are most vitally concerned," Magill said. "They have most at stake if their companies should jeopardize their rights by registration which would place these companies in the clutches of a burocracy under a law so drastic and so unreasonable that it has been declared unconstitutional in its entirety by a federal court.

"The best legal talent seems to be quite unanimously of the opinion that if the companies register under this act they will thereafter be deprived of the right to carry on even the normal processes of their business without burocratic approval, and that will thereby seriously impair their rights to protest against the unconstitutionality of the act."

BUSINESS VIEWS ON TREATY WITH CANADA DIFFER

May Hit Farms and Labor, Aid Manufactures.

remainder of the structure soon begins to crumble and eventually to collapse." F. E. Mollin, secretary of the association, declared "unquestionably the ratification of the Canadian agreement will tremendously strengthen the move already clearly in evidence for repeal of the entire reciprocal trade act."

Joseph A. Shoemaker, president of the Denver Union Stockyards, termed "unsatisfactory" the reduction of tarif on cattle from Canada. "I think it is foolish to allow importation of more cattle when we raise plenty of cattle here," he said.

Fears for Dairy Farmers.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Asserting the dairy industry had fared much better than it had expected under the trade agreement with Canada, a spokesman for American butter makers said, however, he saw in the reduction of the cheese tarif "an element of danger to American dairy farmers."

A. M. Loomis, Washington representative of the American Association of Creamery Butter Manufacturers, said he believed the Roosevelt administration had used good judgment "both politically and economically" in refusing to reduce the duty on Canadian butter, but expressed fear of an influx of cheddar cheese as a result of the lowering of the duty on that product.

COLUMBIA, Mo.—William Hirth, president of the Missouri Farmers' association and once chairman of the corn belt committee, called the American-Canadian trade agreement a "truly constructive achievement."

Steel and Motor Views.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—Steel executives said decreases in Canadian tarifs will be of little help to them. They said British manufacturers, given preference under empire trade agreements, would continue to hold virtually all the tin plate, sheet, and wire business, which they took from American steel mills long ago.

DETROIT, Mich.—Detroit automobile manufacturers congratulated President Roosevelt on the trade agreement. Robert C. Graham, chairman of the export committee of the Automobile Manufacturers' association, telegraphed the President that the agreement "represents effective government coöperation with industry and agriculture in stimulating world trade."

HOUSTON, Tex.—Shipping, banking and business leaders attending the National Foreign Trade council convention expressed enthusiasm over the new trade agreement.

"The agreement will be hailed with general satisfaction as evidence of the desire of these neighboring countries to improve their commercial relations and to provide mutual opportunities for an expansion of their trade," said James A. Farrell of New York, chairman of the council.

Attitude of Distillers.

NEW YORK.—Seton Porter, president of National Distillers Products corporation, said his company would not be greatly affected by the treaty.

"About 90 per cent of our whisky business in the first nine months of this year," he said, "has been in whiskies of under four years of age, selling in the low price range, which will not be affected by the reduced duty which applies only to whisky of over four years of age."

James D. Mooney, president of the American Manufacturers' Export association, said at New York there was "not the slightest doubt" that trade would broaden and that "even the people who think they will be hurt will benefit."

Dr. Claudius T. Murchison, president of the Cotton Textile institute, said the treaty would result in a considerably expanded market for American cotton textiles.

GRAINS TRAVEL NARROW COURSE; END IRREGULAR

War Sanctions and Treaty with Canada Ignored.

Grains fluctuated narrowly yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade and closed irregular. The session was devoid of feature except for a modest amount of eastern buying in the wheat pit which was believed to represent short covering. December wheat gained ⅛ cent a bushel, but other contracts were unchanged or slightly lower. Corn was mixed, oats barely moved and rye was steady to a fraction higher.

Neither the imposition of economic sanctions on Italy by members of the league of nations, nor announcement of terms of the new reciprocal trade treaty between the United States and Canada had any affect on prices. Rumors last week of changes in duties on wheat imports, which had sporadic effect on the market, proved groundless. Details of the pact disclosed no changes.

Other Markets Are Weak.

Weakness of wheat in Minneapolis, Winnipeg, and Liverpool resulted in some selling here, but the amount was not sufficient to precipitate a definite break. Closing prices of principal December futures in Chicago follow:

Broomhall reported harvesting has started in the southern hemisphere and receipts at ports will soon start to increase. Australia is usually a month ahead of Argentina and wheat should start to move in quantity from the interior to Australian ports next month and to Argentine ports in January. He says there probably will be keen competition to dispose of this wheat.

Canada Has Free Hand.

In the meantime, Canada will have a free hand in disposing of her large supplies, with the possible exception of a little wheat coming from the Black sea area.

Commercial visible supplies of wheat declined 988,000 bushels last week, compared with a decrease of 2,348,000 for the same week last year. This carried total stocks to 76,526,000 bushels, against 95,700,000 existing at this time in 1934. The corn visible increased 68,000 bushels, oats gained 112,000, and rye increased 138,000.

Relative heaviness in cash corn prices retarded activity in futures to a mild extent. Spot prices were unchanged to 2 cents lower with premiums easing a half cent from Saturday. Cash brokers yesterday were faced with a situation not existing since the world war when it was disclosed that public elevators in Chicago had no corn whatsoever in storage.

Inquiries should be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Items of general interest will be published.*

Southern Illinois Coal Cheaper.

Oak Park, Nov. 16.—I have a three flat brick building and each apartment has six rooms. A steam boiler supplies heat for all three suites. The boiler has a mechanical stoker and last winter we used 32 tons of southern Illinois coal. This coal costs considerably less per ton than Virginia or Pennsylvania coal of the same size and some of our neighbors say we would get more satisfactory results at less expense if we used Pocahontas screenings. I would like your advice on this. K. M.

Answer—The heating values of southern Illinois and Pocahontas screenings are practically the same, and with a mechanical stoker southern Illinois coal will deliver as much heat per pound as the eastern coal. When we consider the difference in cost due to the freight rates from the mining districts, and the similarity in heat values obtained through the use of a stoker we advise you to continue using Illinois coal.

NEW TRADE PACT INSPIRES RISE IN BUTTER AND EGGS

Announcement of the details of the United States-Canadian reciprocal trade treaty over the week-end dispelled uncertainty in the butter and egg futures market. Many of Saturday's sellers turned to the buying side yesterday and the close was ⅝ cent higher on futures, with November and December at 31⅛ cents per pound. The cut of storage movement of butter at 10 cities last week was 2,000,000 pounds in excess of the corresponding period in 1934.

Sales of butter were 124 cars; eggs, 81 cars; cheese, 1 car, and potatoes, 4 cars. Prices follow:

NEW BUS RUNS ON HIGHWAYS OR RAILROAD TRACK

Assert Vehicle Cuts Cost of Operations.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A motor bus which is able to run between cities on steel railroad tracks and then leave the rails, when desired, to use the public highways and streets is one of the features of the automobile show at the International amphitheater.

Manufacturers of this new medium of transportation, the Evans Products company, Detroit, assert that by supplementing the streamline train, which is superior for long runs, it will be a new feature to win the public back to the railroads.

This new bus, which is in effect a gasoline automobile running on rubber tires, possesses retractible steel flanged guide wheels to hold it on the steel rails. The motor is an ordinary gasoline power plant such as is used in automobiles.

Claim Sharp Cut in Costs.

The manufacturers assert that the auto-railer, as the new bus is called, would cut railroad operating costs sharply. They estimate the mile cost of operation for a 12,000 pound vehicle at 9.6 cents, including depreciation and taxes, and 13.9 cents for a 17,500 pound vehicle.

The vehicle, which is built for either passenger or freight transportation, is reported to be especially adapted to the needs of branch lines such as have been abandoned in great number in recent years. It is able to operate over city streets, picking up passengers or freight, and then return to the rails to run over the private right of way of the railroad.

Coach Air Conditioned.

The model which is on view at the amphitheater seats 27 passengers. The interior is somewhat similar to that of cars in the new Diesel electric streamlined trains. The coach is air conditioned in summer and winter, and lighting is indirect.

The buses while on railroad rails have about 25 per cent of their weight carried by the guide wheels and 75 per cent by the pneumatic wheels, the makers say. Largely supported by rubber tires, the riding qualities of the cars are especially comfortable.

The driving power is derived through the rubber tired wheels. According to the manufacturers, the traction obtained from rubber against steel rails is six times that of steel against steel and is considerably greater than rubber against concrete.

TECHNICAL FRAILTY OF LARD MARKET BRINGS SHARP DROP

Lard futures declined sharply yesterday, scattering selling disclosing a lack of aggressive support, and the December delivery at the inside was off as much as 37½ cents from last week's close. Stop loss orders were uncovered on the decline. According to provision brokers, the drop was due to a large extent to the weakened technical position, as shorts had covered freely last week. Closing trades were at net losses of 10 to 35 cents.

Cash lard closed at $13.37; loose and leaf, $13.25, and clear bellies, $18.12 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:

NEW YORK COURT RULES STATE NRA LAW IS INVALID

Book Firm Loses Attempt to Halt Price Cutting.

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The New York fair trade act, enacted by the state legislature as a state substitute for the defunct NRA, was declared unconstitutional by Justice Frederick P. Close in State Supreme court here today.

The decision was rendered in dismissing an injunction action by Doubleday, Doran & Co., to restrain R. H. Macy & Co., New York City department store, from selling Doubleday-Doran books under a stipulated price contracted in accordance with the fair trade act.

Justice Close held that the control of price cutting lay without the jurisdiction of the state legislature and could be legally authorized only by amendment to the constitution.

Assails Powers Granted.

In holding constitutional amendments necessary to control of price cutting, Justice Close said:

"Another defect is the attempt to give to private persons unlimited powers over the property of others. Unless the courts are prepared to hold that by placing his brand upon a commodity, the producer retains a property right to that commodity until it reaches the hand of the consumer, so that he may fix its price at every stage of distribution, this statute must fall.

"A law may be devised to bring about this result, but the defects in this act are so seemingly patent that it must be declared invalid."

Attorneys for Doubleday, Doran & Co., announced they would seek permission to carry the case to the United State Court of Appeals.

Fixed Price Stipulated.

The fair trade act—New York state's "little NRA"—authorizes the producer of trade-marked articles, in competition with similar commodities, to include in sales contracts a provision that the buyer will not resell the article except at a fixed price.

R. H. Macy & Co., the publishing company alleged, was underselling Doubleday-Doran Bookshops, Inc., with whom Doubleday-Doran had a sales contract.

The act, in this respect, then provides that any one willfully selling contracted articles at less than the stipulated price must pay damages to any party injured, even though that party is not a party to the contract.

NATIONALISTIC POLICIES FLAILED BY TRADE CHIEF

Exporters Urged to Extend Latin American Deals.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Sharp criticism of advocates of economic self containment by nations and a plea for careful business investments in Latin-America to extend American trade, were made here today in two talks before the first general session of the annual National Foreign Trade convention. Foreign trade leaders from all parts of the nation are attending the meeting.

James A. Farrell, chairman of the foreign trade council, assailed those who advocate that each nation try to live within itself, while Charles E. Spencer Jr., vice president of the First National Bank of Boston, urged this country to exert greater effort to obtain Latin-American business.

Assails Self Sufficienists.

"Mistaking temporary emergency recovery measures of a nationalistic trend for the settled and permanent policy of countries that are forced by domestic exigencies to resort to protective methods, self sufficienists in America hail the emergence of quotas, exchange manipulation and other obstructions to import as the dawn of an economic revolution and the end of international trade as the world hitherto has known it," Farrell said.

Farrell insisted that with improvement in business conditions throughout the world these artificial trade barriers will be removed.

"Anything which tends to restrict unreasonably the natural flow of international commerce must react prejudicially upon national foreign commerce and jeopardize that proportion of our surplus exports which makes all the difference between profit and loss for domestic industries keyed to production for both home and foreign consumption," Farrell continued.

Ignore Certain Factors.

"The contention that 10 per cent of our total production sold abroad is of negligible account leaves out of consideration the higher averages, up to 50 and more of certain commodities dependent upon foreign markets. Three of our leading agricultural commodities, cotton, grain and tobacco, are at present adversely affected by domestic policies which have caused a decline in sales abroad that involve the livelihood of millions of our people."

Spencer discussed the huge investments made by European nations, particularly Great Britain and Germany, in the last century, which he said gave them a great advantage in securing trade. In urging this nation to invest in business in Latin America, he said this country should not look upon investments and trade with Latin America as a distinct foreign development but rather as an extension of the domestic market.

— — — EX-CONVICT. — — —

Two years' experience in a penal institution of high national standing. Contrary to Lombroso's theories, I am minus the underslung jaw, taking ways and baby-killing ambitions. My references [jail included] describe me as young, traveled, an excellent secretary-stenographer-correspondent, and possessed of business judgment [apologies to press agents]. While the market for penal alumni is admittedly in a slump, here's an "Ex" who believes his value to an employer is enhanced BECAUSE of the experience, and, for a good judge of human nature, I am and will be a good investment. Anywhere and anything—with reservations. ADDRESS H 280, TRIBUNE.

Gratefully I tell you that it was the best move I ever made. I made a living, saved a little money, and really learned the profession which has made living conditions better for my loved ones each and every year.

I have helped others get started and if you are sincerely looking for a real job where you can make an honest living with opportunity for advancement, see me. Our product is an electrical unit. The compensation is on a very liberal dealer's percentage plan where you receive extra pay for extra hours.
